We talk story.

Thank you Christopher. Can you please send me the info of the name of the family homeowners and of the husband who was murdered and previously lived in the house that the agent in your office listed for sale and sold last year? Do you have the info of the buyers of this property last year and the disclosure of such history to this house? Is there reference to a Press Democrat news article of this unfortunate botched gang home invasion? The address and who the current buyers and homeowners are please. It sounds more like a set up and a contract killing of this particular man who resided at this address. Was this ever investigated by the Sonoma County Sheriff's Office? Were any of the suspects ever named? This is all public information.

You know, street gangs (any of them) are not known for high levels of I.Q. nor do they have any recognition and/or association or connection to the American mafia. Gangs make many mistakes in life. This is all done and manipulated through being self proclaimed and reputation on the streets with ties only to cartels and certain AXIS organizations. In other words their existence is based on fantasy and make believe orders through their own channels of command. It's like playing a video game online or being brainwashed to be in certain places at certain times with direct voice commands in their heads. This very dangerous because this is reality to them. They cannot decifer between fantasy and reality because of their piss to pour parental upbringing. No parental guidance when growing up. Kids who basically raised themselves and were sexually molested are key ingredients to this fantasy gang existence and to their profiling.

Do you have any suggestions or have any cheap properties that have come up for sale in the Russian River/Occidental area? Bodega Bay area? Jenner? Rio Nido? Monte Rio? Camp Meeker? Guerneville outlying areas?

This is not common knowledge but the DEA division of Sonoma, Lake and Mendocino Counties (CA) law enforcement divisions have their own hit squads. In fact many law enforcement agencies and police as well as sheriff offices have hit squads. No trial when fugitives are found. It is still in existence today by the federal/ local law enforcement divisions for finding fugitives at Indian reservations as well as at large throughout society. Al Capone had a brother in law enforcement. It is run through the Capone family line of law enforcers.

You might ask the listing agent for the property on the coast that I previously mentioned to you (5471 Sierra Grande, Bodega Bay $79,000) and it was said this building lot was part of a homeowner's association and was a no go, is that another similar homeowners association namely the Lake Pillsbury Ranch Homeowner's Association and Board of Directors in Lake County, CA consists currently of members of the Jim Jones Universal Church and Peoples Temple Death Cult. I believe there is another homeowner's association called the Sea Ranch in the vicinity of your coastal region as well. Hidden Valley Lake homeowner's association in Lake County, CA, homeowner associations and property in Napa, CA and at Lake Almanor, CA are also included in the Jonestown Death Cult repetoire. They seem to take over certain targeted families and family properties by forced means of red national socialism.

Heidi,

My apologies for the delay as I just got back from vacation yesterday. Moving down the list; the gangs and cartels to my knowledge have dimmed down quite a bit. There was a few moments the last few years were there was some stories even through the grape vine in our industry of them being a problem and causing some serious mayhem around the grow operations. As a matter of fact, an agent/colleague in my office sold a home just last year that belonged to a homeowner who's husband was murdered. It was an acreage property with misc structures on it that was used as storage for the family business and all of the merchandise and misc tools. Without rambling on, in short; their house was raided because there was rumors of a grow operation there (there was not), and at the end of the day, the poor husband was shot before the suspects fled the scene once they realized there was nothing going on. That's the story of the day.

As of lately, there hasn't been much news published or even in the industry of trouble for these types of operations.

- Did you find out any information from the County of Sonoma for starter medicinal marijuana plants and licensing for cultivation?
  - I inquired about this and to be honest, they asked so many questions in regards to licensing, how many plants?, have we gotten approval from the MCRSA?, Have we gotten what they described as "Local Approval?, State Cultivation License?, ETC ETC.
  - They knew instantly I wasn't the one really asking, so they recommended to put you in touch with the County of Sonoma as there is overwhelmingly A LOT of information.
  - They also referred me to the below link that entails permitting, zoning, and much more. Almost like a step by step.
  - https://sonomacounty.ca.gov/Cannabis/Permits/Cultivation/
- Has anything come up in your listings that might be of interest?
  - Nothing as of yet. Being that I just got back, I am now updating myself on the new listings while I as away, so let me take a better look and I will get back to you if I find some potential spots. I think I may have to take a 2nd trip down to the county as there is A LOT of requirements as far as the minimum sq ft needed for cultivation, a minimum distance away from public schools, etc.

Hi Christopher,

I did more digging into the cultivation of Thai weed. It came to my attention no matter what the state and county legal licensing and business licensing is for the starter medicinal marijuana plants, federal law can still come in and shut it down.

I have a good rapport with the DEA in Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake Counties. I will contact them about this subject and of growing starter plants and then transporting them to Lake County for cultivation and selling to the medicinal marijuana THC processing plants.

My concern is the bad guys in the area who will be the problem not only to me but to law enforcement as well. I'll see what they suggest. If this is okay or not.

Are the gangs and cartels still a problem in California? They really are a pain in the ass to any type of marijuana growing unfortunately. No one wants to deal with their problems.

Did you find out any information from the County of Sonoma for starter medicinal marijuana plants and licensing for cultivation?

What does a property have to be zoned for this type of business?

Has anything come up in your listings that might be of interest?

Good Morning Heidi,

My pleasure, that's what I am here for. As far as to why the septic permit is so expensive, overall permitting is expensive in Sonoma County, CA. I would honestly have to either call or visit the PRMD here in Santa Rosa and talk with the permitting department to get further more in-depth details. To answer your question about more properties within the same price range, there is nothing that cheap around Sonoma County. I have heard further north like in Lake County land is significantly cheaper for what your trying to accomplish. There is often properties that come up similar near the Russian River indeed. May I ask how many acres you are looking for and your price range? I would be more than happy to keep a look out for you as my office is less than 20 minutes away from this area.

If you can email me the full rundown of your price range, property details, and preferred zoning, that would be a great start.

Hi Chris,

Thank you for getting back to me regarding this property. Why is the septic permit so expensive? Is this done through the County of Sonoma? Does it have to be engineered?

Do you have any properties for sale in this price range that a person could use with water available and where a septic tank can be placed for marijuana growing for the legal sale of permitted medicinal marijuana growing? Just for starter plants? The starter plants will be transported to another county for maturity and cultivation. Zoned Ag and/or agricultural - residence? Electricity is not an issue but would be nice. Everything is solar now. Or just a cheap lot for this purpose any where in the Russian River area?

Good Morning Heidi,

My apologies for the delay on the email below; I received a failed attempt to send so I think I made a typo on your email when I tried to send it yesterday but I didn't realize the failed attempt alert until this morning.

I spoke with the listing agent for (71 Van Ness Ave, Camp Meeker, CA 95419), and gathered some info for you.

I know your biggest question yesterday was the water situation. The water on the property is only hooked up to the garage as of now. The water is provided by a Mutual Water Source System in Camp Meeker. One of the BIGGEST reasons why this property is listed so cheap is due to the fact that there is no septic system installed yet. Before the septic system can be paid for and installed, the permitting still needs to be completed which is estimated around $35,000 just for the permitting. Per the listing agent, this has been a problem so far with most buyers.

Also, the listing agent informed me that there has been A LOT of activity and they are expecting an offer ASAP today!

Please let me know if you have any questions at all and if this is still something you have desire in, let me know so I can keep you informed of what happens with the offer if/when received.

Subject: child support order recieved in mail and your office protecting a criminal using the family system to commit fraud and criminal offenses

Dear Mr. Steve Wolfson< District Attorney;

I Peter Deiana in proper person, refuse from this day forward to be bullied, threatened and treated with such a disgusting disregard to my civil and constitutional rights by your office, the family court system as a whole and the attorneys that continuously get well compensated for openly helping their clients that have the financial means to hire these dirtbags commit serious offenses; criminal offenses and hide them from prosecution under the cover of the family courts. Now this isn't true for all litigants; It stands true if you are of the female sex you very easily can get away with serious serious criminal offenses, offenses that carry felony d and worse charges! In my particular cases (plural) the justice system we know as family courts has failed me twice. completely ruined my life to where i've contemplated taking my own life. both these women have committed serious criminal offenses against myself your office and the courts. I have more than enough proof; I have presented my obligation of proof in the first case with Rebecca Deiana, Stiltz, and whatever she has changed her name to now, Hinkle I believe. Multiple jurisdictions multiple courts multiple child support offices multiple counties and states and always the legal system fails to take responsibility and do what they are obligated to do.... RIGHT THE WRONGS AND PUNISH THE CRIMINALS> It has been shown to me over and over again that the judges that have been elected to their benches fail us as men over and over and over again because it is much easier for them to continue their careers under the cover of "the norm and acceptable" then to take a stand and risk the persecution by their piers then to believe that the things that I and i'm sure 1000's o other men have accused these women of doing; THAT IN FACT THESE WOMEN ARE VERY CAPABLE OF COMMITTING THESE GROSS AND COMPLETE LACKING OF REMORSE AND MORAL STANDARDS IF ANY STANDARDS AT ALL!!! Somebody needs to take a stand and change your spineless practices and start prosecuting these women and judges and attorneys that are ruining; completely ruining countless lives day in and day out and at day end never giving them another thought as the add to our homeless, add to our drug addiction epidemic, add to the horrible rise in suicides and worse of all add the number of children that grow up without a father, when the father wanted nothing more than to be a father to that child and the growing number of our youth that are suffering from mental instability issues handed down from you officials showing total disregard to the long term consequences of your actions. When did we stop caring about what was right and wrong and right in front of our faces and start ruining lives because this book says here says such and such is the only scenario possible and this party should always be given no doubt to the statements being true. Over the last six to seven months I have studied so much on family law and scenarios that are documented as case study and opinions and turned into the bible on how to deal with certain offenses, to the point that nobody has to think nobody has to use common sense just open the book and the book will cast a shadow on the offending party and on with the ruining of lives we go. so much studying it literally made me sick to see how many regulations and statues as case studies and laws where written and published being completely sexiest and against the man from beginning to end. That is what got us here today, it started a movement by these women that should be stripped of their parental rights for doing these acts toward and directly affecting the innocent children the family courts says they act in the best interest of. Completely not A TRUE STATEMENT ON THE COURTS PART. iF i CAN TAKE THE N.R.S THAT EXPRESSES HOW THE SYSTEM SHOULD COME TO THEIR CONCLUSION ON THE BEST INTEREST OF CHILD, AND I can with out a doubt that these women especially Ashley have violated ever one of the regulating factors of these guidelines and ultimately gets ignored and swept aside by rebuttals of complete lies false allegations and perjury and all out fraud. Well I am going to be making that stand myself!!! I WILL NOT GO ALONG WITH EITHER COURT ORDER OF SUPPORT FROM THIS DAY FORWARD. Instead I will be continuing this front against both parties, the courts and the lawyers at fault for letting these behaviors and actions continue on without consequence but with out a doubt is ruining countless amounts of lives day in and day out. This needs to change. I have written a great number of emails to a great number of agencies and offices about the specifics of my current case or onset of false allegations, false police reports, crimes against my person and crimes against public, perjury, fraud upon the courts, fraudulently presenting herself as a victim of specific domestic violence acts that she Ashley, actually committed against myself in the direct presence of my children, child abduction and serious onset of alienation.Alienation of affection; a multiple year onslot of alienation delivered by my wifes mother directly and personally. And more, all provable, most are very obvious. obvious and very provable case of multi state criminal conspiracy involving a minimum of 5 individuals which includes but not limited to false testimonies/willingness to provide false testimonies, to do with false criminal allegations to gain imprisonment of myself and judgements in my wife's favor. including my wife's attorney, her brother her mother her father her friend and our babysitter Jamie Houston resident of enterprise, southern highlands in southern las vegas and runs a day care that is past legal capacity on most days in reference to license, employees, space and number of children. Her brother Rob Mcclelland resides in albuquerque new mexico, Mother and father Kathi and Bob McClelland from Tucumcari, new mexico and own 2 pharmacys and is currently under their second serious investigation by the pharmacy board for illegal practices and distributions of controlled and dangerous drugs. It should be known I am a main witness and have provided a great deal of evidence in this case with the pharmacy board of new mexico and these people know this to be true and I propose a threat to their fraudulent and illegal lifestyle. Attorney is Gary Zernich and is very privy to all this information and knows it to be true and has taken a personal interest toward destroying my character and continues to help his client in her hidden and illegal agendas. Now know all these statements to be very true and that I do hold evidence and proof to all accusations i have made in this statement and all others I have written and will continuously write and distribute thru out until Justice; true justice prevails. And I will take this to the upper courts and will continue to insist somebody of authority stands up and takes charge and these individuals are rightfully charged and prosecuted with the criminal charges they deserve and my children are reunited with me and my civil, personal and constitutional rights are no longer being violated. I will not tolerate being illegally and fraudulently being stripped of my rights to a father/child relationship for 6-7 months now; completely denied over 600 attempts at visitation will also being abused under the cover of the family courts. And I definitely will not fund these women's fraudulent and illegal activities with $1600.00 a month in judgements against me. I havent made $1600.00 a month in at least the last 3 months!!!! and recently find myself unemployed. Even though my wifes reward from success in her agendas against me is becoming a million aire (no longer cut off from family money and inheratances by her mother) I will have no argument to taking care of my responsibilities but not under these circumstances. I will prevail in complete reversals in both cases. If you feel that it proves a point or somehow helps or fixes anything by putting me in jail, then so be it. I will add wrongful imprisonment to the fight and will immediately continue my fights for justice against the unbelievable actions of these women the second and every time I am released.

Thank you in advance,

Pete Deiana

Subject: [Marketing Mail] RE: Gov-ERM on July 24

Carolyn —

I wanted to make sure you had a chance to see the agenda for our upcoming Gov-ERM forum. With fraud, cyber, and operational risks growing each year and with new mandates like A-123, it's ever important to stay on top of these issues.

We'll have guidance from the White House Budget Office at the event, along with several case studies from government agencies that will be especially insightful.

Can I get you an agenda?

Thanks,

–Jonathan Copeland

Subject: Gov-ERM on July 24
Date: Thursday, June 22, 2017

Carolyn —

Are you sending someone to attend Gov-ERM Government Enterprise Risk Management Forum on July 24? Space is limited and I wanted to make sure we can accommodate someone from your program area.

New mandates (such as A-123) require each government program to undergo a comprehensive risk assessment and formulate and submit risk mitigation plans.

Have you examined your program's fraud risk, cyber risk, and operational risk? Gov-ERM will show you how to do it all while mitigating those risks through improved internal controls and changing the culture of your agency to be more risk-aware.

The White House Budget Office will present their guidance on risk management and we'll hear best practice case studies from several government agencies.

Would you like to see an agenda and/or RSVP for a seat today?

Best,

Jonathan Copeland

EXPERT ANALYSIS

OPINION: Our Juries Are Being Circumvented

The Freddie Gray case and the U.S. Supreme Court ruling regarding former Virginia Governor Robert McDonnell demonstrate how the government replaces juries, eliminating an important community decision maker and a check on governmental power, says Professor Suja Thomas of the University of Illinois College of Law.

Justice For Servicemembers Act: A Look At The Big Picture

If recently introduced bills providing for a so-called Justice for Servicemembers Act are enacted into law, the decades-long evolution of service members' rights could take another significant, evolutionary step. Whether that step would be advisable will be subject to debate, says David Henderson at Nutter McClennen & Fish LLP.

What To Know About NY's New Cooling Tower Regulations

As a response to a 2015 legionellosis outbreak in the Bronx, New York's recently finalized cooling tower regulations include broad definitions of what qualifies as a covered cooling tower and who may be deemed an owner, and additional requirements for hospitals and residential health care facilities, say Libby Ford and Jean McCreary at Nixon Peabody LLP.

New Tax Rules Curtail Benefits Of Pass-Through Leases

New IRS regulations addressing certain investment tax credit issues in a so-called "pass-through lease" structure will change the financial modeling of both historic and energy investment tax credit inverted leases and make them somewhat less attractive to tax equity investors, say attorneys with Mayer Brown LLP.

6 Months Since Iran Sanctions Relief: Lessons And Forecast

The last six months offer important lessons about the scope of sanctions relief that the U.S. and other countries provided to Iran in exchange for curtailing its nuclear program. Attorneys at Ropes & Gray LLP discuss the willingness — and unwillingness — of companies and financial institutions to engage with Iran in this new regulatory environment.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

Attorneys from Jackson Walker LLP secured a rare reversal of a Patent Trial and Appeal Board ruling in a suit over a client's fracking patent, placing them at the top of this week's list of legal lions, while Greenberg Traurig LLP wound up a legal lamb after a Rhode Island federal judge disqualified the law firm from a suit against its former client Hasbro, finding a clear conflict of interest.

DC Court Upholds Its Ability Send Fee Cases To Arbitration

The D.C. Court of Appeals on Thursday rejected a lawyer's challenge of a D.C. Bar rule that gives the court authority to compel arbitration when a present or former client requests it in a fee dispute.

Hello Carolyn,

. My name is Tamara Higgins. My father was Howard Hargett. He used to be Oscars legal researcher before he passed away in 1989.

1 year ago today his sister passed away. Our entire family legacy...is now being robbed from us for lack of a better term, by the exetrix.In a nutshell, estate is located in Monroe, NI have pointed out fraud, deceit etc. But being a little town where everyone grew up and just stayed...
she is being able to get away with it.

I did hire an attorney. However he has done nothing. Now a year later, in the dark, we are being told if we dont settle he will withdraw as counsel.
I am in desperate need to be pointed in the right direction from someone I can trust.

I do apologize for reaching out to you at work. But can you please give Oscar this email. And ask him if he could suggest what steps to take.

With the utmost appreciation,
Tamara Higgins

Subject: Re: Stop coddling illegal aliens in Las Vegas

Mayor Goodman,

Thank you for your acknowledgement. Please read my summary of "Adios America" below.

Also, because some people are more influenced by feelings than facts, I thought you might be interested in my summary of this NYT book review, "Against Empathy: The Case for Rational Compassion" by Paul Bloom:

"Empathy, he argues, is a poor moral guide.... favouring the one over the many... empathy is untampered by reason, emanating from the murky bayou of the gut. He prefers a kind of rational compassion - a mixture of caring and detached cost-benefit analysis. ... To those who say empathy is essential to morality, he would reply that morality has many sources. Many 'wrongs' - like littering or cheating on your taxes - have no distinct victims to empathise with. Nor does it appear that the most empathetic people behave the most ethically. There have been hundreds of studies... the results are 'meh'. ... empathy is generally a bad tool to use for allocating resources. ... is part of the reason why governments and individuals care more about a little girl stuck in a well than about events that will affect millions. Consider parenting... almost all parents have a terrible time tolerating the discomfort of their children. Yet it's often essential (going to the dentist, doing homework, spending a night away from home). ...rationality in political domains often does seem to be in short supply."

"Adios, America!" by Ann Coulter. Excerpts below:

1. For forty years, the people have tried to tell politicians they want less immigration, but the politicians won't listen. Every single elite group in America is aligned against the public - the media, ethnic activists, big campaign donors, Wall Street, multimillionaire farmers, and liberal "churches." They all want mass immigration from the Third World to continue. Both political parties connive to grant illegal aliens citizenship and bring in millions more legally, and the media hide the evidence. ... How immigration is changing our country is a lot more important than most of the "news" we hear about endlessly. The media will pound away at Chris Christie's 'Bridge gate', apocryphal fraternity rapes, the Augusta National Golf Club's membership policies, 'white privilege... But getting the truth about immigration is nearly impossible. The media tell us: ... Immigrants are doing the jobs Americans just won't do: Americans are perfectly happy to do all manner of jobs - they just won't do them for $7.00 an hour. Unions used to care about that, but now they just want political power.... Amnesty will be Fantastic for the Economy: Unless we're talking about the Mexican economy, this is patently ridiculous. Adding another 30 million poor, unskilled, non-taxpaying, welfare-receiving people to America is good only for government workers and employers who refuse to mechanize their operations or pay Americans one dollar more. ... The problems stemming from unchecked immigration are all over the news. You'll just never be told they are problems of immigration - children living in poverty, childhood obesity, teen pregnancy, out-of-wedlock births, abysmal high school dropout rates, income inequality, 'homegrown' terrorists, massive Medicare frauds, internet crime, identity theft, prison overcrowding, the vast number of uninsured used to justify Obamacare, sex trafficking, the epidemic of child rape, the destruction of our national parks, drunk driving casualties, drug-resistant tuberculosis, measles and other viral outbreaks, bankrupt government pension, low reading and math scores and shorter 'Americans'. ... why is it a crisis that illegal aliens are 'living in the shadows'?... It's supposed to be uncomfortable to break the law. ... How did all those illegal aliens get into the shadows in the first place? They weren't kidnapped and dragged across the border... But 'living in the shadows' is evidently better than living in Guadalajara, otherwise, there's an easy solution. Democrats aren't big on amnestying other lawbreakers. they don't hysterically demand amnesty for accounting cheats or polluters - not even for "the children" of accounting cheats and polluters. Enron executives were hard workers. They loved their families and wanted the best for them, just I'm sure MS-13 gang members love their families.... When the bathtub is overflowing, the very first thing you do is: TURN OFF THE WATER. ... obviously, any amnesty functions as a magnet for more illegal aliens. Nothing shows the bad faith of amnesty advocates with more blinding clarity than their steadfast refusal to seal the border. Ordinary people see this and know they're being lied to. ... China built a thirteen-thousand mile wall several centuries before Christ, and it's still working. ... For whom is a 'world without borders' an ideal? People who don't much care for America, I gather. ... Congress has repeatedly voted to build a border fence. But somehow, the fence never gets built - and Congress does nothing. ... amnesty supporters tried a surprise argument: To stop illegals pouring across the border, congress had to pass amnesty. They were hoping to stun us into silence with the stupidity of their argument. ... The 1986 Simpson-Mazzoli Act was supposed to end illegal immigration forever: Give us amnesty one time, then: Never again. As with all laws that combine the bitter with the sweet, such as tax hikes and spending cuts, we got one and not the other. The amnesty came, but the border security never did. Illegal immigration sextupled. There have been a half dozen more amnesties since then... . "The moral thing to do" is usually defined as "following the law." ... To paraphrase what President Bush used to say about terrorists: The anti-amnesty side has to be perfect every time; the pro-amnesty side only has to win once. Then the country is finished. 2. ... shouldn't politicians be more concerned with what citizens think of them than what foreigners do? ... Wouldn't any sane immigration policy be based on the principle that we want to bring in only immigrants who will benefit the people already here? ... Try calling another country's embassy and asking to immigrate there. Consulate: What do you want? You: Well, I can't read or write, I have no skills, and I've got nine kids. Oh and by the way. If I can't make it in your country, would you mind cutting my family a check once a month? ... Our "family reunification" policies mean that being related to a recent immigrant from Pakistan trumps being a surgeon from Denmark. Our government does such a terrific job at choosing who gets to immigrate to America that 52 percent of legal immigrant households with children are on government assistance. In all, nearly 60 percent of immigrants - legal and illegal - are on government assistance, compared with 39 percent of native households. Why would any country voluntarily bring in people who have to be supported by the taxpayer? ... The immigrants get a taxpayer subsidy to work for the rich, and the rich get a break on the maid. This cozy deal is funded by the long-suffering middle class. The anti-American crowd used to dash off to fight with Communist insurgencies in Third World jungles. But the fun of being self-righteous was sometimes cut short when they ended up in prison.... Rather than hating America from abroad, today's radicals can hate it right here at home by bringing the Third World to America! ... Being openly hostile to America has become a part of ethnic pride. US Rep Luis Gutierrez calls on his own country (technically the USA) to "stop the deportation of our people . ... Gutierrez told Newsweek that he has "only one loyalty, and that's to the immigrant community."

Whose taxes will be raised to make up the shortfall? Not the people who don't pay any taxes at all. Employers don't care. They want the cheap labor NOW.... We're seeing exactly what Vladimir Lenin is supposed to have said about capitalists: 'They will sell us the rope with which to hang them.' ... Whey shouldn't employers be on the hook when their cheap labor becomes a public charge or commits a crime? ... An immigration law premised on the idea that America owes the rest of the world would be bad enough. But Third World immigration + massive welfare state + political correctness = The end of America. 4. America is not the natural state of the world. The natural state of the world is Darfur. The British Empire spread Anglo-Saxon culture around the globe - Protestant morals, individualism, and the rule of law. Most British colonies rejected those values. Only the ones populated by actual British people -

America, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand - managed to hold on to them and, as a result, prospered. The empire's most successful experiment was the United States. Anyone who hesitates for a moment to recognize that some groups have it over other groups in producing free and prosperous nations has been brainwashed beyond reclamation.

5. America has already taken in more than one quarter of Mexico's entire population. ... Is that diverse enough yet?

Why is it better that the ethnic population of our country be changed? ... Immigration of the past half century has been a homicide made to look like a suicide. ...a natural process? ... It's more like Americans are trying to stop an Army Corp of Engineers project that will flood the valley where they live in order to build a hydroelectric plant that will help one powerful corporation.

6. ... Until 1970, American immigrants did better than the natives - as any sane immigration policy would require. They made more money, bought more houses, and were more educated. By contrast, the post-1970 immigrants are far more likely to be unemployed and live in poverty that the native Americans. More that a third of the post-Kennedy act immigrants don't even have a high school diploma. ... In some bizarre notion of turn-about-is-fair-play, it is assumed that backward societies have the right to relocate to the countries of their former colonizers. I thought they hated those guys (the colonizers)? ... In just a few decades, Minnesota has gone from being approximately, 99 percent German, Dutch, Finnish, Danish, and Polish to 20 percent African immigrant, including at least one hundred thousand Somalis. And that's not counting the Somalis who have recently left the country to fight with al Queda and ISIS. One hundred thousand is just an estimate. We don't know precisely how many Somalis the federal government has brought in as "refugees" because the government won't tell us. ... Kate Towle, the parent leader of a high school group called "Students Together as Allies for Racial Trust" explained that diversity skills "have to be developed like math, history." Maybe it would be better for students to be learning math and history, rather than the important skill of getting along with Somalis. It doesn't seem to be working anyway. There are still violent ethnic brawls that send students to the hospital. What did we do to Somalis? ... absolutely nothing. But now these immigrants, who arrived yesterday, will get affirmative action over white Americans. ... Luckily, every Somali in Minnesota who has a job works for an ethnic grievance outfit - for example, the Somali Justice Advocacy Center, the Somali Resources Aid Associates, the African Development Center, and the Confederation of Somali Community in Minnesota. (And those are just some of the jobs being created by immigrants!). ... half of Somalis in Minnesota unemployed and 80 percent living at or below the poverty level... Recent mass murders committed by legal immigrants: The seven people murdered by Chechen immigrants Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev, who planted a bomb at the Boston Marathon, the four people fatally shot in a Carson City IHOP by... the Mexican-born Eduardo Sencion, the thirteen soldiers killed at Fort Hood by Major Nidal Malik Hasan, son of Palestinian immigrants, the thirteen people murdered by Vietnamese immigrant Jiverly Wong, at an American Civic Association in Binghamton, New York, the thirty-two people murdered at Virginia Tech by Seung-Hui Cho, a South Korean immigrant.... no one notices the immigrant crime wave because the media hide the evidence.

8. When did Americans get together and decide we want 30 percent of all immigrants to be from a single country and that country should be Mexico? If we're going to take almost all our immigrants from a single country, why not Denmark? There appears to have been only on Danish prisoner in New York State in decades - and, again, that was a Muslim. ...nearly 90 percent (of criminal aliens imprisoned in the states in 2009) were from one of eight countries: Mexico, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Jamaica, El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala. ... What other country on earth would be so stupid? We have studies showing Hispanics are underrepresented in Hollywood, at top colleges, in the federal government, and in the national media... You know where else Hispanics are underrepresented? In the US military. You'd never know it... but Hispanics are half as likely to enlist in the military as either whites or blacks. ... Hispanic males in the US are more than three times as likely to spend time in prison in their lifetimes than white males. ... The vast majority of all drugs in America - heroin, cocaine, marijuana, and increasingly, methamphetamine - are brought in from Mexico. Most of the heroin sold in the US is grown south of the border, and Mexican cartels transport nearly all of it. ... More than 40,000 Americans were killed from all illegal drug use in 2010, surpassing car accidents and shootings as a cause of death. ... Today, China is once again battling drug smuggling because like America, it also has a poor, corrupt nation with a massive humanitarian crisis on its border; Not Mexico, but North Korea. Guess what China did? It built a fence! Despite stern warnings from the New York Times, China put a thirteen-foot barbed wire fence on its border, patrolled by armed guards. And you know what, it's working! ... Is an American citizen more likely to be murdered by a Muslim terrorist or by a Mexican? According to CNN, 29 Americans have been killed in Islamic terrorist attacks in the US since 9/11. I don't know why they excluded 9/11, so by my count, it's 3,029. In fact, let's round it up to 4,000 to cover the last several decades. According to the GAO's extremely conservative figures, Mexicans alone - forget other immigrants - have murdered a minimum of 23,000 Americans in the last few decades. ... If this were happening in Israel, forget a fence - Netanyahu would be bombing Mexico. ... President Eisenhower put a general in charge of the INS, who proceeded to round up and deport illegals in an operation dubbed "Operation Wetback." HBO's Bill Maher would be saying of our southern neighbors: "Americans have 349 Nobel Prizes; Latin Americans have 16. That seems like kind of a big advantage for Team America." ... Far more Americans are murdered by Mexicans, per capita, than Israelis are murdered by Palestinians. 11. The three young girls kidnapped and held as sex slaves for more than a decade in a boarded-up house in Cleveland had been held by Ariel Castro. ... But then it turned out Castro wasn't the only Hispanic raping young girls - on his block. ... While investigating the Castro case, detectives happened upon Acevedo... he had raped and killed two of his neighbors...

Chandra Levy's killer turned out not to be Democratic Congressman Gary Condit, but Ingmar Guandique - an illegal alien from El Salvador, given temporary amnesty by President Bush. (Does that guy have any brothers? I'd love to see another one like him in the White House!). The one Central Park rapist that even liberals admit was guilty was Hispanic Matias Reyes. After the other attackers had finished with the victim, Reyes came across the joggers beaten and bloody body, and raped her himself.

12. ... environmentalists used to care about gridlock, overcrowding, loss of parkland, and exhaustion of natural resources. Not anymore. Today's environmentalists turn a blind eye as 25 million people tramp through delicate ecosystems, set fire to national parks, kill livestock, dump tons of soiled diapers and Pepsi bottles in the desert, and deface ancient Native American sites. Political correctness demands that no one notice immigrants' toll on the environment. ... Of the 77 human-caused fires on federal or tribal land in Arizona between 2006 and 2010 investigated by the GAO, a cause could be determined in 60 cases. Fully half of those were caused by illegal aliens. ...One of the reasons the GAO was able to review only 77 fires was that the BLM and the Forest Service couldn't spare any agents for investigations. They were too busy protecting 'firefighters and their equipment from illegal aliens.' Apparently, when illegals see border patrol agents, they try to distract them by throwing lighted matches in the brush to start fires. Not only do illegal immigrants intentionally set wildfires, but they violently attack firefighters trying to extinguish the blazes. Firies are allowed to rage, because fire crews are forced to wait for law enforcement protection. ... The Forest Service had once gamely suggested trying to identify 'the group most likely to start fires,' but once the evidence was in, they buried it. To blame illegal aliens would be playing the 'blame the perpetrator' game. ... Because of new border restrictions after 9/11 - I guess it was possible to tighten the borders! - our dear friends in Mexico moved their drug cartel operations directly into America's parks. ... 'These guys shoot people'... Armed illegal aliens were in control of our national parks, so government officials leapt to action by shutting down the parks. A majority of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument was closed to US citizens for more than a decade because it was too dangerous.

... For a glimpse into America's future, consider how Mexicans treat their own environment. In Mexico's most famous national park, a ten-thousand-year-old evergreen forest designated by presidential decree as a biosphere reserve, illegal loggers chop down about seventy mature tress a day... While environmentalists from around the world send millions of dollars to Mexico preserve the forest... For decades, Mexican refuse ended up on San Diego's world-famous beaches by way of the Tijuana River. ... One solution would have been for Mexicans to stop throwing their garbage in the river. ... Instead, US taxpayers funded a sewage treatment plant on the border at a cost of $239.4 million. Mexico chipped in $17 million. ... Where are the environmentalists? For 50 years, they've been carrying on about overpopulation; promoting family planning, birth control... The Sierra Club began sounding the alarm over the country's expanding population in 1965 - the very year Teddy Kennedy's immigration act passed - and in 1978, adopted a resolution expressly asking Congress to 'conduct a thorough examination of US immigration laws.' For a while, the Club taked about almost nothing else. "It is obvious" the Club said two years later, "that the numbers of immigrants the US accepts affects our population size and growth rate," even more than 'the number of children per family.

Over the next three decades, America took in tens of millions of legal immigrants and illegal aliens alike. But suddenly, about ten years ago, the Sierra Cub realized to its embarrassment that importing multiple millions of polluting, fire-setting, littering immigrants is actually fantastic for the environment! The advantages of overpopulation dawned on the Sierra Club right after it received a $100 million donation from hedge fund billionaire David Gelbaum with the express stipulation that - as he told the LA Times - 'if they ever came out anti-immigration, they would never get a dollar from me.' It would be as if someone offered the Catholic Church $100 million to be pro-abortion. But the Sierra Club said: Sure! Did you bring the check? Obviously, there's no reason to listen to them on anything.

... Not only did the Sierra Club never again say another word against immigration, but, in 2004, it went the extra mile, denouncing three actuals environmentalists running for the Club's board, by claiming they were racists who opposed mass immigration. The three 'white supremacists' were Dick Lamm, the three-time Democratic governor of Colorado; Frank Morris, former head of the Black Congressional Caucus Foundation; and Cornell professor David Pimentel, who created the first ecology course at the university... America's premiere hate group, the Southern Poverty Law Center, jumped into the fray, with multimillionaire con man and SPLC head Morris Dees running for the Sierra Club board simply to smear the three real environmentalist candidates... But, evidently, what poor Southerners need most is a massive influx of foreign poor people competing for their jobs. ... In 2012, Sierra Club executive director Michael Brune announced that the Club officially supported mass immigration - amnesty, no borders, more legal immigration, the whole nine yards.

13. Normally, (Carlos) slim is the kind of businessman the (NY) Times - along with every other sentient human being - would find repugnant. Frequently listed as the richest man in the world, Slim acquired his fortune through a corrupt inside deal giving him a monopoly on telecommunications services in Mexico. But in order to make money from his monopoly, Slim needs lots of Mexicans living in the US, sending money to their relatives back in Oaxaca. Otherwise, Mexicans couldn't pay him - and they wouldn't have much need for phone service, either, other than to call in ransom demands. Back in 2004, before the Times became Slim's pimp - a Times article stated: "Clearly... the nation's southern border is under siege." But that was before Carlos Slim saved the Times from bankruptcy. Ten years later, with a border crisis even worse that in 2004, and Latin America pouring across the border, the Times indignantly demanded the Obama "go big" on immigration and give "millions of immigrants permission to stay". ...

Republicans are terrified of saying anything about immigration for fear of being called 'racist.' ... The fact that most immigrants are Hispanic provides excellent cover for the elite's monumental self-interest. Here's a tip for the GOP: Don't talk about the illegal aliens. Talk about Carlos Slim, Talk about rich Americans finding a solution to 'the servant problem.' Talk about one-hit wonder Mark Zuckerberg underpaying his computer programmers while 32 percent of American graduates in STEM fields can't get job and the rest haven't seen their salaries rise for more than a decade. Talk about how Bill Clinton couldn't find someone to be his attorney general because of the prevalence of illegal alien employees in households of the '1 percent'. Determined to appoint a woman attorney general, Clinton kept producing women with illegal alien nannies (Zoe Baird, Kimba Wood). ... The elites just can't grasp that most Americans raise their own kids, make their own beds, cook their own food, and drive their own cars. ... America will be Brazil, with a well-pampered, itty-bitty upper class, amid an ocean of poor people. ... It's a sweet deal the elites have: They get to have cheap nannies and lawn boys in the whitest towns in America - and feel morally superior at the same time!

14. The vast majority of all legal immigrants - two thirds- get in on "family reunification" policies each year. In other words, America has no say about the single largest category of immigrants... Entire villages from Pakistan are dumped on the country, based not on their expertise in nuclear engineering, but because everyone in the village is related to the first guy who got in. If they're not, in the strict sense, related, they'll lie. In 2008, the State Department suspended the family reunification part of the African refugee program because DNA testing showed that only 20 percent of 'family members' were actually related. We'll still take as many refugees from Africa, but they won't have to lie about being related anymore. ... The special agricultural amnesty of 1986 is a good example of how even the most reasonable-sounding immigration law will inevitably be turned into a pipeline for criminals, welfare cases, and terrorists. ... illegal alien farmworkers who could prove they had done seasonal farmwork for a total of ninety days between May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986, would be granted temporary legal status. what could go wrong? In the first three years of the program, 888,637 agricultural amnesty applications were identified as fraudulent - but only 60,637 of those were denied. Overwhelmed with amnesty applications under just this one provision, the INS found it to be a big time-saver to simply ignore fraud. ... Mohammed Salameh, another terrorist convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, was also in the US because of Schumer's special agricultural worker amnesty. The unskilled 19-year-old first came to the US on a tourist visa because, as the US consulate later explained, someone in the office "took a chance" on Mohammed. Mohammed not only had never worked on a farm, but he was not even in the country until 1988, two years after the special amnesty became law, though it was explicitly limited to those who had worked on farms in the US in the year before May 1, 1986. By the most basic definition of the law, Mohammed was not eligible, but he was allowed to stay in the US and obtain a work visa - while the INS processed his petition. Moving with the lightning speed of a government agency, the INS rejected his petition for amnesty as a farm worker three years later. Then, Mohammed applied for a general amnesty, claiming he had been living continuously in the US from 1980 to 1986. Actually, he was a teenager in Jordan then, but again, Mohammed was allowed to stay while the INS considered his request. As it considering, Mohammed bombed the World Trade Center.

How about all those brainy, high-tech H-!B immigrants that Senator Orrin Hatch keeps telling us about? ... the cheap-labor advocacy group Partnership for a New American Economy excitedly tweeted that two - yes two - of the five LindedIn founders were "born in Europe"!... Here's my counter tweet: 98.7% fo the founders of important Silicon Valley companies were born in America! 99 percent are white men! ... Professor Norman Matloff: 'The vast majority of H-1B's, including those hired from US universities, are ordinary people doing ordinary work, not the best and the brightest. On the contrary, the average quality of the H-1Bs is lower that theat of the Americans. ... The main advantage of foreign labor over native workers, Matloff explains, is aht H-1B workers are indentured servants: They can't quit without risking deportation. so American employers get to pay less for standard computer programming work. ... They want cheap people. Massimmigration advocates push ethnic stereotypes about high-IQ immigrants, but then go crazy whenever anyone suggests we actually bring in high-IQ immigrants. ... The average Indian IQ is staggeringly low: 82. That's about the same as the average IQ in Afghanistan - 84; Panama - 84; Dominican Republic - 82; Paraguay - 84; Yemen - 85; and Tonga - 86. We take more immigrants from India than from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, and the Czech Republic put together. Why are we discriminating...? The answer is: Because those immigrants would tend to fill the kinds of jobs rich people have.

15. The only thing that stands between America and oblivion is a total immigration moratorium. ... It's evident that the government can't be trusted to use three brain cells in admitting immigrants, so its discretion has to be completely revoked. No matter how clearly laws are written, government bureaucrats connive to confer citizenship on people that a majority of Americans would not want to let in as tourists, much less as our fellow citizens. ... No other fix will work. Congress could just insist that immigrants pay taxes, learn English, not collect welfare, and have good moral character, except the problem is: It already has. All those laws were swept away by INS officials, judges, and Democratic administrations. Doing it again won't produce a different result. ... Even if we could trust the government on immigration - and we can't - there are the legions of immigration lawyers, lobbyists, nonprofits, and general miscreants whose single-minded mission is to turn America into the Third World hellhole of liberal fantasies. ... The billion-dollar immigration industry has turned every single aspect of immigration law into an engine of fraud. The family reunifications are frauds, the 'farmworkers' are frauds, the high-tech visas are frauds - and the asylum and refugee cases are monumental frauds. ... the only result of our asylum policies is that we get good liars. Taxpayers subsidize sleazy immigration activists who coach immigrants to lie to immigration officials. Document mills produce phony passports, school records, and medical reports. ... immigration judges approve 92 percent of all "credible fear" asylum applications.

16. ... if Romney had won 71 percent of the Hispanic vote in 2012, instead of 27 percent, he still would have lost. On the other hand, had he won just 4 percent more of the white vote, he would have won.

17. America's suicidal immigration policies are the single biggest threat facing the nation. What happens with immigration will determine whether America continues to exist or becomes a Third World republic...

Mayor Goodman,
I was disappointed to watch you on your KCLV show Friday evening supporting illegal aliens. Worse yet was the inclusion of two guests, both of who were also advocates of illegal aliens. Wouldn't it have been fair to host an equal amount of speakers in opposition? Is the care and feeding of illegal aliens a part of the city charter? I doubt it. We need the illegal immigrants to return to their native countries. Your positions lure more of them here and encourage them to stay. Why don't you start looking out for US citizens first? Don't you realize that the reason people from third world countries sneak into the US is ultimately because they can't stand being around other third world people. Plenty of skilled people from developed countries are waiting patiently for admission to the US. Is it fair to reward those whose very first act into this county is illegal? You can disguise the problem by saying they are fleeing high crime rates, violence, rotten economy... but this deception hides the real reason. Why would you want to turn us into a third world country? If you feel so concerned about them, there is an easy solution: move to a third world country to help them where they are.

Please read:

The Immigration Solution, by MacDonald, Hansen & Malanga

While the cheapness of the immigrants' labor may benefit a very few industries and provide some upper and le-class families with cut-rate gardeners and nannies, it adds very little to our national standard of living. On the other side of the ledger, the costs these immigrants impose on US taxpayers for health care, schooling, welfare, and (all too often) incarceration far outweigh the benefits they offer. In California, the National Academy of Sciences found immigrant families cost each native-born household an additional $1,200 in taxes per year. Although a net loss for the US, such workers are an unalloyed boon for Mexico. Their ability to find work north of the border is an essential safety valve for Mexico's failed economy and stubbornly unreformed political culture, and the remittances these workers send home are indispensable to Mexico, constituting its second largest source of hard currency. No wonder the Mexican government – especially through its consuls in the US – vigorously fosters the illegal migration of its nationals into its northern neighbor. … But those earlier huddled masses of immigrants yearning to breathe free, however tired and poor they may have looked, were in fact on average more skilled than the native-born population of a century ago. In addition, the less-developed economy of that era also had a vastly greater need for immigrants without skills than does today's knowledge economy. More important, the US immigration system of that period was a machine for selecting the most enterprising and energetic migrants. With no welfare system whatever, those who came were those who thought they could make use of the opportunity and freedom America offered by their own efforts. Grateful for the chance, these newcomers were only too glad to assimilate to their new land as best they could, and their children did so wholeheartedly. Not so today. The first child born in America to an immigrant entitles his or her family to child-only welfare payments – a hefty-looking sum to a recent migrants from a peasant village. … Deprived of work, illegals would return home, just as 60 percent of immigrants from the first great migration eventually left these shores when they couldn't make it here. ...our new policy should select newcomers not because they are someone's brother or adult child or elderly parents, or because they successfully sneaked into the country some years ago, but because they have some special skill... that will enrich our nation. … Thousands arrive illegally from Mexico into California each year... They come in such numbers because a tacit alliance of Right and Left has created an open-borders policy, aimed at keeping wage labor cheap and social problems ever fresh, so that the ministrations of Chicano studies professors, La Raza activists, and all the other self-appointed defenders of group causes will never be unneeded. … nearly one quarter of California's inmates are aliens from Mexico. The pro-labor left found that the industrious new arrivals whom it championed eroded the wages of its own domestic low wage constituencies - the Labor Department attributes 50 percent of real-wage declines to the influx of cheap immigrant labor. … when I was ten, in 1963, all suburbanites mowed their own lawns – many with push mowers. Now almost everyone hires the job out. Nannies for toddlers and grannies, unheard of then, are now ubiquitous... Rural schools used to begin in mid-September to ensure that we natives could pick grapes to earn our school clothes and shoes. Today not a single student in California would do such hot, dirty work, now considered demeaning. … So we allow illegal aliens to obtain California driver's licenses – the foundation for all other means of legal identification – and to pay reduced in-state tuition at the University of California, thereby providing several thousand dollars in discounts not available to American citizens from out of state. Whether you break the law to reach California or immigrate legally, it makes little difference in how you drive, send your kids to college, or draw on the public services of the state. … I often suggest to teachers who tell aliens that our culture is racist, exploitative, and sexist that they should live in Mexico themselves to fathom why millions are dying to obtain what they so casually dismiss.

… America does not have a vast labor shortage that requires waves of low wage immigrants to alleviate; in fact, unemployment among native-born unskilled workers in high – consistently about double the nations' overall unemployment rate. … an unusual coalition of business groups, unions, civil rights activists, and church leaders thwarted the call for restrictions with passage of the inaptly names 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which legalized some 2.7 million unauthorized aliens already here, supposedly in exchange for tougher penalties and controls against employers who hired illegals. The law proved no deterrent, however, because supporters, in subsequent legislation and court cases argued on civil rights grounds, weakened the employer sanctions. Meanwhile more illegals flooded here in the hope of future amnesties from Congress, while the newly legalized sneaked their wives and children into the country rather than have them wait for family-preference visas. The flow of illegals into the country rose to between 300,000 and 500,000 per year in the 1990's, so that a decade after the legislation that had supposedly solved the undocumented alien problem by reclassifying them as legal, the number of illegals living in the US was back up to about 5 million. … In many American industries, waves of low-wage workers have also retarded investments that might lead to modernization and efficiency. Farming, which employs a million immigrant laborers in California alone, is the prime case in point. Faced with a labor shortage in the early 1960's, when President Kennedy ended a 22-year-old guest-worker program that allowed 45,000 Mexican farm hands to cross over the border and harvest 2.2 million tons of California tomatoes for processed foods, farmers complained but swiftly automated, adopting a mechanical tomato-picking technology created more than a decade earlier. Today, just 5,000 better-paid workers – one-ninth the original workforce – harvest 12 million tons of tomatoes using the machines. The savings prompted by low-wage migrants may even be minimal in crops not easily mechanized. … If the benefits of the current generation of migrants are small, the costs are large and growing because of America's vast range of social programs and the wide advocacy network that strives to hook low-earning legal and illegal immigrants into these programs. A 1998 Nationals Academy of Sciences study found that more than 30 percent of California's foreign-born were on Medicaid... compared with 14 percent of native –born households. The foreign-born were more than twice as likely as the native-born to be on welfare, and their children were nearly five times as likely to be in means-tested government lunch programs. Native-born households pay for much of this, the study found, because they earn more and pay higher taxes – and are more likely to comply with tax laws. Recent immigrants, by comparison, have much lower levels of income and tax compliance.

... This call for 'human rights' is a clever one, for it hides its radical status in a rhetorical safe harbor. What, exactly, are the 'human rights' that the US is denying illegal aliens? They have unfettered access to free medical care, free education, welfare for their children, free representation in court when they commit crimes, every due process protection during criminal prosecution that the Constitution guarantees citizens and legal immigrants, the shelter of labor laws, and the miracles of modern industrial society like clean water, the control of infectious diseases (including the ones they bring with them), and plumbing. The only putative 'right' they lack - and that, of course, is the 'human right' to which they and their ambassadors refer - is the right to legal status regardless of illegal entry. ....

No one will take the assurance that 'this time we mean business' seriously. If the executive branch is not willing to enforce the current law against violators, a new set of laws will not suddenly strengthen its resolve... border defenses have been fortified over the years, but the drill has been: if you can get past the border patrol, you are home free. The most important action the government could take to end illegal immigration would be to penalize employers that unlawfully hire illegal aliens... After 9/11, the department of Homeland Security deported fifteen hundred illegal Pakistanis. An additional fifteen thousand then left voluntarily, reports Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies. There is no reason to think this enforcement-through-attrition strategy won't work as well for Hispanic illegals.

It would be useful for open-borders optimists to spend some time in the Los Angeles Unified School District, which is 73 percent Hispanic, and where just 40 percent of Hispanic students graduate. (Nationwide, 53 percent of Hispanics graduate from high school...) Of those Hispanic students who do graduate, just 22 percent have completed the course work necessary for admission to a four-year state college - which means that of all Hispanic students who enter in ninth grade, fewer than 15 percent will graduate ready for college. Immigrant advocates have fiercely opposed in court a long-deferred California high school exit exam, which would require students to answer just over 50 percent of questions testing eight-grade-level math and ninth-grade-level English. The California Research Bureau predicts that if the exam becomes a reality, Hispanic graduation rates would drop well below 30 percent. ... Schools spend huge sums trying to improve the Hispanic graduation rate, even hiring 'outreach consultants' for dropout prevention. One Santa Ana consultant's approach is predictably multicultural. "We need to teach teachers that students need to be proud of where they are coming from," she told me. But, of course, Hispanic school failure derives not from ethnic neglect - the Sana Ana schools glorify the Hispanic heritage to a fault...
...a high level of immigration translates to increased levels of crime. Between the foreign-born generation and their American children, the incarceration rate of Mexican American jumps more than eightfold...
Pro-amnesty forces promote that illegal immigrants "risk everything for the dream of freedom"... However lousy the Mexican economy, there are few, if any, political freedoms enjoyed by Americans that Mexico denies. It is the Yankee dollar, not untasted freedom, that brings the vast majority of illegals here.

...in spring 2006 American witnessed millions of illegal aliens who not only were unapologetic about their illegal status but were demanding that their hosts accommodate their own political grievances, from providing driver's licenses to full amnesty. The largest demonstrations - held on May Day, with thousands of protesters waving Mexican flags and bearing placards depicting the Communist insurrectionist Che Guevara - only confirmed to most Americans that illegal immigration was out of control and beginning to become politicized along the lines of Latin American radicalism. I chronicled in Mexifornia the anomaly of angry protesters waving he flag of the country they vehemently did not wish to return to , but now the evening news beamed these images to millions. In short, the radical socialism of Latin America, seething in the angry millions who flocked to support Venezuela's Hugo Chavez, Bolivia's Evo Morales, and Mexico's Andres Lopez Obrador, had now seemingly been imported into our own largest cities. ...

Crippled America

We are the only nation in the world whose immigration system places the needs of other nations ahead of our own. … Too many people have forgotten the Mariel boatlift. … The Mexican government has published pamphlets explaining how to illegally emigrate to the US. … It's a great way for those governments to get rid of their worst people without paying any price.... Operation Wetback... was successful. It was a joint effort between the INS and the Mexican government. Special immigration teams were created to quickly process and deport illegal immigrants. One of the reasons it worked is that people who were caught were given to Mexican government agents, who moved them into central Mexico, where they could find jobs. ...In the first year, more than one million people were sent back. ...Why should we absorb the expense of keeping criminals in prisons? Let their countries of origin deal with the problems they sent us. If they refuse to take them back, we can stop issuing visas to those countries, preventing their citizens from legally visiting the US. I also would triple the number of immigration officers we currently employ until the wall is built. … Currently there are about 5,000 officers attempting to enforce the existing immigration laws against the more than 11 million illegal aliens. Compare that to the... 35,000 officers in the New York Police Department. Since 9/11 we have tripled the size of the border patrol but haven't substantially increased the number of ICE officers – the officers who enforce immigration laws. … We have to cut off federal grants to sanctury cities... We need to have real penalties for people who overstay their visas. … Most important is ending or curtailing so-called birthright citizenship, or anchor babies. … It is estimated that about 300,000 of these children are born here annually. That's 300,000 children who are entitled to all the rights and privileges granted to American citizens because their mothers entered this country illegally... There are businesses that specialize in making this happen! They call it 'birth tourism'…. And those people take advantage of the system and come here illegally should never enjoy the benefits of being a resident – or citizen – of this nation. So, I am against any path to citizenship for undocumented workers or anyone else who is in this country illegally. They should – and need to – go home and get in line. And you know who agrees with me? The Mexicans, the Chinese, and all the people from other countries who want to be here legally and can't get a visa or fit into a quota... We can be generous and do all of this humanely. But the security and prosperity of American citizens have to come first. .. (Chapter 3)

I believe in putting the needs of American citizens first, always.... There's an old phrase that, sadly, you rarely hear anymore, "Made in America". We will start saying this again. (Chap. 10)

If you cannot see this email properly, please click here

Dear colleague,

This May, AudioEducator is hosting an interesting lineup of webinars on healthcare topics you can't afford to miss! We'll be covering subjects that directly affect your medical organization, such as off-campus coding, billing and reimbursement; HIPAA audits; SNF Phase 2 Requirement of Participation; SIU investigations; observation documentation; texting and email with patients; the 21st Century Cures Act & more! These events will provide you with all the information, strategies and help you need to ensure robust compliance and better reimbursement in 2017 and beyond!

Upcoming Events:

- Understanding the Latest Coding, Billing, and Strategic Considerations for Off-Campus Provider-Based Departments

  CMS' contract year 2017 Hospital Outpatient Prospective Payment System (HOPPS) Rule had many changes from the proposed rule regarding Section 603 of the Balanced Budget Act, which impacts coding, billing and reimbursement for off-campus provider-based departments. Join expert speakers Jugna Shah, MPH and Valerie Rinkle, MPA in this session to review the latest conditions in coding and billing for off-campus provider-based departments. The session will review the provider-based rules that impact both on- and off-campus departments of a provider. Read more!

- Preparing for HIPAA Audits — Having Documentation Ready to Go and Avoiding Issues

  Following the HIPAA compliance program's trial audits and a second round of audits in 2016, Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) has indicated that the HIPAA audit program will become permanent. All covered entities may be subjected to an audit, and they need to know what kind of questions they'll be asked, what information they'll need to provide, and how to prevent issues that could lead to violations and fines. Join this session by expert speaker Jim Sheldon-Dean, where he will discuss how the HIPAA audit program works, the areas that caused the most issues in the 2012 audits, and the areas that were targeted in the 2016 audits. Read more!

- Updates on Fraud Investigations against Healthcare Providers

  Fraud Investigations are increasing from both governmental agencies and insurance special investigation units. Medical providers need to use best practices to avoid even the appearance of fraud. This session by expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., will categorize the most common fraud actions brought against healthcare providers and will include recommendations to avoid audits. Thomas will analyze recent court cases, fraud allegations, findings of fraud, and SIU investigations into fraud. The session will also reveal current best practices that you can implement in your organization. Read more!

- Observation Documentation for Proper Coding, Billing and Reimbursement

  Observation services are one of the most challenging areas that hospitals face. In order to determine when a patient can be safely discharged, your staff needs a thorough understanding of the relevant coding and billing requirements for observations. Join expert speaker Duane Abbey, Ph.D., in this session to learn to distinguish observation services from inpatient admissions. He will also address best practices in physician, nursing and clinical documentation for proper reimbursements. Read more!

- Structuring Physician Practice Acquisitions: Key Legal Considerations
  In today's challenging enforcement climate, your organization needs to manage its compliance and enterprise risk, including ensuring that any new arrangements are defensible under the Stark Law. Join this session by expert speaker Joseph Wolfe to get an overview of the Stark Law, including the changes that occurred in 2016. The session will also explore how Stark Law's underlying technical requirements and key tenets of defensibility apply to physician practice acquisitions. Read more!

- Texting and E-mail with Patients—Meeting Patient Desires According to the Rules

  Patients communicate with their healthcare providers by various means. However, the new requirements in the regulations for electronic communications and new guidance on access to information by individuals require that HIPAA-covered entities carefully consider requests for electronic communications such as plain e-mail and/or text messages, and respond appropriately. This session by expert speaker Jim Sheldon-Dean will focus on the rights of individuals to communicate in the manner they desire, and how a medical office can decide what an acceptable process for communicating with individuals. Read more!

- Grievances and Complaints: What Hospitals Should Know About the CMS and Joint Commission, DNV Standards and OCR?

  The CMS grievance requirements are a frequent source of investigation, and CMS perennially identifies them as problem areas for hospitals. Most hospitals that accept federal reimbursement must be in compliance with the CMS Conditions of Participation (CoPs). Hospitals must have a grievance procedure and a compliance coordinator to investigate any grievances alleging noncompliance, including discrimination. Join this live webinar by expert speaker Sue Dill Calloway, RN, MSN, JD, to learn about the CMS, The Joint Commission (TJC) and Office of Civil Rights (OCR) standards for grievances and complaints. Read more!

- 21st Century Cures Act: Coding, Billing & Reimbursement Issues

  Searching for the coding, billing, and reimbursement rules in the 1000-page 21st Century Cures Act is like finding a needle in a haystack. While a majority of this legislation, signed into law in December 2016, is directed toward research, there are coding, billing and reimbursement sections buried in the text—you just have to know where to look and how the information applies to your organization. Join this session by expert speaker Duane C. Abbey, Ph.D., and find out what's in the law that's relevant to your coding, billing, and reimbursement compliance. Read more!

- Phase 2 Requirements of Participation: Baseline Care Plans and Discharge Requirements

  Phase 2 requirements for participation will be in place in November 2017. Join this session where expert speaker Marilyn Mines will review the details of the baseline and discharge requirements to enable facilities to prepare for the November 28, 2017 deadline. The session will also offer suggestions to ensure compliance with the new requirements of participation for baseline care plans and discharge summaries and plans. Read more!

- CMS Standing Orders, Protocols, Order Sets, and Preprinted Orders

  Standing orders and Medícare conditions of participation that relate to them are some of the most confusing compliance requirements that hospitals face. Both CMS and the Joint Commission address this tricky area, and four separate sections of the hospital CoP manual regulate the issue of standing order requirements. This session by expert speaker Sue Dill Calloway, RN, MSN, JD, will discuss the interpretive guidelines and regulations that are required by the CMS and the Joint Commission regarding protocols, order sets, preprinted orders and standing orders. Stress tests drive more stress

With interest rates still at historically low levels, there are not many options available for banks as they try to generate yield. But one emerging lending category continues to be one- to four-family residential construction loans. This category continued its upward swing in the fourth quarter of 2014, according to SNL Financial analysts. Read more

It's 1 A.M. Are you sending a business email? Why?

"Your late-night emails are hurting your team," by productivity consultant Maura Thomas on the Harvard Business Review website covers the common risks and the rare rewards of emailing round the clock. Says Thomas:

"Think about the message you'd like to send. Do you intend for your staff to reply to you immediately? Or are you just sending the email because you're thinking about it at the moment, and want to get it done before you forget? If it's the former, you're intentionally chaining your employees to the office 24/7. If it's the latter, you're unintentionally chaining your employees to the office 24/7. ... Being connected in off-hours during busy times is the sign of a high-performer. Never disconnecting is a sign of a workaholic. And there is a difference."

Thomas shares tips for finding a more productive solution. Read more

Does branch-level advice still cut it?

Brett King, banking futurist and keynote speaker at Banking Exchange's InnoBank 2015 event (see "Blogs," above), says this about advice in his book Breaking Banks:

"Conventional wisdom dictates that one of the primary reasons for maintaining a network of branches to support the customer base is that at any time a customer can come into the branch and get advice on his finances or banking. While this is the mantra within retail, mass affluent, and even small business banking, the reality is somewhat different. Advice in these scenarios is often more about product positioning than it is pure, unbiased financial advice, which is why the independent financial advisory business is thriving today." Learn more

Weekly Newsletter

Friends,

If you follow sports in Nevada, then you need no reminder that the UNLV-UNR rivalry game took place this week. Ramirez Group is pretty Runnin' Rebel-dominated, but we have some who bleed blue here, as well.

Congratulations to the Wolfpack on their hard fought win. Don't let that win go to your head now, we'll see you again next year.

For one final note, this will be our final Weekly Newsletter. Starting in March, look for our Monthly Newsletter, a more in-depth collection of our perspective on recent news, with more opinions and blog posts from your friends here.

Dear Friend,

 Please do not forget to turn the clock back on Sunday, 11/06.

 Three more days, you will find who is our future leader.

 I came back from the surgery which was in Hospital outpatient on 11/01/16 [Tuesday]. However, I will start to join events. I believe that I still will help the elction before 11/8 election day.

1. We Will Help & Vote Some Candidates:

We decided to vote Dems this year because Trump's big problems & History.

We Will Help & Support Some Candidates as follows:

1. Hillary Clinton for President.
2. Catherine Cortez Masto for US Senate.
3. Reelect Dina Titus for US Congress.
4. Ruben Kihuen for US Congress.
5. Jacky Rosen for US Congress.
6. Re Elect Commissioner Steve Sisolak, Commissioner Chris Giunchigliani, Commissioner Mary Beth Scow, Commissioner Marilyn Kirkpatrick, Commissioner Susan Brager, Commissioner Larry Brown. ect.
7. Re Elect So many Judges: I only list some friends as: Judge Joe Hardy Jr., Judge Eric johnson, Judge Janirce Marshall, Judge Suzan Baucum, Judge Rebecca Kern, Judge Harmony Letizia, Judge Anat Levy, Judge Karen Bennett, Judge Bita Yeager, and more etc..

2. Why I will not support Trump:

Trump is not fitted for the President from any angle.

Last year Sand Las Vegas CEO Mr. Sheldon Adelson supported & contributed to Republic Party of One Billion dollars. How about Mr. Adelson now? I think that Mr. Adelson Who did not support Trump One Billion dollars this year any more.

Trump's Company has 560 millions dollars debt. But Trump said he is very very rich. Why did Trump need a loan of 56 millions dollars for Champion? Even some GOP members do not support Trump any more.

 Trump's wife is illegal to stay in USA for long time. Under investigation.
 Giulian,Trump & Bert B. at Fox News [CH. 21 in Vegas at Cox] made FBI rumored to damage Hillary's Indictment. It is fraude. Under investigation.
 Trump's Race discrimination in apartments, Under investigation.
 Trump University' Fraud is Under investigation.
 Trump's Tax Return is Under investigation.

After 11/08 election day, Who will be in big trouble?

However, Hillary is my first choice at this time because Bill Clinton era, It let me made a good money under his administered in the high pay contract jobs of DOE & Energy companies. I was a new immigration during Jimmy Cater Era. I got my first job as a senior engineer in Bechtel for 7 years at stable nice income of [$5,000 / mo]. But in Reagan's era, Reagan took our Bechtel President George Shultz to be his Secretary Of State. Then Bechtel loses Thousand of employees. I am one of them.

However, during Bill Clinton era, I am allowed to be a contractor for DOE [with Q clearance] & Energy companies [with SRO - Senior Reactor Operator GE's Certification]. My pay was [$10,000 / mo]. My pay checks increased 100%. My working hours from 40 hours / week to 72 hours / week [Max per DOL regulation]. Because the owner would lose $ 1 million per day if not compliance to NRC regulation. That Owner would not care how much he would pay us. It was much less than $ 1 million a day. WOW!

Robert]: I would like to bet with Patricia of $10,000 if Trump to be our next President, I will pay Patricia $10,000, or she pay me $10,000 if Trump is not our next President, Would Patricia sign an agreement with me and we go to get a Notary Public and a witness? Make sure that we will pay the winner each other.

Patricia]: For your information my father was a major partner with Mr Donald J. Trump and he made multi millions of dollars but that is just people talking bad jealous he turned one million into over 30 Billion Dollars he is brilliant he did this with all his business partners my dad would never be involved with a dishonest person so Mr Donald J. Trump was above board with all his business dealings.

Robert]: If he could turned one million $ into over 30 Billion Dollars. Show me the money. Why Trump needs 6 times of Bankruptcy in 70 years? Why he could not pay so many people he owed? Even his Champagne could not pay staffs. No money for Ads? No money for Ground Game.

Trump's company owe 560 millios dollars in debt.

His Champagne fund is only 1/40 of Clinton's. He pays employee wage [$7-8 / hr]. It is under market value. Why RNC's Cleveland Conviction was owed $50 millions. How many Big donors and companies support RNC & Trump? Trump borrowed 56 million to run his champion. He & RNC are very weak now.

He is brilliant to cheat contractors and the people he owed. 5,000+ open cases for Trump's law suit. Why did He still owes contractors and the business men the money. He still owed the show children. 5,000+ open cases for his law suit. He will make our country danger, even it will Bankruptcy our country. That why 30+ GOP congressmen & congresswomen. And 50 Security persons against to him?

Patricia]: The best choice for America not Hillary or anyone else just our next a President Of The United States Of America. Mr Donald J. Trump. You need to do your research on Hillary they just stole the election from Bernie shame sham on them not to many people want Hillary look at her events 500 people Mr Donald J. Trumps has Hundred of Thousand one event he had over 50,000. 00 thousand the American People have spoken we want a business leader that has made a payroll not a government employee that has no respect for the law of the land.

Robert]: The best choice for America is Hillary. I am very confident about Bill & Hillary who will make America Real Great. Not Trump, believe me. Trump just talk and cheat. No action and No contents. I did a lot of my research over Hillary and Trump. You just know the iceberg of Trump. Trump has no respect for the law of the land. He missed balls so many times.

Hillary is never stole the election from Bernie. Shame sham on Bernie who cheated the poor, young persons, noneducational people's money and rich for himself by his Cannot do platforms. Where is the Free education? Where is the Free Insurance? where is $15/Hr wage? One day he will meet FBI. Even not long ago he still ask money / Fund from those persons for Revolution and Defeat the DNC Chairwoman. Give me a break. What kind of US Senator? Cheat! Cheat! Cheat!

Patricia]: Shame sham on them not to many people want Hillary look at her events 500 people Mr Donald J. Trumps has Hundred of Thousand one event he had over 50,000. 00 thousand the American People have spoken we want a business leader that has made a payroll not a government employee that has no respect for the law of the land.

Robert]: Hillary has strong Management / Ground Staffs to get Votes. Trump likes Bernie, Just Tweet, Text, Always create for the Free TV about his Tweets, rallies and events. Bad result and negative images. please check the new polls. Trump is looser. Almost Frozen. No money, No Ads. No helps. No experience, No ground operation, weak organization. only 10% of Clinton's staffs.

He is not a good business leader. Only Fraud & cheat for life. Trump could not made a payroll for USA. Even his own employees. Trump has no respect to the law of the land. He could not run a good Champagne. How can Trump run the country?

Patricia]: God bless you and your lovely wife and God bless America still Love You. Hope to see you soon.

Robert]: God bless you and your Husband also. God bless America. I was retired. However, I watched Trump for one year. I do not like him at all. I am very disappointed with Trump's talks, performs and history. How many candidates got so many protesters? Thanks.

Best wishes,
Robert Song

4. [Johnny Jackson]'s Problems History:

Year 2010]: When two AssemblyMen have an event in the Park with Cola bend performance. Johnny invited me to go outside the event in the park to fight. I did not know his offensive purpose [May be I supported another candidate which is not with his list, conflict with his favor]. He was a Boxer, he always threatened me to knock my Head down. That time I almost called the Metro to report the violation of Johnny. However, one of AssemblyMan asked me to drop the case to let him go. Yes, I did it for his peace. Johnny likes intimation. It is danger. Why he want to violation so much.

Year 2011 to 2016]: Johnny often called me to loan $30 for short of Auto Gas. Some time I loaned him $30, and he returned to me after one week each time. For helped his emergency, I agree to do so for his gas.

Year 2011 to 2016]: Johnny often to asked me to forward his events email flyers to my 500 viewers. I always try to help him to forward. But he could not remember what I helped his email business.

Year 2013]: Johnny got a traffic ticket of $800 in the Tonopah, NV. I just knew the Judge Dr. Robert P. Bettinger at that area, I called Judge Bettinger for Johnny's case, Judge Bettinger said he would help Johnny to cut the ticket to half. I did the favor of $400 to Johnny that time.

Year 2014]: Johnny asked me to find a wheelchair for him. I did, I found Free one from Dr. P's office which was a used wheelchair. Johnny has picked it up. But Johnny did not said thank you to me.

Year 2016]: I joined some of President Mike Vaswani's, President Cavin Fung's & his events. I found that Johnny is working hard for himself, for President Cavin Fung, for President Mike Vaswani, and for community. For appreciated his works. I invited him to join my [Buffet @ Asia] lunch party. I was glad to see three of his family members to join us. During the lunch, he asked me to loan him $30 for gas and he would return to me next day. I loaned $30 for his urgent. However, after 10 days, he have not paid me back at all. Beside that, He wanted me to pick up $30 from his NLV working area. It is 20 miles from my home. I refused & told him that I may publish this issue to my 500 viewers. Then he said: [He will knock down my jaw] which made me mad over that. Then he did not care what he said. And he starts to not answer to my phone messages neither to reply my texts.

I Invited Johnny joined Four Season's high class lunch, he checked in with wife & a 8 years grandaughter. WOW! Whole meeting room 300 guests, only one 8 years old girl. This is political Debate and Panel discussion. Why Johnny brought in a 8 years old girl for political Debate?

During the lunch, I asked Johnny to give $30 back to me. He told me that after a judge pay him before lunch ending. He will pay me back. But after finished lunch, I could not find him. Boy!!!

some of Johnny's published to my friends the twisted story as follows:

No choice, I have reported to President Cavin Fung. Thanks to Cavin's helps. After Judge Janirce Marshall & President Cavin Fung's reviewed & verification from my Smart phone's text record on 10/31 at the Birthday event at Texas Casino. President Cavin Fung insisted to give me $30. I did not know where the money from? From Cavin or Johnny?
My points are not the $30 issue, they are Lair, Fraud, Attitude & Insult issues.

I am disappointed that Champion Manager Johnny Jackson's Big Lair to fail our friendship. How can a candidate trust him?
Thanks for Cavin's helps. However, Johnny is a Big Lair.
Please review Johnny's Email. I would not to talk with him any more. It will not worth to waste my time with him.

I can not forgive him any more. Too many times already.

Answer to [Johnny]'s Accusations as follows:

Johnny]: Am at Piersong Center until 7 pm Call you then.
Robert]: Ever day you have excuses. You can not be trusted.
Johnny]: I am working when I gave U 6 free tickets then I was OK come to Pierson U can get it now.
Robert]: Why I bought three [His wife & grand daughter] of you a lunch buffet? Then you want me to pick up the $30 from your working place. That is not right. Every time you said you want to attack me. I will not be fear. I have a gun to protect me. You may go to jail. You may think twice. I just try to help you. But you tried to treated me unfair.
Johnny]: U threaten me with gun? U make big mistake.
Robert]: You always make mistakes. Gun for personal protection. I will not use it for offense by law. Do not keep wrong think. That why I do not want Patricia to be friend any more. 4 years ago last time I almost called Metro for your attacked.
You gave me 6 complimentary tickets. Thanks. However, I spent a lot of time to find the friends to go. Because the most friends could not go by short notes. My wife did not like it because the small size. my two friends did not like it because you was late & let them to wait for one hour to get tickets. My tenants just did not want it. However, They took 2 tickets from me. But they did not go. Thanks for your offer. Now you want to convert the tickets to $30.

Johnny]: Ok.
Robert]: Do you know I am very busy also. For this month I joined 12 events. Took more then 1,000 photos.I did not have time to do the emails for long time. I have been 4 nights did not sleep at all for my business. Even my wife did not get my helps time. Just let you know. I knew you may busier then me.

 After 16 minutes no response.
Robert]: My address is XXXX Bellerive St. Las Vegas, 89113. Please come after working. At Four Session Lunch. You told me that you would pay me back $30 after lunch to get money from a Judge. However, after lunch, you left quickly & did not pay me. I do not mant to keep delay.
Johnny]: Just finish.
Robert]: Take how long to be here? It is 9 pm already. However,I may sleep lateat 12 midnight.
Johnny]: Am driving from NLV Craig Rd.
Robert]: Thanks.
Johnny]: OK.

Robert]: You have too many problems. It is 11 pm already. When will you be here? I do not think that you are right. My wife can not trust & stand with you any more.
Tomorrow, I will write a email about this issue and the 2012 event incident about your history. It is disappointed that with you friend. Why did you want to cheat me? Did I owed you anything?
What happen? You did not show up to pay the $30. I have waited you until 2 am this morning. Please reply ASAP.
I gave you so much time to pay me $30 back. You tried to avoid to pay me. What is your intention? No choice, I have to publish your story to 500 viewers. That is your choice. You start to no anwser my message. No return my text. You forced me to do so. I am 73 years old and I am half blind. You may lost you case. I am going to talk my attorney Soon.

Johnny]: Mr. Song has suicidal thoughts, which he has said a few times. If he thinks that threats he made are not serious, I can report him also. I like Mr. Song & his wife Alice, I do not understand why he attacked me this way. If it continues, I will make a report to Metro for the gun threat.

Robert]: I told Johnny about [Suicidal Thoughts]. I treated him as a good friend. I told him after I cured in July 2016. Then he published it to my friends in emails for attack purposes. That is my personal depressions issues about I lost total $ 2.7 millions in years 2000 [Stocks of $1.5 millions] & in years 2008 [House & Stocks of $1.2 millions]. I was okay for 14 years for big lost which I was not upset much. But I suddenly recalled those lost when I was 71 years old [2 years ago], plus some children issues which made me very upset. Boy! When I told my depression to the first friend Mr.Cavin Fung two years ago. He have not told any one else about that. That is a real friend. But [$30 Johnny] used it for attacked.

Johnny]: Read his complete e-mail, you can see Mr. Song has emotional problems.

Robert]: I do not think so. I do not have emotion problem since July 2016 for 3.5 months already. I think that the problems are in Johnny side. Next time I will tell you about [$30 Johnny]'s many problems since year 2010. Sham on Johnny!!! My points are not the $30. It is [$30 Johnny]'s Problems & Behavior]. I hope that he still will be you Champion loose Manager.

Aloha

Shearman Partner To Lead NY AG's Antitrust Bureau

The co-head of Shearman & Sterling LLP's global antitrust group will join the New York attorney general's office to lead its antitrust bureau, Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman announced Wednesday.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Why Political Law Matters During M&A

Those involved in corporate M&A often overlook political law compliance issues until after the transaction is complete. This can leave the acquiring company with unexpected post-merger problems to solve, says Robert Lenhard, partner at Covington & Burling LLP and former chairman of the Federal Election Commission.

The Post-AIA Battleground For Patent Challenges

The implementation of the America Invents Act, which began on Sept. 16, 2012, ushered in a new age for patent law. The impact of the AIA has reverberated across all technological sectors and fundamentally changed the way the patent community approaches prosecution, licensing, enforcement and monetization, say attorneys with Sterne Kessler Goldstein & Fox PLLC.

A Clean Air Act Nightmare For Yuma County, Ariz.

In response to certain air quality challenges Yuma County, Arizona, currently faces, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has repeatedly suggested the concerns be addressed through various relief mechanisms established in the Clean Air Act. Unfortunately, it is unlikely any of these options will be of use to Yuma County while it's at risk of being designated a nonattainment area for ozone, say attorneys at Snell & Wilmer LLP.

Reducing Settlement Delays In Loan Trading Market

In a long-awaited development, the delayed-compensation standard for late settlement of loans trading at or near par recently changed in important ways. By incentivizing market participants to speed up settlement of loan assignments, the Loan Syndications & Trading Association's new standard should alleviate some of the factors that have contributed to blockages, say attorneys with K&L Gates LLP.

FTC Makes Clear That NIST Cyber Framework Is Not A Cure-All

If you comply with the National Institute of Standards and Technology's cybersecurity framework, are you complying with what the Federal Trade Commission requires? The FTC recently published a blog post with a nuanced answer to this oft-asked question. The short answer: "No," say attorneys with Orrick Herrington & Sutcliffe LLP.

Should your bank hire hackers?

The Wired Money 2015 conference going on this week has featured some controversial new thinking. Alexa Clay, author of The Misfit Economy, suggested to listeners that hackers could be the next bankers. As written by Katie Collins of Wired.com.uk:

"Clay believes that the hacking spirit has a place 'both those inside and outside our financial institutions.' Hackers have popped up in the financial world because of the opportunities that have been presented to them; because they have been given the license to operate by the societal remit of banks being called into question, because bureaucracy has suffocated ideas and because saboteurs will be saboteurs." Fed's Powell on "building a safer payment system"

During a late June speech at the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank, Fed Governor Jerome Powell gave updates on the central bank's task forces on payments speed and security. Then he contrasted the methods of Frank Abagnale, the check fraud artist made famous in the movie, "Catch Me If You Can," and modern thieves who pulled a complicated ATM heist:

"Frank Abagnale relied on the slow speech of the paper check-clearing system and in-person social engineering. In contrast, the ATM thieves relied on rapid transmission of data to remotely steal account information and alter withdrawl limits, all without interacting with bank employees. Today, fraud can be executed quickly, perpetrated on a massive scale, and carried out remotely." Read Powell's speech

FEATURED STORIES

Hostile Poll Watchers Could Cause a Mess

We've heard repeated calls for poll watchers to root out supposed fraud in states like Pennsylvania. What could this mean for November? "We might see a lot of individuals trying to take on the role of election officials or law enforcement, and crossing the line into intimidation, discrimination and polling place disruption," Wendy Weiser told Politico. See the Brennan Center's briefing memo on these so-called "ballot security" operations, spelling out what is allowed and what isn't.

Online movie database IMDb.com asked a California federal judge Thursday to keep the state's attorney general from enforcing a law that requires online entertainment employment boards to remove the ages of film industry people from profiles, saying its constitutional rights will be violated unless the court intervenes.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS

Debriefings Don't Lead To More Protests, Agencies Told

The Office of Federal Procurement Policy issued a memo Thursday urging federal agencies to improve the debriefings they give to government contract bidders, saying commonly raised concerns such as debriefings' leading to bid protests are largely incorrect.

Reps Ask Contractor For Info On DOD's $125B Waste Report

House Oversight Committee members on Thursday asked consulting firm McKinsey & Co. to explain its role in a study that identified $125 billion in savings for the U.S. Department of Defense, which recently surfaced after the Pentagon reportedly buried it due to a fear of losing funding.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Trump Beefs Up New Trade Council With 2 Appointments

President-elect Donald Trump on Thursday added two members to his new White House-level trade advisory panel, tapping defense adviser Alexander Gray and former U.S. Chamber of Commerce Vice President Rolf Lundberg to join his team.

TAX

Wyo. Introduces Bill To Fight High Court's Sales Tax Ruling

Wyoming became the latest state to formally fight a controversial U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring retailers to have a physical presence in a state to collect transaction taxes after it introduced a bill requiring out-of-state vendors to remit these taxes.

Tax Group Urges High Court To Review Mich. Tax Deal Spat

A state tax policy advocacy group has joined the slog over Michigan's decision to retroactively withdraw from a multistate tax agreement, upheld by Michigan's high court in June, urging the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the case.

Philly Urges Pa. Justices To Hear Soda Tax Challenge

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court was urged in a petition Friday to assume special jurisdiction over a pending appeal following the dismissal of a lawsuit challenging the city of Philadelphia's new tax on sugar-sweetened drinks and diet soda.

IMMIGRATION

Immigration Bill Roundup: Religion-Based Lists, Work Visas

Members of the 115th Congress introduced a slew of immigration-related bills during the session's first week, including measures that would seek to block any religion-based registry of immigrants and that would amend the eligibility requirements for obtaining work visas.

Trump Says Mexico Will Repay For Wall, But Questions Loom

Speculation over how the U.S. would pay for a possible border wall kicked up again Friday as President-elect Donald Trump claimed Mexico would eventually reimburse the U.S. for the southern barrier, although it is far from clear how Mexico would be forced to cough up the funds.

Docs Must Meet US Acclaim Standards For Exam Exemption

To be considered a "physician of national or international renown," a status exempting foreign doctors from the U.S. medical licensing requirement, a doctor's achievements leading to "national renown" must be ones that would warrant such a status in the United States, the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services said this week.

NATIVE AMERICAN

Hoeven, Udall Elected To Top Spots On Senate Indian Panel

Sen. John Hoeven, R-N.D., and Sen. Tom Udall, D-N.M., pledged to work across the aisle to support legislation benefiting Native Americans after they were elected Thursday as the new chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Broadcasters Slam Microsoft's Vacant Channel Push

Broadcasters on Friday blasted Microsoft Corp. and others' request that the Federal Communications Commission preserve vacant TV channel space for public use, saying the move is lobbying on behalf of Google Inc. to keep the space free for the tech giant's own unlicensed use.

Cable Group Bashes FCC's 5G Cybersecurity Reporting Rule

NCTA – The Internet & Television Association has urged the Office of Management and Budget to reject a Federal Communications Commission rule to require public cybersecurity plan disclosures under its 5G spectrum proposal, disclosures the trade group says are burdensome and could expose companies to hacking.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

In Congress: Obamacare, The Cabinet

Republican leaders in Congress plan to take the initial steps toward repealing and replacing Obamacare this week, hoping to deliver on the campaign promises made by most Republicans over the past six years and by President-elect Trump during the 2016 election cycle, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Is Restaurant Menu Labeling On ACA Chopping Block?

The Affordable Care Act contains a number of provisions not ordinarily associated with health care, including nutrition labeling of menu items for chain restaurants and retail food establishments. With the Trump administration working to fulfill its repeal and replace campaign promise, Michael Walsh of Strasburger & Price LLP looks at the current status of the menu labeling rule, its viability and some of its untested challenges.

For US Citizens In Israel, Time To Face Up To FATCA

In accord with the U.S. Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, Israeli financial institutions must now report their U.S. account holders' personal and financial information to Israeli authorities, who will send that information to the IRS. Accordingly, Americans with substantial assets in Israel must either comply with the law's obligations, or prepare for the consequences of enforcement, say Robert Henoch and Will Rosenzweig of Kobre & Kim LLP.

Initial Reactions To Bank Charter Plan For Fintech Cos.

While many financial technology companies will welcome the decision by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency to provide fintech companies with the option to become chartered as special-purpose national banks, some banks and state regulators may have some concerns, say attorneys with Latham & Watkins LLP.

Time Is Running Out For Auto Cybersecurity Standards

According to a new report from Billington Cybersecurity, the automotive industry needs to adopt tougher cybersecurity standards for autonomous vehicles. However, at a time when we cannot wait to create a defense, legislation aimed at establishing federal standards to secure automobiles and protect drivers' privacy is failing to pass, says Jonathan Michaels of MLG Automotive Law APLC.

New Water Act Is A 'WIIN' For Infrastructure

Last month, in a strong display of bipartisanship in an otherwise tense post-election political climate, Congress passed the Water Infrastructure Improvements for the Nation Act. The law includes certain provisions that may be of particular interest to private sector entities pursuing investments in the water sector, including investments through public-private partnerships, says Paul Epstein of Shearman & Sterling LLP.

2 Law Firms Ring In The New Year With Associate Raises

Philadelphia-based Blank Rome LLP is set to join the ranks of law firms that pay associates $180,000-a-year base salaries, the firm confirmed Friday, while California litigation boutique Dovel & Luner LLP has upped its game with $200,000 salaries for first-year associates.

Litigation Is Being Diced Up And Doled Out, Paper Says

Clients are increasingly unbundling legal services in an attempt to control costs, doling out bits and pieces of litigation to contract attorneys, alternative legal services providers and others, leaving law firms to grapple with a shifting role in client matters, according to a forthcoming academic paper.

A Map Of Kirkland's Conflict Maze In Turkish Trader Case

The conflict knots around appellate all-star Paul Clement and the Kirkland & Ellis LLP team representing a Turkish trader accused of defrauding megabanks also on the firm's client roster have produced a few unusual proposed solutions. Here are some key points about the Kirkland conflict conundrum.

From: Michael Waldman, Brennan Center President
Sent: Wed 6/28/2017 2:18:15 PM
Subject: [Marketing Mail] You can protect the right to vote!

Make sure every voter has a voice. Join the fight to safeguard our right to vote.

Dear Friend,

The president's claim of "massive voter fraud" is a baseless lie. The Brennan Center checked the facts, and found that noncitizen voting in the 2016 election was exceedingly rare.

Here's the truth the president hasn't mentioned:

Voter suppression laws intentionally discriminate against minority voters.

Politicians thwart policies that make it easier for eligible citizens to register to vote.

Make no mistake: the president's lies are raising the stakes in the fight to protect the right to vote.

The Brennan Center for Justice's fiscal year ends on June 30. Help us enter the next 12 months with the resources we need to protect this sacred American value. Please make your gift right now.

The president insists he won the popular vote when you "subtract" 3 to 5 million illegal voters. To prove his lie, the White House is wasting taxpayer dollars on an unnecessary "Commission on Election Integrity."

DONATE NOW

Why would he do this?

Because the commission's true purpose is to recommend voting rights changes that could disenfranchise millions of voters — especially our most vulnerable citizens, including people of color, the elderly, and students.

But the Brennan Center is already preparing for the assault, and your generous support will help us wage counterattacks in the legislatures, in the media, and especially in the courts.

We'll also continue to advocate for our signature proposal for universal, automatic voter registration, which is already the law in eight states and the District of Columbia.

Help us bring as many resources as possible to this critical fight. Please make your gift by June 30.

For democracy,

Michael Waldman
President

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

White Paper - Mobile Account Opening: Solving The Convenience-Risk Conundrum - Download White Paper Now >

Mobile devices dominate consumer interactions with financial institutions—except account opening, because of fraud and compliance concerns. The solution lies in using mobile's unique capabilities

Most of the alternative financial technology (fintech) service providers that compete with traditional financial institutions offer digital account opening. It's the easiest and most convenient path between consumers and the financial experience they expect. Mercator Advisory Group analyst Alex Johnson believes banks must add this capability or risk losing new accounts. The challenge is how to design a mobile account opening process that is seamless for the applicant and safe for the institution.

In this Mercator Advisory Group white paper, sponsored by Mitek, you will learn:

- The current state of mobile account opening and why the trickle of new account openings will become a flood
- The conflict between greater customer convenience and the challenge of meeting "Know Your Customer" requirements and controlling fraud
- How the embedded capabilities of mobile devices—image capture, biometrics, and geolocation—can resolve this conflict and improve identification and verification
- Three criteria useful in evaluating the optimal mobile solution

Mayor Goodman,

I just finished speaking to Lt. Kenny Delzer, the Sheriff's nomination to serve on the Audit Oversight Committee. I am very happy with him and I think he would make a great addition.

Additionally, Trish Truesdell forwarded a Board Interest form for Joseph Throneberry who is a Certified Fraud Examiner and Principle Fraud Investigator for several years. I do not know him well but have seen him at the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners meetings. He would also be a great addition.

My question is who do you think. Could we talk for a moment.

RTC Board – Earlier this month RTC Washoe accidentally paid a fake invoice for over $1M. This story got media attention, but they often referred to the agency as RTC (not clearly specifying WASHOE). The purpose of this email is to:

1) Clarify that the error occurred at RTC Washoe…. Not RTC Southern Nevada
2) Inform you that we contacted Washoe to get the details (see below)
3) Assure you that we validated our existing processes to ensure this error could not occur at RTC Southern Nevada

Just wanted to make sure there was no confusion in case anyone asked you about the event. Marc Traasdahl is available to answer questions if you would like more information. - Tina

Subject: RTC Washoe update

I spoke with RTC Washoe this morning concerning their fraud incident that occurred. They couldn't go into too many details as there is an investigation in progress, but she said they received what seemed to be a legitimate email invoice from one of their contractors. Normal procedures are to verify the invoice with the PM and go thru finance approvals before any funds are wired for payment. Somehow, this invoice appears to have fallen through the cracks and those policies might not have been followed. She did mention that the invoice appeared to be legitimate, providing project details and personnel. The contractor who supposedly sent the invoice contacted the RTC and informed them that there have been emails sent on their behalf that were fraudulent.

We have seen these types of emails in the past as well here at the RTC. Marc has procedures in place that require multiple levels of approval before any payments are made.

IT will be sending out an IT Alert this morning reminding staff how important Cybersecurity is. We will also include some steps to verify if an email is legitimate or not. We have seen emails come in from abobe.com instead of adobe.com for instance. We will remind staff to be aware of any emails that speak about banking information that has changed and needing updates. We will also be sending out monthly IT Alerts concerning Cybersecurity as part of an ongoing education process.

Dear Fellow Nevadan,

This year's open enrollment period to enroll in high-quality, affordable health coverage will begin on November 1, 2016, and will conclude on January 31, 2017.

Through Nevada Health Link, the health insurance marketplacethat the Silver State created under the Affordable Care Act, Nevadans can shop, compare and enroll in a health plan that meets their health care needs and budget. Because of the Affordable Care Act, plans offered in the marketplace must cover a set of essential health benefits including doctor visits, hospitalizations, emergency room visits, preventive services and prescriptions. Click here to view a list of health services that marketplace plans must cover.

Enrolling through the marketplace also allows eligible enrollees to receive financial assistance to make coverage even more affordable. This assistance is only available for plans selected through Nevada Health Link or healthcare.gov, and for most individuals the amount paid in premiums is capped. Last year, 89.5 percent of Nevadans who selected a plan on the marketplace were eligible for an average savings of $265 per month to lower their monthly premium payments. And the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services estimates that as many as 27,000 Nevadans who are currently enrolled in a health insurance plan off of the marketplace may be eligible for financial assistance should they choose to enroll in health coverage on the marketplace this year. The health insurance marketplace also connects Nevadans to other health insurance programs, such as Medicaid and Nevada Check Up.

To get started, log on to Nevada Health Link or HealthCare.gov. Nevadans can also "window shop" for plans before creating a marketplace account.

Free in-person assistance is available throughout the Silver State to help Nevadans enroll in a plan that fits their needs. Nevadans can use Nevada Health Link's in-person assistance tool to search for a trained assister in their area. The Nevada Health Link website also features a community events calendar where Nevadans can see the enrollment events happening near them, including the "Sign-up Saturday" and "Pop-up" enrollment events that Nevada Health Link will be hosting throughout the open enrollment period. Click hereto learn more about this year's enrollment process.

The Affordable Care Act is helping to ensure that hardworking individuals and families in Nevada have access to quality, affordable health insurance coverage. The Affordable Care Act prohibits insurance companies from denying coverage to individuals with preexisting conditions, allows young adults without insurance to be covered on their parents' insurance policies until the age of 26 and eliminates cost-sharing for preventive services, like mammograms and cholesterol and blood pressure screenings.

The Affordable Care Act is working for Nevada's families. Whether you are new to the health insurance marketplace or you enrolled in a plan in the past, I encourage you visit Nevada Health Link or HealthCare.gov and search for a health plan that works for you.

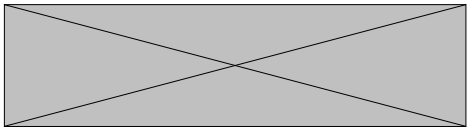
Subject: Question 2 on the ballot



Robert and Alice --

Nevada has come so far, and legalizing recreational marijuana would only set us back.
That's why I'm writing to urge you to join me and Vote NO on Question 2.
We can learn from other state's experiences. Since Colorado, Washington and Oregon legalized recreational marijuana:

- Car accident deaths related to marijuana increased 62% in Colorado since legalization.
- Within 6 months of legalizing, Oregon's pot-related DUI's increased 163%.
- In Colorado, accidental ingestion by youth increased more than 600%.
- Pot-related traffic deaths in Washington doubled.
- Colorado is now ranked as the leading state in combined opioid, marijuana, alcohol, and cocaine use.

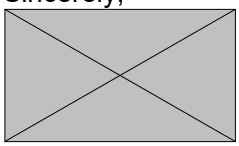
Marijuana is not harmless.
Legalizing recreational marijuana would also setback the strides we've made since the great recession, right when Nevadans needs a dependable workforce more than ever.

Overall, the arguments in favor of legalizing recreational marijuana are not enough to outweigh the consequences. Especially considering policy makers have reduced penalties for possession of small quantities of the drug and medicinal marijuana is already legal in Nevada.

When you cast your ballot, will you join me in voting NO on Question 2?

Thank you for your hard work fighting for the future of our great state.

Sincerely,



Brian Sandoval

P.S. Will you make sure your friends and family know the implications of Question 2 by forwarding this along in an email? They can get more facts here.

Trump was above board with all his business dealings.

Robert' A]: I did not know Your father was a major partner with Mr Donald J. Trump. I did not know that If he could turned one million $ into over 30 Billion Dollars. Show me the money. Why Trump needs 6 times of Bankruptcy in 70 years? Why he could not pay so many people he owed? Even his Champagne team could not pay staffs. a few money for Ad?

His Champagne fund is only 1/30 of Clinton's. He pays employee wage [$8-10]. It is under market value. Why RNC's Cleveland Conviction was owed $50 millions. How many Big donors and companies support RNC & Trump? He & RNC are very weak.

He is brilliant to cheat contractors and the people he owed. 5,000+ open cases for Trump's law suit. If you are so poor vision about Trump. Why did He still owes contractors and the business men the money. 5,000+ open cases for his law suit. He will make our country danger, even it will Bankruptcy our country. That why 30 GOP congressmen & women. And 50 Security persons against to him.

[Patricia]:The best choice for America not Hillary or anyone else just our next a President Of The United States Of America. Mr Donald J. Trump. You need to do your research on Hillary they just stole the election from Bernie shame sham on them not to many people want Hillary look at her events 500 people Mr Donald J. Robert' A]: The best choice for America is Hillary. I am very confident about Bill & Hillary who will make America Real Great. Not Trump, believe me. Trump just talk and cheat. No action and No content. I did a lot of my research over Hillary and Trump. You just know the iceberg of Trump. Trump has no respect for the law of the land. He missed ball so many times.

Hillary is never stole the election from Bernie. Shame sham on Bernie who cheated the poor, young persons, noneducational people's money and rich for himself by his Cannot do platforms. Where is the Free education? Where is the Free Insurance? where is $15/Hr wage? One day he will meet FBI. Even now he still ask money / Fund from those persons for Revolution and Defeat the DNC Chairwoman. Give me a break. What kind of US Senator?

Although Rep. Jeb Hensarling's second shot at repealing Dodd-Frank faces an uncertain path to passage, experts say the Financial CHOICE Act 2.0 sends a clear message to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission to pull back its enforcement program and focus on capital formation — a message likely to be well received by the agency's new leadership. Boyd Briefs: February 12, 2015

From Dean Dan

Next Thursday, we are pleased to host the 16th Annual Public Interest Law Association Auction, a great community event for the law school that promotes all of our efforts to support students pursuing careers in public interest law. This year's auction is already the most successful ever, and I want to recognize and thank the exceptional hard work of all our student members of the Public Interest Law Association (PILA). This year, PILA is honoring Judge Elizabeth Gonzalez, a longtime friend of the law school and distinguished member of the bar, for her outstanding commitment to public interest. Past honorees were Bill Curran (2014), Justice Michael Douglas (2013), Barbara Buckley (2012), and Franny Forsman (2011).

16th Annual Public Interest Law Association Auction
Thursday, Feb. 19, 5:30 p.m.
The Smith Center for the Performing Arts - Reynolds Hall Lobby

PILA is a non-profit, student-run organization created to raise awareness about public interest work and the opportunities available to law students. Each year, the auction helps to raise funds to finance summer internship grants for Boyd students working in the public sector. You can learn about some of the wonderful things our PILA students are doing by reading about two of them in the student section below. The auction really is a wonderful cause - not only are you supporting Boyd students who commit their time to practicing public interest law, but also the many people in our community who would not receive legal assistance if not for their dedication.

FACULTY SPOTLIGHT: Ian Bartrum

Professor Ian Bartrum is an expert on matters of Constitutional interpretation. Naturally, there are a number of theories about how the U.S. Constitution should be interpreted. Bartrum believes that most of these theories are right. And wrong. The interpretive theories are right in the sense that these various approaches can lend insight and legitimacy to the critically important task of interpreting our Constitution. Yet these interpretive theories are wrong to the extent that they seek to foreclose other interpretive approaches. Bartrum argues that it would be dangerous for a society to commit in advance to any theory of interpretation that would reduce the number and kind of interpretive tools that have emerged from the centuries of lived experience.

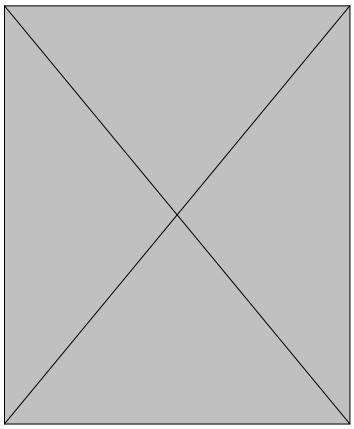
In one of his recent articles, titled Two Dogmas of Originalism, Professor Bartrum challenges a prominent theory of constitutional interpretation called New Originalism. In his typically erudite fashion, Bartrum exposes a number of structural flaws within this interpretive modality. But his principal criticism is directed at the theory's constraint principle, which would restrict judges to follow a fixed semantic meaning that, in turn, is the product of certain linguistic facts (a term Bartrum calls "conceptually oxymoronic"). Bartrum bristles at this—or any—exclusive constraining principle because it would represent a radical challenge to our longstanding interpretive traditions. "Judges must speak fluently in our constitutional language, and opinions that depart too radically from the inherited interpretive norms are very much like assertions offered in a foreign tongue. In truth, these evolving practical norms, built and adapted over centuries of lived democratic experience, better keep judges within the contours of our collected political wisdom than any external normative theory ever could."

Professor Bartrum is not only one of the faculty's leading scholars, he is also a popular and effective teacher. A leader, a team player, and a welcome iconoclast, Bartrum lives in Boulder City, and is a frequent hockey player and mountain biker.



Bailey Bortolin

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT: Bailey Bortolin and Shaina Plaksin

Dean Dan's plug above for the fabulous Public Interest Law Association (PILA) Auction seems a fabulous segue to talk some about this year's fabulous PILA co-presidents, Bailey Bortolin and Shaina Plaksin.

Shaina has toiled tirelessly to make this year's auction bigger and better than ever. As a Boyd Public Interest Fellow, Shaina has worked as an intern in the Fraud Unit of the Nevada Attorney General's Office. Additionally, she has served as a student attorney in our Immigration Law Clinic, a research assistant for Professor Fatma Marouf, and founding president of Boyd's Federal Bar Association Student Chapter. Shaina is an articles editor for the Nevada Law Journal. Following graduation this May, she will clerk for the Honorable Gloria Navarro of the United States District Court for the District of Nevada. Of her time at Boyd, Shaina says, "I live by the belief that life is what you make of it. Looking back on my law school experience, I feel that I have made the most of the many opportunities at Boyd to learn and give

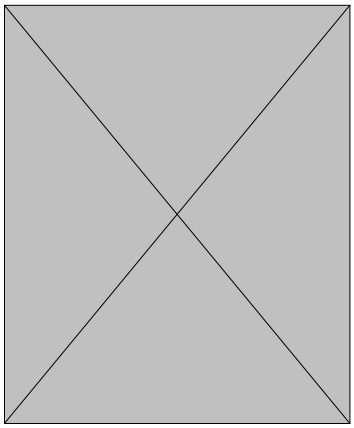
Also a Boyd Public Interest Fellow, Bailey currently finds herself in beautiful Carson City, Nevada, participating in Boyd's Legislative Externship Program; she is working as a lobbyist for the Legal Aid Center of Southern Nevada (LACSN) as well as Washoe Legal Services. In 2014 she earned the Nevada Law Journal Scholarly Writing Competition Award. Bailey has been a student attorney with Boyd's Family Justice Clinic, as well as events coordinator for the Child Advocacy Law Association. Recently she was named a recipient of the UNLV Graduate and Professional Student Association Service Award. "Boyd and LACSN have helped me cultivate a voice and a passion for helping community members in need," shares Bailey. "I am proud to be a part of such extraordinary legal programs."

If you can make it to the PILA auction for fun and fundraising next Thursday, 5:30 p.m., at the spectacular Smith Center – and we certainly hope you can – make sure you say "hey" to Bailey and Shaina and congratulate them on an event well done. For more information on the PILA Auction, please go to http://law.unlv.edu/PILA2015auction.



ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT: Christina Mills '07

Christina Mills is a '07 Boyd graduate and currently serves as senior counsel at Aruze Gaming America. Christina provides primary legal support to Aruze's Sales Team and assists with other corporate transactions and gaming compliance matters.

After Christina graduated from the University of San Diego with a degree in Political Science, she returned to Las Vegas to attend Boyd. Christina started her legal career at Aristocrat Technologies as a law clerk while attending Boyd, and was promoted to associate counsel in 2007. After Aristocrat, she spent time at MGM Resorts International and Station Casinos as associate general counsel, before she became the general counsel of SLS Las Vegas during the development phase of the property. Upon successfully opening the SLS, she returned to the manufacturing side of gaming with Aruze.

Christina credits many experiences at Boyd to her success as an attorney, including her time as an extern for Federal Judge James Mahan and participating in the Juvenile Justice Clinic; however, she credits her success in the gaming industry to her time as a student and mentee of Bob Faiss.

"Bob was a true inspiration to so many people and although I was just a drop in the bucket of his life, he was instrumental in making me the attorney and person I am today. I feel so privileged to have been a student of Bob's."

Christina is married to Darin Mills and they have a 2-year-old Labradoodle named Riese and 12-year-old cat named Calvin.

Well, this is certainly…interesting. I do not recall having seen or heard of such communications from this person until now. I will forward the string to the Fusion Center to follow up on. If his message reached Ted Moody prior to his retirement, he would have sent it along to SNCTC as well. If so, they will have a file started on this person and any communications they may have had with him since. His initial warning in May 2014 has yet to pan out and with no specifics to go on, there's not much we can do.

I recommend your response read something to the effect of:

"Mr. Almon, thank you for sharing your concerns about terrorism and its potential impact to the Las Vegas area. I have recently expressed my own concerns directly with Secretary Johnson of the Department of Homeland Security. As a city, we invest in many resources to ensure the safety of the community and the visitors we serve. As you know, we cannot prevent every possible act of violence or terrorism. We work very hard to ensure communication, cooperation and coordination with our local government agencies, the private sector and our state and federal partners to be prepared to achieve our 5 mission areas: prevent, protect, mitigate, respond, recover from terror attack.

I am forwarding your concerns to our Joint Terrorism Task Force and the Southern Nevada Counter Terrorism Center for further investigation. If you have knowledge of specific planned targets, modes of attack, or dates and times of planned attack, please file a SAR (Suspicious Activity Report) as soon as possible with our Counter Terrorism Center. This report may be sent anonymously if so desired."

I hope this is satisfactory for your use. Please let me know if he persists with non-specific information about how much danger we are in. Thank you!

Subject: PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL FOR REVIEW BY MAYOR GOODMAN RE: TERRORISM THREAT

The Honorable Mayor Carolyn Goodman:

I am contacting you concerning the information on terrorism below. Due to 2 incidents in Las Vegas and my familiarity with terrorism, I sent the email below to a Las Vegas commander, and have since contacted other commanders, corporate, and a Las Vegas politician with my concerns. Unfortunately, the response was as inadequate as the response the FBI agents, civilians, and well known individuals experienced when warning top DC officials about 9/11. This is why I and others are so reluctant to contact authorities concerning the issue, and specifically why I hesitated to contact the Las Vegas commander with my original warning (due to what I witnessed in Las Vegas). If it were not for the fact so many EU, Australian, Chinese, and Indian friends/kids that I know visit Las Vegas I would just ignore the situation and let it happen and then say I told you so to the media. (I am also covering myself by having proof that I did warn every authority responsible for public safety in Las Vegas, the US, and abroad.) I assure the situation is far worse than you know, and I would not underestimate it or the ruthlessness of the enemy. They have already picked out their targets and made their decision to carry out their missions no matter what. They will have to be physically stopped by and aggressive and competent campaign led by competent and aggressive law enforcement/intelligence officers.

Due to the seriousness of the situation, my ties to the EU, Australia, and other countries, I have warned Ministers that I have had previous contact with and others this week concerning issuing a travel warning to their citizens. I have not mentioned the city of concern, however as of next week I may have to. I do not want to get involved in the situation at all, I like 3 other top terrorist experts are fed up with the incompetence and politicizing of terrorism that has led to the disastrous attacks from 9/11, Paris, San Bernardino, and now Brussels. (The experts are former Clinton & Bush terrorism expert Richard Clark, former CIA agent/CNN consultant Bob Baer, and former Bin Laden desk Chief Michael Scheuer.) We have all reached this point due our being completely correct in our forecasts and strategies for addressing terrorist threats, and the individuals and entities that were listened to being dead wrong each and every time. An audit of my record on forecasting terrorist trends and events to be irrefutably accurate, and an audit of the "experts" to be irrefutably inaccurate.

The individuals that are sought after to address terrorism in the US by the government and media are not actually experts-are you aware of that? If you are counting on US or local counter terrorism officials to save Las Vegas-I would stock up on body bags, you're going to need them.

Those responsible for anti-terrorism measures in Las Vegas and the US as a whole have no idea what they are up against, nor do they have a clue as to how to negate the threat-hence why ISIS/Al Qaeda continue to beat them to the punch.

EXAMPLES:

-The only people that did not know that Ms. Prouty a terrorist mole were the Directors of the FBI and CIA (literally) that fought over her and gave her the highest awards the agencies has https://www.justice.gov/archive/opa/pr/2007/November/07_nsd_910.html http://www.cbsnews.com/news/the-case-against-nada-prouty-26-03-2010/. There are a lot more Nada Prouty's in the US committing the same act. Ms. Prouty proves a Middle Easterner cannot be vetted, there are many just like her in the US that have US passports, driver's licenses, and they are in no way who the government thinks they are right down to the names on those documents.

-This terrorist pioneer lived 2 miles down the road from me http://articles.chicagotribune.com/1985-06-19/news/8502090070_1_lebanon-david-berry-nabih-berri

I grew up here and know or have met all of the people connected to this issue and I assure you the situation is far worse than is suspected by authorities. I have met and talked to many of the individuals responsible for stopping these terrorists, and trust me-the terrorists are far ahead of the opposition.

https://www.google.com/webhp?sourceid=chrome-instant&ion=1&espv=2&ie=UTF-8#q=plane+terrorism+dearborn+

LAS VEGAS CONNECTION

http://www.wxyz.com/news/local-news/investigations/happys-pizza-headquarters-raided-by-irs-criminal-division-dea (Las Vegas has a franchise and a lot more connections to Detroit/Dearborn than you likely are aware of. It is a case of this https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=JcZHSGyos6g)

I have talked with the founders of this business several times and this case was strictly about terrorist funding as in this case http://www.mlive.com/lansing-news/index.ssf/2011/12/report_several_southeast_michi.html.

In closing, my original warning should have been ran to ground, the fact that it wasn't is proof of just how off and far behind Las Vegas is in addressing Paris and Brussels style attacks (this week every Minister from every foreign country I contacted responded with a phone call or/and email seeking further information because they now "get it".) To be direct, authorities in Las Vegas and the US have their heads in the sands regarding the issue of terrorism and must change their strategy and tactics while they still have a chance to do so. With Las Vegas having the worst inherent terrorist vulnerabilities of any major city, Las Vegas should be much more precise and aggressive in avoiding such an attack (which is possible). An attack in the manner that I have forecast would dwarf the Paris body count by a minimum of X5, however it will be worse. The intelligence, physical security, and counter measures of Las Vegas are an invitation for an attack, and the terrorist know all of the cities vulnerabilities as well as I do.

No casino pit boss, dealer, etc. could have the record of the anti-terrorism leadership and still be employed in Las Vegas, it is the equivalent to them "losing" track of a million dollars every day for a year and the casino owners and Gaming Control Board accepting any explanation he came up with as legitimate. This would never happen. The see something say something just does not work as Brussels, Paris, and San Bernardino prove with the number of people that knew and didn't talk for various reasons. The #1 reason is that people simply have no confidence in authorities taking proper action. Examine my experience with the issue, each time I am putting my life and business life in danger by even contacting authorities in Las Vegas, and not once has anyone so much as responded or asked me how and why I reached the conclusions I have reached. This is a mirror of the warning by James Woods cited below regarding 9/11-it all could have and should have been ended right then and there. The mindset of law enforcement/political leadership on the municipal level must change, at the end of the day the battle and ramifications are like all politics-local.

As you know the odds always catch up, and luck runs out. Vegas' luck is about to run out in the worst of ways. If you would like the scenario I war gamed, I will forward it upon your request.

Thank you and good luck-

Sincerely,
Jerome Almon

Sheriff Moody:

Thank you for you response and time regarding the issues below:

1)THE TERRORISM ISSUE:

As you are certainly aware of, Al Qaeda has Las Vegas as one of its top 5 main targets, specifically the Strip. I am certain that the area has been scouted and targets selected based on my experience in the area and my observations of individuals and groups while in Las Vegas. They will hit what is most familiar with them, and Las Vegas is very familiar to them. (For example the mastermind behind 911 graduated from the University of North Carolina http://edition.cnn.com/2002/US/South/12/19/al.qaeda.aggie/ .

ACTIONS THAT WILL BE TAKEN BY TERRORIST:

A) http://newyork.cbslocal.com/2014/03/19/al-qaeda-magazine-calls-for-car-bombings-in-u-s-new-york

B) http://www.cnn.com/2013/09/18/world/asia/mumbai-terror-attacks/

RECOMMENDED COUNTER MEASURES:

A) Special response teams will not get to the site in time, and must be in place PRIOR to any incident in the immediate area.
B) CONTAIN AND KILL-officers must be prepared to neutralize the terrorist at the point of attack, i.e. the attacker cannot be allowed out of the building, off the block, or off the side of the street where they attacked (Las Vegas Blvd is a perfect kill zone for a terrorist due to its geography, such as the inability to cross the Strip in certain areas combined with the natural traffic volume.) Point blank, these are the same individuals and groups that Delta Force, Navy SEALS, Army Rangers, Airforce Commandos, and Marine RECON/special forces faced on the battlefields of Iraq and Afghanistan-they are not to be under estimated. (Essentially they are Islamic special forces.) They are going to attack sooner than later.
C) Las Vegas should have its own anti-terrorism unit on the level of the NYPD's anti-terrorism unit, NYC learned its lesson the hard way 911-YOU CANNOT DEPEND ON THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO PROTECT YOUR CITY. As you will see in the information from the Canadian CIA (CSIS) and the response to that information from both that unit and myself, the federal authorities are grossly out of touch with reality regarding terrorism.

I assure you this is not close to the worst.
I am well versed in this area as you will see due to my studies/duties as a university guest lecturer, and personal experiences however most of my experience is first hand. I left college and joined the US Army, several individuals that I attended college with left college and joined our enemy and did fight against the US in numerous war zones around the world. These individuals are supported by groups in America, and know the country as well as you and I do.

Secretary Janet Napolitano
Department of Homeland Security
U.S. Department of Homeland Security
Washington, DC 20528

Secretary Napolitano-

I am writing you concerning a pervasive and unacceptable sanctioned policy within the Department of Homeland Security of the sexual harassment of female traveler's entering the United States. I have been informed by numerous female travelers coming to visite me in the United States from Norway, Germany, and especially Canada that they are routinely harassed by male DHS inspectors. I find the allegations completely credible due to the carbon copy stories from the females, and the profile of the females- all attractive teen or near teen girls traveling alone. The harassment is so overt that it is impossible that supervisors are not aware of it, do not witness it, and in fact sanction it.

I have a substantial amount of both academic and field study experience in this area, and have personally witnessed the practice by DHSemployees myself. This is should be addressed in the open without hesitation. It is insulting to the female travelers, and also opens up US females to the retaliatory actions by the security personnel of other countries- which I assure has happened. Certainly with all the alleged dangers facing Americans and the gaping holes in border security at the various ports of entry, DHS does not have the luxury expending valuable energy and tax payers money on sexually harassing female travelers.

I thank you for your time and consideration and will await your reply.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

website_comments: I have had previous contacts with your office issues (specifically Bonnie Tischler). I feel it is necessary to reintroduce this information (I will send a copy of thisinformation to US Senator Carl Levin.) I have made compliants against certain procedures and individuals at the Detroit/Windsor border crossing. I also corresponded with the Canadian Minister for Immigration (Elinor Caplan) concerning the fact that even the supervisors at the Canadian border do not understand much of the information they need to concerning legitimate vs. false documentation. (I unfortunately am able to prove this point.) Meaning if say a person was on a wanted list -the Canadians often ask the person to interpret the information.
Finally the Detroit/Windsor tunnel. It is a disaster waiting to happen. Since the US checks cars AFTER they have entered the tunnel (as does Canada) -doesn't that defeat the objective of stopping a terrorist act in the tunnel? The check should happen before the tunnel is entered, and after-or the tunnel should be closed.

I originally warned a agent at a federal law enforcement entity of the threat on 9/11 and although he agreed I was correct, he took no action, stating he didn't exactly know what to do regarding the information, and that he was quite frankly stunned at the danger. Only when an individual drove through the tunnel with what appeared to be a bomb on his front seat did the politicians take the matter up, as you will see with NYC. The tunnel is in a far worse position than it was on 9/11 due to Detroit's economic collapse, the influx of more Middle Easterners into Canada, and this http://www.reuters.com/article/us-detroit-tunnel-bankruptcy-idUSBRE96O0RT20130725.

Tighter security at border hits snag

Legal issues may block U.S., Canada checks before crossing

WASHINGTON -- Checking travelers between the United States and Canada after they've crossed the border -- which some liken to checking airline passengers after they land -- is being scrutinized by officials concerned that bridges and tunnels could be vulnerable to attack.

Lawmakers are pressuring the U.S. Customs Service and Canadian officials to come up with a decision this week on whether the countries can swap inspection locations.

An alternative to paying a toll, crossing the bridge or tunnel, and then being scrutinized by Customs officials once inside the other country's territory is to do inspections before crossing.

Although the reverse inspection system is the only solution being lobbied to enhance infrastructure safety, the two nations haven't agreed on how to settle legal obstacles. An old idea revived by the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, a revised system would involve numerous agencies in both countries in the decision.

"This reverse clearance proposal has a number of sovereignty and structure issues attached to it," said Michel Proulx, spokesman for the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency in Ottawa.

"There are a lot of players involved in all of this. It's difficult to get a sound, concrete answer. No one department or agency would be able to say yes or no."

There's little to stop someone who wanted to damage the Ambassador Bridge, Detroit-Windsor Tunnel, or even Detroit Metropolitan Airport, if the crime is done before the perpetrator even gets to an inspection point, critics say.

Besides the human safety concern, destroying any one of the border-crossing points would do serious harm to the auto industry, one of the United States' economic engines, and many other businesses that rely on just-in-time delivery of material. Michigan had $70 billion in trade with Canada in 2000.

"Every time I drive through that tunnel, I expect something to happen," said Jerome Almon, a Detroiter who drives to and from Toronto at least twice a month.

"Osama bin Laden says the economy is what they want to attack, and you cannot find a more decimating effect than that bridge or tunnel on our economy. You will kill Detroit, it's over, goodbye. But think of the effect on the rest of America."

Firearms an issue

Aside from jurisdiction, the question of whether U.S. Customs agents should carry firearms in Canada is of particular concern to Canadians. Canada is known for being much less tolerant of guns than the United States.

"Our Customs officers are not armed and at this point in time we still feel there is no reason for them to be," Proulx said.
"We have a study going on right now to determine whether the tools they have are adequate to do their jobs safely and with full security. The U.S. (agents) are (armed) and definitely that would be one of the snags in the issue."
The preclearance concept does have precedent. U.S. Customs agents inspect U.S.-bound passengers at six Canadian airports so they don't have to be routed through Customs once they arrive like travelers on flights from every other country, said former Michigan Gov. James Blanchard.
He spearheaded the "open skies" agreement when he was U.S. ambassador to Canada.
The real stumbling block to doing this at bridges and tunnels will be working out how much authority each side is given to enforce the other country's laws, he said.
"You could always prevent (a suspicious passenger) from getting on the plane," Blanchard said. "The question is who arrests them, can they say 'I choose not to fly' then go home, or do we hold them?"
Sen. Carl Levin, D-Detroit, said he thinks all of the issues can be worked out.
"The only impediment here is bureaucratic impediment," he said. "Even though there's supposed to be an urgency after Sept. 11, there seems to be some unnecessary foot-dragging."
Levin and Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, sent a letter to Customs Commissioner Robert Bonner on Jan. 4, insisting on a progress report by Friday.
"It is obvious that inspecting vehicles for dangerous contents such as bombs or explosives after they enter our tunnels or cross our bridges is inadequate," they wrote.
Customs spokesman Jim Michie said he wasn't sure when a decision would be made on reverse inspections, but that it was being closely studied.
Tighter local security
Local authorities say they've taken the steps they can to bolster security.
Travelers who use the Detroit-Windsor Tunnel are no longer allowed through unless operators are certain they can make to the other side without backups, said Gordon Jarvis, president of the Detroit & Canada Tunnel Corp.
"If there is an incident and you need to get out, there is space for you to do so, and there are fewer cars in the tunnel at any one time," Jarvis said. "It also makes it much easier for us to identify when there are incidents in the tunnel."
Jarvis said reverse inspections are a viable option at the tunnel, despite the smaller queue area, compared to other crossing points like the Ambassador Bridge.
The owners of the Ambassador Bridge have installed new lighting, fencing and surveillance cameras, as well as armed security 24 hours a day, said Dan Stamper, president of the Detroit International Bridge Co. Stamper said the bridge company is paying for the extra security.

"We're not sure whose responsibility it is for the cost of security, but we are not in the position to say it's not going to be done," he said.

The bridge authority has completed plans showing that logistically, preclearance can be implemented on an interim basis within 90 days, Stamper said. In doing so, there would be the added bonus of huge efficiencies in traffic flow.

"The current six lanes that cross the border, two at the tunnel and four at the bridge, become traffic lanes and not parking lots," Stamper said. "It increases the capacity of both the tunnel and the bridge, a lot more than anything else we can do today."

Blue Water Bridge study

Bruce Campbell, the engineer manager of the Blue Water Bridge, said the proposal is being examined as part of a long-term security review of the span connecting Port Huron with Sarnia, Ontario.

With the Ambassador Bridge being the busiest U.S.-Canada entry point, carrying 12 million vehicles a year, the economic implications for the region are enormous.

"One 18-wheeler goes across that bridge every eight seconds," said Carmine Palombo, director of transportation planning at the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The implications for the bridge and tunnel operators are significant as well.

"They're all looking at an out-of-pocket expense they hadn't anticipated," said Neil Gray, director of government affairs at the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association, which represents toll agencies.

"Nobody wants to do a toll increase to reflect this, in fact I'm not sure anyone has proposed one, but it's an issue we are all having to think about."

Protecting airports is a concern as well, though most of the attention has been on protecting aircraft against air piracy, Capt. Duane E. Woerth, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, told senators late last year.

Noting that airports in Rome and Vienna have been hit, Woerth said he's worried terrorists could attack ticket counters, check-in facilities and lines of passengers waiting outside.

Airlines, bridges and tunnels are experiencing lower traffic flow because of leisure travelers concerned about terrorist risks.

Almon, the Detroiter who travels to Toronto on business, said he's a former combat engineer with the Army and he's concerned about how easily a carload of explosives put together with store-bought material could take out the bridge or tunnel.

"At the mouth of the Detroit tunnel sits General Motors headquarters, a terrorist would get two for one with that," Almon said.

Dear Mr. Almon:

Thank you for your correspondence of July 18, 2011, regarding the proposed construction of a new bridge between Detroit and Windsor. Please accept my apologies for the delay in replying.

Again, thank you for writing and for providing me with your comments.

Yours sincerely,

Denis Lebel, P.C., M.P.

c.c. Office of the Right Honourable Stephen Harper, P.C., M.P.

The issue with the Ambassador Bridge is equally troubled, the owner has successfully blocked a new bridge being built. The issue too closely resembles the Dubai Ports issue https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manuel_Moroun. Ottawa wrote me 90 days after my warning to CYA and because again what I warned them about occurred.

The largest portion of the trade comes through the tunnel and bridge mentioned https://www.commerce.gov/news/blog/2014/01/secretary-pritzker-highlights-strong-economic-partnership-between-usa-and-canada

Dr. Zagar-
Good to hear from you. I am sorry I just got to my email messages, I am working on several other huge projects that all come back to the migrant issue. I will have to hook up Skype, I don't know how it works to be honest.

The situation in the States is pretty dire. We are essentially at civil war with the country collapsing socially. All of the work that you and Dr. Feinstein did and your forecasts turned out to be 100% accurate. Simply put, America bet on the wrong people with the wrong plans and now we are getting our comeuppance.

I am against the re-settling of immigrants in the US or Europe, it will most certainly lead to more conflict in both areas and the Middle East. The only hope is establishing a safe zone in Syria and Iraq, which is as close to impossible as it gets considering the collapse of the basic structures and the radicalization of the factions. Electing George Bush was the worse event that has happened to the world since WWII. I will get on Skype and send you another email asap. I am moving to Berlin to work on a large social media project in the next 30-60 days. In the meantime I am sending these articles for your review concern my thoughts on the migrant issue. Would you be able to attend a conference on the issue of the migrants and school shooter issues in Europe or the US with all expenses and a fee paid to you?

The other issue I am extremely concerned about is a threat that would end Detroit, cost America 2 million jobs in a week, and plunge the stock market to below 2008 and 911 levels. The Iran deal was done in part due to Iran has 40,000 agents in or at America's borders prepared to attack if Iran's nuclear facilities were attacked. That is the good news, the bad news is the Sunnis have 3X that many agents in the US and are preparing for their "Islamic Tet offensive." With Russia, out of necessity intervening in the Syrian/Iraq war and the US govt. giving behind the scenes approval for the Russian-Iranian-Alawite axis which will inevitably bring in Israel and the US the Sunnis will go after the US and Canadians on their own soil in a much more aggressive and massive way. My assessment is that the Chinese will be drawn into the war due the unrest with the Xinjiang Province and the Uighars. The Islamic State (IS) has spread throughout Central Asia and will take Afghanistan and defeat the Taliban in the end unless there is a "mass war event." It is my contention that Putin has decided to that. He cannot lose the Syrian-Iraq War, he cannot allow the IS to continue to grow in the Central Asian Republics, and Afghanistan, and he is not giving up Crimea, and does not have the military resources nor money to fight a prolonged war. I believe Putin is planning to use a tactical/battle field nuclear weapon (NATO appears to be thinking that way on the Ukraine which is insane). Most of the intelligence guys that I respect believe that is the only way to stop the IS/Sunnis or to completely withdraw from the Middle East. What is your opinion?

Thanks-
Jerome

(My numbers on the size of the networks mentioned are accurate I assure you. 2 other respected security/intelligence officers that have a proven track record of accuracy, agree with me. The messages I sent to US authorities were more detailed and were sent in the Spring of 2014, and the Spring and Summer of 2015.)

WARNING TO AIRLINE INDUSTRY THAT FORESAW BRUSSELS ATTACK

Sir or Madam: I am forwarding the following information sent to first responders, due to its application to your industry. To be direct, I have warned your union several times since 9/11 of these very threats, and the actions of the leadership has not matched the threat. Unfortunately, this is the same conduct of law enforcement and political leadership regarding what is now a catastrophic situation. That is, the industry will suffer huge losses in both personnel and revenue due to the lack of taking prudent steps to pre-act rather than react to obvious threats. The only hope in negating or minimizing the threat is for the travel, hotel, and tourism industries along with the pilot and flight attendant unions (and their allies) to join forces and seek to have necessary security and industry support measures put in place without political consideration. The needed measures must be completely based on the real world security and economic threat that exists, and is getting worse by the minute. The losses France and Belgium are suffering are just the beginning, and minor in compared to an Egypt Air or Russian Sharm El Sheikh incident in North America or Europe. I assure you, the threat is far worse than is known even to most of the law enforcement community.

Sincerely,

Jerome Almon

UNADDRESSED THREATS TO YOUR INDUSTRY

-Foreign pilots compromised by ISIS or Al Qaeda committing an act similar to the pilot of Egypt Air 990 at an airport, city, or against another passenger airliner -An attack on airports using car/truck bombs and suicide bombers/shooters against shuttle buses and the non-secure areas of the airport such as ticketing -Compromised airport personnel (this is worse than is indicated here)

TRUE STATE OF THE TERRORIST THREAT IN AMERICA

From Canada's CIA (CSIS):
"Many Canadians may be surprised to learn that, with the exception of the United States, there are more terrorist groups active in Canada today than in any other country in the world."

VERIFICATION
http://www.torontosun.com/2013/01/23/algerian-terrorists-had-canadian-ties-eh

The information was removed from the website in late 2013 due to White House protests, the largest number of these terrorist are at the South end and North end of the tunnel and bridge cited below.

There are more than 400 ISIS operatives and 300 recruiters in my neighborhood. As with the deliberate ignoring of the 9/11 warnings, these non-scientific reports will result in the deaths of untold numbers of civilians.

Hi Katja,

I got your contact details from Marie at Freemuse in Denmark. My name is Scott Corben and I am a producer with Al Jazeera Television in London.

I am researching a piece on soldier in the United States and
I am really keen to speak to a guy called Jerome Almon. I believe he is based in Detroit. Maries tells me that you may have some way of contacting him. If you have an up to date email or phone number I'd really appreciate it.

Look forward to hearing from you

best regards,

DIGITAL INNOVATION

Police Need to Get Social

Social media has become ubiquitous–everyone from the Pope to your second grade English teacher has a following. The one group that's lagging behind? Law enforcement. That's not to say that police aren't investing in technology–quite the opposite, in fact. "Law enforcement organizations invest pretty heavily in technology, but it's not clear when that technology actually improves public safety," Mark Forman, former Federal CIO and current global head for the Public Sector at Unisys, told MeriTalk State & Local. A January report from Unisys found that more than 1,500 urbanites from ages 18 to 74 in Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, and Philadelphia want more online interaction with law enforcement.

From CISO to CIO–Lonbom Leads Land of Lincoln

When the Land of Lincoln needed a new CIO this fall, Illinois-native Kirk Lonbom couldn't have been a more obvious choice. With two years as CISO and more than 15 years of experience with the state government, Lonbom had the right credentials for the job. So, it was no surprise when Gov. Bruce Rauner tapped Lonbom to head the Illinois Department of Innovation & Technology as state CIO. Though he's only held the CIO title for a few months, Lonbom has already built on the programs of his predecessor and launched his own initiatives.

Rape Survivor Information Act: Emergency contraception (EC) is exceptionally effective in preventing pregnancy after unprotected sex. Any woman who reports to law enforcement or college authorities that she has been sexually assaulted ought to be informed about ECs. State and local lawmakers can require it with the Rape Survivor Information Act.

California cracked down on fraudulent Crisis Pregnancy Centers (CPCs), shouldn't you? CPCs are offices that purport to offer women comprehensive and unbiased reproductive health care information and services, but their mission is to say anything—whether truthful or not—to prevent women from obtaining abortions. There are three ways that lawmakers can address CPC fraud. Read about them on IdeaLog, our blog intended to raise eyebrows and engage minds.

Top Ten Model Bills for Abortion Rights: Wednesday, January 13 @3pm Eastern, 2pm Central, 1pm Mountain, Noon Pacific. The best way to defend against anti-abortion attacks is by going on the offensive, reframing the debate with proactive legislation, and putting the right wingers in a difficult political position. Join this webinar for ten good ideas how to do it.

States are lifting restriction on SNAP and TANF for drug offenders: A 1996 federal law lets states decide whether to include ex-drug offenders in food stamp and welfare programs. A story from Pew notes that states are realizing, if the goal is to help ex-offenders go straight, it makes no sense to impoverish and starve them.

Protections from abuses in the credit and collections industries: The National Consumer Law Center has a great new model bill, the Family Financial Protection Act. It levels the playing field between consumers and debt collectors, among other important consumer reforms.

A Playbook for Abortion Rights: With 27 model bills and 2 model resolutions, our new Playbook for Abortion Rights is a one-of-a-kind resource for state and local policymakers. Click here to read a summary of the bills and download the whole book.

Testing The UBE: Missouri Benefits From Uniform Bar Exam

We in Missouri do not take lightly to new trends or frothy ideas. Yet, the uniform bar exam has allowed us to meet the challenges of an increasingly mobile legal profession and the changing needs of clients, and to ensure that a newly admitted attorney has the knowledge, character and fitness to practice in the Show-Me State, says Jim Nowogrocki, president of the Board of Law Examiners in Missouri — the first state to adopt the UBE.

Carelessness Is Not Criminal: The Impact Of FBI Chief's Theory

Buried deep in the transcript of FBI Director James Comey's fiery hearing with the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee was an interesting nugget — Comey stated that he has worked hard "to stop the criminalization of negligence in the United States." It's a fascinating position to take and could alter attitudes about who should be held accountable following cyberattacks, says Brian Finch of Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP.

Benefiting From FDA's Medical Device Risk-Benefit Guidance

Medical device manufacturers should understand the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's considerations for benefit-risk assessments so they can advocate for favorable FDA decisions by using the enumerated factors to illustrate the high benefits and low risks of the company's device, say Dan Wittenberg and Tim Scalo at Snell & Wilmer LLP.

EPA Wants More Control Over State-Issued Discharge Permits

Proposed changes to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's National Pollutant Discharge Permit System would make minor revisions to program definitions and the contents of permit fact sheets, and major revisions that will expand the EPA's ability to object to permits administratively continued by a state program, say attorneys at Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck LLP.

Huckabee Copyright Case And 'Religious Assembly' Defense

When Mike Huckabee's presidential campaign was sued based on the alleged unauthorized public performance of “Eye of the Tiger” during a rally for Kim Davis, the Kentucky county clerk who was briefly jailed for refusing to issue same-sex marriage licenses, it raised an interesting affirmative defense — that the rally was actually a “religious assembly.” But the event did not appear to follow any recognizable religious service, says Thomas Orofino of Sedgwick LLP.

Changing Climate: What The Paris Accord Means For China

Chinese President Xi Jinping has asserted a diplomatic policy approach to climate change and reportedly intends to inject more Chinese elements into international rules. This includes efforts to establish a “new type of great-power relationship” with the United States, says WilmerHale's Lester Ross, chairman of the policy committee of the American Chamber of Commerce in the People's Republic of China.

significant blow to the global telecommunications equipment sector and is a setback for ZTE's U.S suppliers, showing that even a significant impact on the U.S. economy will not protect a company from U.S. sanctions when national security and foreign policy interests are implicated, say attorneys at Goodwin Procter LLP.

In Congress: Senate Off, House Tackles FAA Extension

With the Senate adjourned for two weeks and the House due to follow once legislative business concludes Wednesday, the schedule this week will be lighter than normal. But before recess, the House is expected to vote on the Senate-amended Airport and Airway Extension Act of 2016, which extends authorization for the Federal Aviation Administration, including air-traffic control operations, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Feds Must Review Docs After 'False' Claims In Schock Case

An Illinois federal judge ordered prosecutors on Tuesday to review every statement they have made in the government's year-old fraud case against ex-Rep. DAYS UNTIL EARLY VOTING BEGINS FOR THE 2016 PRIMARY ELECTION: 1

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 PRIMARY ELECTION: 18

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 165

Good morning, everyone. After 30 years, it's hard to be surprised by much in politics, which is why I love Nevada because it still happens. Take Thursday. Never – and I mean never – have I seen a video like this one. Filmed after the last Southern Nevada Tourism and Infrastructure Committee meeting at UNLV, five elected officials appeared in a promotional video for Sheldon Adelson's stadium. They gushed, they gushed and they gushed: State Sens. Aaron Ford, Michael Roberson, Kelvin Atkinson (Go Raiders!) and Scott Hammond and Clark County Commission Chairman Steve Sisolak (who still asked some tough questions Thursday). What were they thinking? Answer: They weren't or they didn't care. They can all say they haven't endorsed the financing scheme (free stadium for billionaires paid for by the public!). But that parsing won't cut it. Adelson wanted their faces in the video to make it appear as if this is a done deal. It's just astonishing. (FYI, The Adelson News's Rick Velotta played it straight.)

On Thursday, we had NV Energy CEO Paul Caudill. He danced around the subsidy question, but he also said the utility will not take its ads down decrying the subsidy despite a new solar-backed study. Tonight: NYU Professor Jay Rosen on The Adelson News. He was at UNLV on Thursday evening..

What's below: Debate time, GOP vs. Dems, campaign nuggets, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Nevada Primary Day.

COMING UP

Early voting starts tomorrow. It's about to get real.

DEBATE SET IN CD4, ROBERSON AVOIDS EVEN RESPONDING FOR CD3 DEBATE

Good news, dear Flashees: Lucy Flores, Susie Lee and Ruben Kihuen have agreed to an hour-long debate on "Ralston Live" a week before the election (June 8, actually). Better late than never, and that race could be very, very close. In CD3, even though he is the frontrunner, Danny Tarkanian readily agreed to debate Michael Roberson, whose campaign won't answer phone calls, texts or emails from my producer. Very sad.

GOP MAKES GAINS, BUT DEMOCRATS STILL STANDING TALL

I have already told you how the state Republican Party has been evolving with RNC staffers, including spokeswoman Sara Sendek, and an executive director, Greg Bailor, who actually knows what he is doing. The party also spent $250,000 on voter contact and raised more money than the formidable state Democratic Party in the last reporting period (both raised just south of $700,000) .

But let's put this in perspective, too: The Democrats are still ahead by about $700,000 for the cycle, and without the RNC's help, the state GOP would be $415,000 poorer, Still, money is money.

And let's not forget that in perhaps the most important metric – voter registration – the Democrats continue to pull further and further ahead. It has slowed in the last few weeks, but the Democrats are now ahead by almost 116,000 voters in Clark County.

A QUINTET OF CAMPAIGN NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Assemblywoman Victoria Seaman is using a Bob Beers robocall to try to close the deal with GOP voters in her state Senate battle with colleague Erv Nelson. Not a bad move as she has been pounded by "tax hypocrite" messaging. In other news from that critical district, Seaman's lawyer sent a note to reporters Thursday about a new mail piece raising questions about an old court case. The wording was fantastic: "This literature gives the impression to those who are not familiar with the law or this case that Victoria was sued for fraud and settled the case because she committed fraud. That is not what the words are saying, but that is the message conveyed. " That is classic.

Nugget No. 2 – Cresent Hardy sent out a missive Thursday attacking…Ruben Kihuen: "Dishonest career politicians seem to attract dishonest career politicians." That might help him in the Democratic primary!

Nugget No. 3 -- Sharron Angle made a buy. It's tiny. Bye bye.

Nugget No. 4 -- Michele is a menace, Chapter 5,924. Here's the letter.

Nugget No. 5 – Lesley Cohen has sent out a pretty brilliant mailer attacking Amy Groves as a "Donald Trump Republican." It was sent to GOP primary voters. The old Prince Harry trick: Trying to pick your foe.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Sad to hear about the passing of Coe Swobe. Always enjoyed running into him.

Nugget No. 2 -- I did a Twitter chat Thursday.

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Solar task force report, via Daniel Rothberg

It's been a long, long time coming.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Lincoln Fitzgerald moved to Reno, NV from Detriot, MI in 1945, after operating illegal gambling operations in Michigan. He invested in the Nevada Club and operated it with co-owner Danny Sullivan. In 1949, was shot in the back at close range with a shotgun in his driveway. Fitzgerald claimed he did not see the shooter, and the attempted murder was never solved. It was the last mob-style assassination attempt in Nevada before the Kefauver Committee hearings on organized crime. Fitzgerald survived. In 1964, Fitzgerald began purchasing properties in downtown Reno, including the Blue Bird Hotel and the Silver Dollar Club casino. He operated the Silver Dollar Club while he made bigger plans for the property. A groundbreaking ceremony was held in December 1974 for what would be the Fitzgerald's Hotel and Casino. The $16 million project included a 16 story, 347 room hotel tower and large casino floor to compete with Harrah's. Fitzgeralds Hotel and Casino at 255 Virginia St, Reno, NV, opened modestly on May 27, 1976, with a "luck of the Irish" theme. Only some of the hotel rooms opened that day, with the bulk of the hotel rooms and other amenities added gradually over the next few months. Lincoln Fitzgerald died in Reno, NV on April 18, 1981. Fitzgerald's wife, and co-owner, Meta Fitzgerald managed the resort briefly before entering into an agreement with the Lincoln Management Group to manage Fitzgeralds. In 1986, Lincoln Management exercised an option to purchase the property, which it did for $26.25 million. Lincoln Management expanded the brand, most notably opening in downtown Las Vegas, NV, acquiring the Sundance in 1987, and opening it as Fitzgerald's Las Vegas. They also opened Fitzgeralds casinos in Colorado and Mississippi. Fitzgeralds filed for bankruptcy in 2000, though the Reno location was modestly profitable, and the locations were sold. Fitzgeralds Reno was finally sold in 2007, and closed in November 2008. Completely renovated in 2013, without the casino, the hotel was reopened in May 2014 as the modern Whitney Peak Hotel.

"Mr Fitzgerald wants it done right, and by God, we're going to do it right." – Assistant manager, Fitzgeralds Hotel, Reno, Jim Mack, 1976.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

In a pair of primaries held on this day in Nevada, a sitting president defeated an insurgent challenge from a U.S. senator and a future president defeated another future president. What year was it and who defeated whom on each side?

Thursday's winner: StudentsFirst's Andrew Diss

The question I chaired a powerful money committee. I once declared a "Bomb the XXXXX Week" in the Legislature. I have a middle school named after me. Who was I, and what week did I declare?

The answer: Marvin Sedway, Bomb the Miners Week

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Name the actor and the movies: He was in a classic about high school kids; he played a guy who was often chemically impaired; he played a guy suspicious of a neighbor; and he played a president.

Hi Carolyn —

Government programs are seeing big success and cost savings by using the power of data analytics to detect and reduce waste, fraud and abuse.

With Trump's Administration starting to really take shape, there's no doubt going to be a huge focus on detecting fraud and waste across all government programs.

In just a few weeks, The Performance Institute is holding a forum at the end of January (30-31) with experts across the government in developing measures to detect and eliminate fraud.

This is shaping into a really great event — can I get you a brochure?

No Gag Rule on Pharmacists Act: Incredibly, some health insurance companies and pharmacy benefits managers restrict pharmacists from telling customers how they can save money on certain prescriptions. Five states (CT, GA, LA, ME and ND) have passed laws against this practice and our model No Gag Rule on Pharmacists Act is based on the version enacted in Connecticut.

Lies the Media Told You: Throughout the ACA repeal ordeal, the mainstream media repeated the right wing's "repeal and replace" message framing thousands of times. And that's just one example. When the media says "bickering" it's a lie. When they say "partisan" it's a lie. "Washington," "reform" and "nationalist" are lies. Progressives need to understand how the media's language skews the debate against us and we need to cry foul whenever this happens. Read more in the latest IdeaLog, our blog intended to raise eyebrows and engage minds.

Words and phrases to avoid when debating public policy: Wednesday, October 4 @ 3pm Eastern, 2pm Central, 1pm Mountain, Noon Pacific. Progressives often derail their own arguments by using language that triggers the wrong responses from persuadable Americans. This presentation will go over dozens of examples. For example, don't say "welfare," "capitalism," "free markets," "religious extremists," "failing schools," "the poor," "tax reform," "voter fraud," "repeal and replace," and much more. Poverty declined in most states in 2016: This short article and map from the Economic Policy Institute allows you to click on your state and see the differences in poverty rates. During President Obama's last year in office, poverty decreased in 43 states. Red states generally have the highest rates of poverty.

Despite recent numbers, crime is rising in only a few places: The FBI's latest crime report says that murder and other violent crime increased in 2016, but that is an average disproportionately affected by just a few sections of a few cities, notably Chicago and Baltimore, while crime has decreased in many other places, explains an analysis in The Atlantic.

Subject: State over-billed by community homes

Quote of the Day

“As we know, we’ve been housing them in somewhat deplorable conditions and now we know we’re overpaying for it. It’s a system that I just see as broken right now, and we need to find a better way to do this because there are people whose lives are relying on us to find a better way.”

—State Sen. Ben Kieckhefer on an audit revealing the state was over-billed for services by a number of so-called community-based living arrangement homes for people with mental illnesses

From the Editors

Two days left in our #IndyGive member and fundraising drive. You're reading and relying on us. We want to continue that scenario well into the future. Please, support our work.

Oversight

Well-intended public-private programs can go awry when systems are loose and no one's watching. As referenced in the Quote of the Day, according to an audit report presented to an interim legislative panel, the state’s Division of Public and Behavioral Health likely lost up to $1.5 million in possible overpayments last year — plus another $600,000 because of a discrepancy in service rates.

The home-based care model was intended to enable mental health patients to have a quasi-independent living experience while still receiving needed ongoing care — but in the wake of a January audit that found many homes had “filthy” and “unsafe” living conditions, this financial audit adds insult to injury.

Lawmakers will no doubt be eager to address poor living conditions and flawed billing and payroll practices by community home providers once things are rolling in Carson City.

Subject: 300 SAC Board of Directors Meeting

Members of the Board,

Please find Wednesday's Board meeting materials here: December 2017 Board Meeting Materials. The agenda is light on action items, with approvals only for the previous meeting minutes, advisory council invitees, and Q3 financials. All other matters are for update and discussion.

We will begin our meeting at 8AM in the Courtroom, with our customary holiday breakfast. This will include a briefing on the Museum Improvement Project, followed by walkthroughs of the first floor and basement spaces. We will be joined by Al Salm of CREO Industrial Arts (our exhibit fabricator) and Avery Hacker of CORE Construction.

For those planning to call in, please join the conference line at 8:45AM. We will use the following number: 702.724.8680, password 1111.

Thanks – and looking forward to seeing many of you on Wednesday!

Time versus money versus your life and how you want to live it

Elizabeth Grace Saunders, author of How to Invest Your Time Like Money (Harvard Business Review Press 2015), says in a recent posting on the Harvard Business Review's website:

"Saving money has its place, but many times spending a bit of extra money can save you hours in your day—and in many cases that time can be invested in activities that are most important to you. This could mean driving or taking a cab instead of booking a train because train travel would take three times as long. Or hiring a cleaning service to put your house in order or having groceries delivered, instead of spending the time and saving the expense to do it yourself. Or even choosing to live closer to work even though it's more expensive because it saves you hours of time and frustration during your commute. In 20 years, you won't miss the few extra

1 year ago today his sister passed away. Our entire family legacy...is now being robbed from us for lack of a better term, by the exetrix.In a nutshell, estate is located in Monroe, NI have pointed out fraud, deceit etc. But being a little town where everyone grew up and just stayed...
she is being able to get away with it.

I did hire an attorney. However he has done nothing. Now a year later, in the dark, we are being told if we dont settle he will withdraw as counsel.
I am in desperate need to be pointed in the right direction from someone I can trust.

I do apologize for reaching out to you at work. But can you please give Oscar this email. And ask him if he could suggest what steps to take.

High Crimes And Misdemeanors: Impeachment Isn't A Trial

The U.S. Constitution specifies that a president can only be impeached for committing “high crimes and misdemeanors.” A comparison of the only two presidential impeachments to date suggests that the actual logistics of the process are fluid and unpredictable, says David O. Stewart, who served as defense counsel during the U.S. Senate impeachment trial of Judge Walter Nixon. Read more »

Garland Takes Back Seat To SCOTUS Culture Wars At Debate

Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton paid scant attention to Merrick Garland's long-dormant nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court during the final presidential debate in Las Vegas on Wednesday, instead using an opening segment on the high court to cater to their respective conservative and liberal bases with views on abortion, the Second Amendment and campaign finance.

White House Proposes New Regs To Protect Air Travelers

The Obama administration on Tuesday proposed new regulations requiring airlines to refund handling fees for passengers' delayed baggage and barring any favoritism or bias in how airlines and online ticket agents display fares, part of efforts to bolster competition and improve consumers' air travel experiences.

Regulators Aim For Banks To Prevent Cyberattack Contagion

Federal banking regulators unveiled a proposal Wednesday that would force the largest banks and other critical financial companies to ensure their cybersecurity protocols are strong enough to prevent a hack from spreading to other firms and to recover from an attack in a matter of hours.

Clinton, Trump Spar On Borders, Deportations In 3rd Debate

The Democratic and Republican presidential candidates clashed over immigration policy during Wednesday night's debate, with Hillary Clinton having to explain her leaked comments on "open borders" and Donald Trump dinged for having "choked" on the border wall issue during his trip to Mexico.

Clinton, Trump Poke Holes In Each Other's Trade Records

Wednesday night's final presidential debate saw the candidates attempting to expose one another's shifting positions on international trade issues, with Donald Trump again bashing Hillary Clinton's pivot on an Asia-Pacific trade accord and Clinton rebuking Trump's use of Chinese steel in his development ventures.

T-Mobile To Pay $48M Over Misleading 'Unlimited' Data Plan

T-Mobile USA Inc. has agreed to pay a $7.5 million fine, $35.5 million in consumer benefits and $5 million to help connect low-income students following a Federal Communications Commission investigation into whether the company sufficiently disclosed constraints on speed and data in its allegedly "unlimited" plans, the FCC said Wednesday.

ANALYSIS

$48M T-Mobile Settlement Sends Solid Transparency Message

The Federal Communications Commission put mobile broadband providers on notice Wednesday that they risk potentially heavy penalties for violating the FCC's transparency rules for falsely advertising "unlimited" data plans, with T-Mobile agreeing to pay $48 million to settle claims of misleading customers.

Calif. High Court Throws Wrench In Cooperative Federalism

The holding and logic of the California Supreme Court's recent decision in Department of Finance v. Commission on State Mandates has the potential for significant implications in California and nationwide. Importantly, the logic of the decision could apply to any cooperative federalism-based environmental statute, potentially opening the door to other challenges to state implementation of federal laws, says Samuel Brown of Hunton & Williams LLP.

Preparing For Changes To Federal Appellate Rules

On Dec. 1, 2016, several important amendments to the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure take effect. The most impactful amendment is the shortening of the permissible length of appellate briefs, which will affect many appeals and will have a particularly significant impact on complex appeals such as patent cases, says Matthew Dowd of Dowd PLLC.

1 Year After Yates Memo: The DOJ's Yates-Lite Approach

There have been no major signs of a Yates memo impact on large multijurisdictional cases. But the U.S. Department of Justice has issued significant settlements in the last year and presumably has the information included in those agreements to initiate individual prosecutions. So why haven't we seen a significant increase? asks Joan Meyer of Baker & McKenzie LLP.

Subject: OMB & Congress Act on Fraud Initiatives

Carolyn-

Big news – the White House Budget Office and Congress have each launched anti-fraud initiatives that will have a big impact on all government programs.

OMB is requiring risk assessments and fraud detection/reduction targets from each agency, while Congress has created a Commission to deal with legislative changes to target specific programs. With billions in potential fraud happening across government, these initiatives will receive a ton of oversight.

On October 23, 2017, the Performance Institute is convening the Government Fraud Analytics Summit to cover the latest mandates and present the best practices in fraud assessment, detection, mitigation and reporting.

Would you like to see the agenda and consider attending? If not, who in your agency would be the best person to follow-up with?

Thanks,

Steven Hughes

Around the League

The League would like to thank everyone who attended our Annual Conference last month in the City of Sparks. The conference was a huge success thanks to everyone who participated. The Board of Directors met at the Annual Business meeting during the conference and approved the Nominating Committee recommendations to elect Councilwoman Gerri Schroder, City of Henderson as Secretary/Treasurer, Councilman David Bobzien, City of Reno, as At-Large-Large Cities, Mayor Pro Tem Geno Withelder as At Large-Small Cities and Board Member Linda Slater, Town of Gardnerville, At-Large Towns and GID's. Mayor Geno Martini, City of Sparks will serve as President and Trustee Natalie Yanish, Kingsbury General Improvement District, will be our Vice President. All terms begin in January.

We would like to thank all from Nevada that attended the National League of Cities 2016 City Summit held in Pittsburgh, PA earlier this month. We are happy to announce that City of Henderson Councilwoman Gerri Schroder has been elected chair of both the Community and Economic Development Committee and the Large Cities Council. She also serves as vice chair of the Western Municipal Association. We appreciate Councilwoman Schroder's willingness to serve and to represent Nevada and the League.

The National League of Cities is divided into eight regions. An executive director of a state municipal league from each region serves on the NLC's Board of Directors. Our Executive Director, Wes Henderson, has been selected to represent Region 8 on the board. Wes looks forward to representing not only Nevada but all the states in Region 8.

The Investiture of our 2017 officers will be held during the Board of Director's meeting scheduled for January 9, 2017 at the Reno Airport. More information and meeting agenda will be sent in January.

We would like to wish our officers, the members of our board of directors, all of the elected and appointed municipal officials and staff, the members of our "Friends of the League" program a very happy holiday season. As we prepare for 2017 we look forward to continuing to work with you for the betterment of our municipalities and our great State.

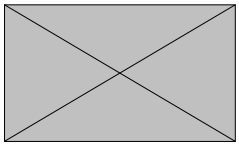
National League of Cities Opens City Summit 2016 in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH - More than 3,000 local leaders and staff have convened in Pittsburgh for the National League of Cities (NLC) 2016 City Summit (formerly known as the Congress of Cities) to network, discuss city priorities and learn best practices. Over the next few days, mayors, councilmembers and city staff will attend informative workshops, take mobile tours and education sessions at the David L. Lawrence Convention Center. The annual conference, which takes place November 16-19, includes many events that are open to press. Please contact us for media availability during the event.
Speakers will deliver remarks at the general sessions, which are open to press:

- Terry Bradshaw, Hall of Fame NFL quarterback and sports broadcaster at FOX will provide the keynote.
- Candy Crowley, award-winning journalist who served as CNN's chief political correspondent.
- Vernice "Flygirl" Armour, America's First African American female combat pilot.
- Panel on autonomous vehicles with:
    - Hon. William "Bill" Peduto, mayor of Pittsburgh
    - David Plouffe, senior executive at Uber and former manager for the Obama 2008 presidential campaign
    - Jon Shieber, senior editor at TechCrunch (moderator)

Mobile Workshops: Innovative and informative sessions located throughout Pittsburgh on Wednesday and Thursday, showcasing collaborative solutions to issues facing local government.



A Prescription for Action: Ending the Opioid Crisis

Incidents of prescription drug and heroin overdoses and deaths is at epidemic levels. The number of deaths from these causes now exceeds those from automobile accidents according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). While the raw numbers are overwhelming in themselves, they fail to shed adequate light on the extent of the human tragedy in America's cities and counties where local leaders confront the realities of this public health epidemic one life at a time.

In response to the growing opioid crisis, the National League of Cities (NLC) and the National Association of Counties (NACo) today released, "A Prescription for Action: Local Resolve in Ending the Opioid Crisis." The report brings the knowledge and experience of city and county leaders to peers in local government and to partners at the state and federal levels. Specifically, it addresses issues of leadership, prevention and education, treatment, public safety and law enforcement, as well as specialized recommendations for federal and state governments.

The report comes from the National City-County Task Force on the Opioid Epidemic, which was convened by NLC and NACo earlier this year. The members of the taskforce - city and county leaders from across the country - are intimately familiar with the devastating impact the opioid epidemic has had on local communities.

Luckily, however, cities and counties are the places where creative and innovative strategies may be tested and scaled up. As in so many cases, the solutions being implemented across America by city and county governments to address the opioids epidemic are proving successful. Whether it's the Safe Stations initiative in Manchester, N.H., drug market intervention in High Point, N.C., Recovery Coaches in Ocean County, N.J., or the Seattle-King County LEAD program, these harm-reduction efforts are changing the dynamics of the epidemic and are helping reverse the negative stigma attached to the illness of addiction.

NJ Senate Panel Advances Christie Pick For High Court

Walter F. Timpone, a McElroy Deutsch Mulvaney & Carpenter LLP partner tapped by New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie to fill a state Supreme Court vacancy, received the unanimous backing of a state Senate panel Thursday, clearing the way for a vote on his nomination by the full house.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Why Earth Day Is Everyone's Business

The concept of sustainability is no longer just a fad. The effects of climate change have become more dire. This Earth Day, all of us in the environmental law community and beyond need to collectively rise to the challenge of climate change and help our clients and communities embrace the new regime of sustainable enterprise, says Remi Moncel at O'Melveny & Myers LLP.

State Legislation Vs. Federal Prohibition Of Marijuana

The tension between federal prohibition and state legalization of marijuana — medical and recreational — makes for complicated law, but general consensus is that federal prohibition trumps state legalization. However, recent developments in the federal government and at a California court of appeal could signal a potential shift in marijuana policy, say Carrie Bonnington and Derek Mayor at Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP.

New Tax Plan Will Hurt IT, Pharma Vendors In Texas

A proposed tax rule in Texas does not comport with the common-sense meaning of the term "produced," which has previously been interpreted to mean making a physical change to an item, rather than merely adding intangible property. The rule will likely have the undesirable effect of stifling information technology and pharmaceutical development by Texas taxpayers, say attorneys with McDermott Will & Emery LLP.

Changes In Nev. Construction Law Foster Real Estate Growth

The 2015 Nevada state legislative session was one for the (construction law) books with the Legislature lowering the maximum retention rate allowed in contracts and subcontracts from 10 to 5 percent and completely overhauling Nevada's residential construction defect statutes — which could spur real estate development, says Sarah Mead at Snell & Wilmer LLP.

Avoiding The Pitfalls Of Researching Attorneys In PACER

While PACER is a powerful tool for gaining information, practitioners should keep in mind that certain flaws often cause lawyers to be omitted from cases they've worked on or to show up associated with the wrong firm. These errors build up across aggregate records, tainting any conclusions drawn from such data — often to a surprising extent, according to Brian Howard, a legal data scientist at Lex Machina.

5 Traits Of The Best Law Firm Management Committees

Running a successful law firm may often seem to require the skills of a politician, magician and psychologist all at the same time, but there are basic practices and approaches a firm can employ to ensure it has the best possible management committee leading the way. Here, Law360 takes a look at five traits that help law firm leadership succeed.

AFAs Now Dominate A Third Of Firm Spending

With the average client now reportedly saving $2.7 million through alternative fee arrangements, it's easy to see why AFA-based outside counsel spending has grown at a steady, 19.8 percent clip since 2012, accounting for over a third of law firm spending last year.

Women Missing Out On Lead Roles In Court, Study Says

Though women make up nearly half of all law school graduates, they are lagging far behind in courtroom leadership roles, according to a study presented Thursday at a symposium on women trial attorneys at the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois.

9th Circ. Arms Firms Seeking To Discharge Client Debt

A ruling by the Ninth Circuit that a California lawyer who filed for bankruptcy doesn't have to pay an arbitration award debt to a client will open the door for financially strapped firms to argue that other kinds of obligations to clients should also be dischargeable, experts said.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

Attorneys from Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP, White & Case LLP and six foreign law firms secured a spot on Law360's list of legal lions this week by getting a $50 billion shareholder judgment against Russia overturned while Kelley Drye & Warren LLP and Stafford Rosenbaum LLP landed on the list of lambs after a jury handed a $940 million trade secrets verdict to their clients' opponents.

Conflicted Attys Can't Accept Referral Fees, ABA Says

A lawyer cannot accept a case referral fee if they would otherwise be blocked from representing the client due to a conflict, the American Bar Association said in a Thursday ethics opinion.

Citizens United Architect Predicts Future Finance Battles

A longtime soldier for conservative and Republican causes, attorney James Bopp Jr. was an architect of the landmark Citizens United case that unleashed unlimited corporate and union spending on campaign advertising. Now challenging restrictions on soft money in state and local elections, Bopp spoke with Law360 about super PACs, Hillary Clinton, and why he thinks Donald Trump's claims of a "rigged" election aren't so far-fetched.

High Court Justices Appear Dubious Of NLRB GC Nomination

The U.S. Supreme Court expressed skepticism Monday that former acting National Labor Relations Board general counsel Lafe Solomon could serve on a temporary basis while he awaited U.S. Senate confirmation to a permanent appointment in a case that could limit future presidents' ability to fill vacant high-level positions.

Import Malaise Baffling, But Trade Cost Isn't Culprit, Fed Says

The U.S. Federal Reserve, perplexed as to why growth in U.S. imports of goods has remained stubbornly low since the second quarter of 2015, said it has uncovered patterns of "extraordinary weakness" in the nation's economy that can't be attributed to the cost of international trade.

Feds' Ban On Nursing Home Arbitration Blocked

A Mississippi federal judge on Monday at least temporarily blocked enforcement of the federal government's looming ban on mandatory arbitration in cases involving nursing homes and signaled serious doubts about the government's authority.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

OPINION: James Comey's Fair Weather Friends

As a voter registered neither as a Democrat nor a Republican, I can say with great confidence that this sort of ridiculous finger-wagging against a career public servant — meant to score points with a political base, and without any true understanding of Comey's decision — is precisely what middle-of-the-road Americans detest about politics and politicians, says Jim Walden, a veteran litigator who served in the U.S. Department of Justice under the Clinton and Bush administrations.

Second Circuit Email Warrant Ruling Raises New Questions

As a result of the Second Circuit's recent opinion in Microsoft v. United States, the U.S. government likely can no longer use warrants issued pursuant to the Stored Communications Act to compel U.S.-based companies to produce communications, such as emails, that are stored in a physical location outside of the United States — at least for now, say Andrew Serwin and Adam Fleisher of Morrison & Foerster LLP.

7 Steps For Managing An Associate Who May Be Impaired

According to a recent study on the prevalence of attorney addiction and mental health concerns, more than one-third of practicing attorneys in the U.S. qualify as problem drinkers and 28 percent struggle with depression. While change in large law firms can be slow, there is a lot firms can do to navigate situations where an associate's performance may be impaired, says Stacey Saada Schwartz, a former litigator and Los Angeles-based executive coach and facilitator.

Here, experts offer their take on how law firms can combat the threat posed by the Big Four.

Justices Won't Hear Calif., Out-Of-State Bar Rules Fight

The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday said it will not consider a challenge to policies in Maryland and California regarding restrictions placed on out-of-state attorneys to practice in-state without passing that state's bar exam, as well as their refusal to allow reciprocity agreements with other states.

Kirkland Aids Clemency Release For Ohio Man Serving Life

A protracted pro bono push by a Kirkland & Ellis LLP team to secure a place in society for an Illinois man who had expected to spend the rest of his life behind bars culminated last week in a tearful phone call to an Ohio prison.

Rainmaker Q&A: Akerman's Scott Marrs

In this “connected” (or some might say “disconnected”) world, it is still all about relationships. Like any relationship, it takes work. Time. Effort. Thought. That extra step. Being genuine. But it is rewarding, personally and professionally. Start now, get going, keep it up, never give up. Everyone needs a family, a clan, a tribe, a network, says Scott Marrs, regional managing partner at Akerman LLP.

Rainmaker Q&A: Wilson Cribbs' Reid Wilson

Develop a strong elevator speech about your law practice, and give it some zing. Don’t just be a lawyer. In my case, I became a “land use lawyer, protecting owner property rights.” Create an image that is memorable, says Reid Wilson, chairman of Wilson Cribbs & Goren PC.

On-Demand Webinar - Protecting Vulnerable Populations from Identity Fraud: Today and Tomorrow - View Webinar >

On-demand webinar covers risks particular to students, military personnel and seniors.

Identity fraud affected almost 13 million Americans last year, yet not all Americans are affected equally. In a recent research study sponsored by LifeLock, Javelin explored the impact of identity fraud on students, seniors and military personnel and how fraudsters are using different techniques to attack these vulnerable populations. Each of these consumer segments has a different set of behaviors that cause them to be targets of account fraud. View webinar now >

This on-demand webinar examines:

- What behaviors and activities place students, military and seniors at higher risk of identity fraud
- The changing outlook for fraud targets over the next few years and how that will impact these consumer segments
- Strategies for how banks can help protect customers and employees

A computer with an internet connection and speakers/headphones is all you need.

Cheryl,

Greetings, my name is Jonathan Cooper and I am the DDA assigned this case. I wanted to send the below Email to Mayor Goodman but I do not have her E-mail address. Can you please forward the below email to her for me.

Thank you !

Mayor Goodman:

Last week, Mr. Meeks attorney reached out to me in an attempt to resolve this case short of going to trial. Some of the suggestions that his attorney made were very reasonable. However, I first wanted to discuss possible resolutions with you before I agreed to any. Out of the few negotiations we discussed the most favorable to our position is below.

Offer
Pled Guilty to Count 1 (Forgery- D Felony punishable by 1-4 years)
Standard bail after entry of plea ($3,000.00)
State will argue facts of the case but not recommend a punishment
Pay Full Restitution

As you know, the Defendant is charged with 2 Counts of forgery. In essence, he will be pleading guilty to the "lead charge". Further, even if he was convicted of both counts at trial it is likely that the sentencing judge would run the counts concurrent. So, in my opinion under this negotiation we lose little if any leverage at sentencing. Another benefit of this negotiation is that I would not need you to come to court and testify which I know can be a scheduling nightmare.

Please let me know your thoughts. I am also available to answer any questions you may have regarding the case or the possible negotiation.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Date: Monday, March 9, 2015 | Length: 90 minutes
Time: 1:00 pm ET | 12:00 pm CT | 11:00 am MT | 10:00 am PT
Speaker - Lynn Fountain, CGMA, CRMA

Worldwide attention focused on global environmental issues and health and safety concerns from toxic chemicals tops the list of major risk areas that all companies must be able to manage. Environmental issues span further than hazardous waste or toxic emissions. Similarly, health and safety issues span further than a worker slip and fall or carpal tunnel syndrome. Compliance professionals must be prepared to proactively and effectively identify the risks incumbent in their everyday processes.

Compliance rules governing environmental health and safety issues are some of the most complex laws that exist today. Dependent on the industry, rules can incorporate aspects ranging from air, water, soil or waste pollution to worker safety regulations and community and employee health standards. These laws are often very technical in nature and require professionals with specific engineering, scientific or safety background to develop compliance programs. Companies often put significant capital into creating elaborate programs to address these various environmental and health and safety requirements. Once the programs are developed, their ongoing operation can overshadow the ongoing need of periodic operating effectiveness.

This session Auditing EH&S programs for the Non-Technical Auditor in 2015 by expert speaker Lynn Fountain is designed to provide compliance and audit professionals with base understanding of the most important risks associated with environmental health and safety concerns. In addition, attendees will uncover effective deployment strategies for assessing these very technical areas.

Training Objective

- Environmental issues span further than hazardous waste or toxic emissions.
- Common Chemical and EH&S Risks
- Understanding EH&S terminology
- Regulations impacting EH&S compliance professionals should understand
- Effective utilization of assessment methods: maturity model assessment, interviews, site visits, questionnaires

- Application of attorney client privilege to audits
- Keys to reporting results

Subject: Improve Quality of Patient Care by Refining Value-Based Strategies

Ted Burton

Good morning,

Medícare, Medícaid and prívate payers look to accelerate the transition from volume to value and population health through targeted incentives. Going forward, healthcare leaders need to develop a value-based strategy so they can position their organizations for financial success in the new value-based world. A refined and comprehensive value-based strategy can advance important goals for a healthcare organization, among them: enhancement of quality of care and improvement of patient outcomes; promotion of safe medical practices; sharing of best clinical practices; increased efficiencies in care delivery; facilitation of appropriate utilization of services; and alignment of financial incentives.

Join us for this 60-minute Live Webinar—"Paying Healthcare Providers for Quality and Value: Key Trends and Stark Law Considerations" with expert speaker Joseph Wolfe on Friday, December 1, 2017 at 1 pm ET, where he will provide a better understanding of the legal issues surrounding paying for quality and value. This knowledge will help you refine your current strategy and identify new delivery models and potential opportuníties. Joseph will provide a straight-forward, practical explanation of developing concepts, including the quality and value metrics into new federal healthcare programs and commercial payment systems. He will also discuss the new delivery models, what providers can do to develop a value-based strategy, and the application of the Stark Law and other fraud and abusé laws to new models aimed at population health, quality of care and cost control.

Session Highlights

- A general overview of new quality and value-based payment trends
- The new quality payment program (QPP) of the Centers for Medícare & Medícaid Services (CMS)
- QPP pathways and potential options for clinicians as they navigate the program during the 2017 transition year and beyond
- Potential strategies for incentivizing physicians in connection with the rollout of new value-based programs
- Application of the existing regulatory framework (e.g., AKS, Stark, CMP, benefíciary inducement, etc.) to new models aimed at incentivizing population health, quality of care and cost control

Session Agenda

- Introductory concepts
  - Highlights of healthcare reform trends
  - Complying with the current climate and considerations for managing risk
  - Focus on the 3 tenets of defensibility
  - Focus on defensible business planning
- Overview of the regulatory standards
  - Regulatory framework covering federal healthcare programs, tax exemption issues, antitrust compliance and state law issues
  - Stark's general framework and common exceptions in it
  - The 3 tenets of defensibility
  - Overview of different aspects of Stark group practices
- Value-based compensation, waivers and gain sharing models
  - How Stark phases 1 and 2 take on value-based compensation
  - Current issues waivers and caution from CMS for battling fraud and abusé waivers
  - What's prohibited by CMS law, associated penalties and managing gainsharing arrangements
- Introduction to the CMS quality payment program

    - The two trackers, viz. advanced APMs and MIPS
    - Potential adjustments under MIPS
- Developing a quality and value strategy
    - Considerations for developing a PHM model strategy
    - Quality model compliance considerations
- And more

ABA calls for financial education volunteers

The American Bankers Association Foundation is calling for banker volunteers to register for its annual Teach Children to Save campaign and other 2016 financial education initiatives.

Now in its 20th year, the Teach Children to Save program is a national campaign that encourages banker volunteers to visit schools or youth groups in their local communities and present savings lessons. Teach Children to Save Day will be celebrated on April 29, but bankers can hold their lessons throughout the year.

"Early introduction to money concepts and financial discipline is key," said Rob Nichols, ABA's incoming president and CEO. "By presenting students with these financial education fundamentals, bankers set them on a path toward a financially fit future." Read more about ABA Foundation education opportunities

This dispatch prepared for .

DAYS UNTIL EARLY VOTING BEGINS FOR THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 17

DAYS UNTIL THE 2019 LEGISLATURE BEGINS: 124

Good morning, everyone. It was very interesting to watch Tom Steyer in action at last night's town hall downtown. I'm not saying he's clearly running for president, but….well, yes I will say it. But he knows how to talk to a crowd, and progressives ate it up. He got a decent crowd for a weeknight in Vegas – 100-125, I'd guess. And he does appear to be doing a lot to register millennials to vote. If Dems do well in 2018, they will owe him a debt.

What's below: Gov candidates speak, Morning Flash nuggets and repeating a trivia question about a landmark agreement.

COMING UP

We intended to announce a new partnership yesterday, but technical difficulties prevented it. We are hoping for today.

GUBERNATORIAL CONTENDERS FACE THE STATE

I may do this as a blog post about the gubernatorial candidates and their "plans" for education, -- my biennial lament made more acute this cycle about major candidates not being specific about major issues -- but I wanted you, dear Flashees, to know that Steve Sisolak and Adam Laxalt spent about 12 or 13 minutes with Arianna Bennett on "Face the State" and said some interesting things.

Sisolak:

The Democrats said he wants to pay teachers more and increase education funding "unlike my opponent who wants to cut…." This is not so. Not only has Laxalt not said that – Sisolak is talking about The Commerce Tax repeal, I assume – but Laxalt's math indicates he would HAVE to raise taxes. (More below).

Sisolak firmly pledged not to raise taxes – I think this may be the first time and a response to Laxalt's pounding him on the "everything is on the table" comment from months ago and his property taxes comment, too. Sisolak says he will move room tax money that was earmarked for education and then stolen (my word, not his) by lawmakers violating the intent of an initiative petition, pot money and new internet sales tax money. No specifics, but that would be at least tens of millions of dollars.

"Right now, I don't see a reason for new taxes," he said. Right now.

Sisolak said he was a "fiscal moderate" – he later changed to "conservative" – and "socially liberal." He also said he favors raising the minimum wage in steps and emphasized he is a "blue-collar guy," although he is now slightly richer…..

Laxalt:

She got a lot more interesting stuff out of him, including him making clear (again) he either doesn't understand the state budget or the Commerce Tax or doesn't care.

She began by asking him about moving to Nevada to run for AG. That elicited this: "I was born in Reno. My family has been here for many generations. This is my home. Nevada's been my home."

Laxalt reiterated he will infuse $500 million in new money into education, which surely came from early reports of a surplus, one that is evanescent.

How will he pay for it – and additional money for school safety he mentioned, which will be very expensive? He risibly mentioned he has returned $30 million to the state from the AG budget, pot money (this is such a canard both candidates are using because it is not significant in the scheme of a billion-dollar education budget) and then he showed he does not get the surplus will be eaten up: "We are fortunate enough to grow enough that we had a big surplus….We can expect half a billion in surplus going into the session, probably more."

Then he reverted back to his Joeck of a talking point – at least his third estimate of Commerce Tax revenue: "The Commerce tax is less then 1 percent of our general fund." He later said it brings in "less than $100 million year," which ain't pennies and is still wrong.

This is false, and he either knows it or doesn't care. The Commerce Tax is the fifth largest revenue source for the state and after business tax credits for payees is at least $250 million and probably closer to $300 million – at least 3 percent and maybe 5 percent of the overall general fund and even Gov. Brian Sandoval has said it will hurt education to repeal it.

By the way, he has yet to explain WHY he wants to repeal it, especially if it is such a small part of the budget. What doesn't he like about it?

He also said twice it is "being used as a political battering ram," a vacuous talking point he has used for a long time.

When Bennett asked Laxalt, as she asked Sisolak, where he stood on the political spectrum on social issues, he said, "I don't know exactly the question." Then, obviously flustered, he defaulted to providing a better life for Nevadans and helping with the rape kit backlog. (Shhh – don't talk about abortion or LGBT issues. Amazing.)

On Medicaid, Laxalt said he will not roll it back – a recent position after he opposed Sandoval's expansion – and then he said he wants to "make sure the right people are on it." And he touted his efforts to fight Medicaid fraud.

Thanks, dear Flashees, for helping me write a draft of my coming blog post!

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 2 -- Haaretz on the Senate race.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

No one got this, so one more try with this hint: It ultimately affected me. On this date in history, an agreement in Nevada took effect that one of the signers said "keeps us around another 35 years." Who said it and about what?

Local Sugar Taxes May Be Headed For A Crash

California is the latest to join a growing list of states in banning local taxes targeted at sweetened beverages or similar sugar taxes. The recent popularity of these taxes at the local level not only has the beverage and retail industry fired up over the compliance issues but citizens are beginning to recognize the paternalistic nature of these taxes and their regressive effects on communities, say Carley Roberts and Jessica Allen of Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLC. DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 384

Good morning, everyone. Jeb Bush is in Nevada today, doing events North and South. He is doing a Libre Initiative event in the South, as Rand Paul and Marco Rubio have done. And he is doing an event in a park in Reno, where he will unveil a lands plan.

Oh, did I mention Jeb will be on “Ralston Live” tonight?

What’s below: Sharron is back, Heck ad starts, Morning Flash nuggets and repeating a trivia question about a presidential visit.

The Las Vegas City Council meets today. Contain your excitement.

”WE CAN DO THIS”
Sharron Angle really wants to run for the U.S. Senate and Brent Jones and Don Gustavson are trying to help her. I know – you thought last night’s Flash was an early April Fool’s joke. Not so. And they are even raising the specter of voter fraud in 2010. Again.

God, I love Nevada politics.

My morning take.

HECK OF AN AD
Remember that commercial I told you about in Monday’s Flash in the Senate race by the group related to American Crossroads. I have the ad. It starts today. And so does the real U.S. Senate campaign.

A TRIO OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Acting Gov. Mark Hutchison quietly held a Vegas fundraiser last night, which he tweeted about. He was elected lieutenant governor only 11 months ago. So why is he raising money? Um, because he can. And because he wants to be governor. And because once Brian Sandoval gets a federal appointment or Cabinet post, he will be acting governor in 2017 and the favorite to win in 2018.

Nugget No. 2 – On "Ralston Live" last night, Treasurer Dan Schwartz refused to apologize for creating that six-figure sinecure for state GOP boss Michael McDonald. He could barely keep a straight face during my questioning, smiling and turning red as he all but acknowledged media heat forced him to cut McDonald loose.

I asked him if he was embarrassed about creating the position: "This was a real job," he answered risibly. He said McDonald came to him in January about a job. "We looked for something he could do," Schwartz, who was once finance boss of the GOP, told me. My goodness.

There was no process, Schwartz conceded, and he essentially claimed he needed someone to manage the Vegas office and said he had "those skills." Schwartz said my description of the state party as bankrupt is false, saying, "We have 40 or 50 thousand dollars." Seriously!

Check out the Schwartz smirk throughout. So telling. (It starts about 18 minutes in.)

Nugget No. 3 – Speaking of Schwartz, he broke news on the program that a request for a preliminary injunction was filed late Tuesday to try to stop him from handing out ESA money. The legal document, which I have obtained and is posted here, was filed by the Justin Jones adequacy folks, not the ACLU (although that may be coming).

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Howard Stutz on a Mulroy vote.

Stutz again on Steve Wynn.

Yay!

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

When John C Frémont passed through what is now northern Nevada, he met a rather respectful, friendly leader of the northern Paiutes in Chief Truckee. When Chief Truckee accompanied Frémont to California, he appointed Poito, as acting Chief while he was away. Poito would later be known as Chief Winnemucca. Winnemucca was more apprehensive about the presence of white settlers in their native lands, but swore to keep the peace while Chief Truckee was away. During the fall pine nut harvest of 1860, Chief Truckee died on October 8, 1860 near Como, NV, in Lyon County.

Winnemucca became Chief Winnemucca. One of his nicknames was "Bad Face." Winnemucca was actually a Shoshone, but when he married a daughter of Chief Truckee. Chief Winnemucca had two wives. Sarah Winnemucca was his fourth child and second daughter. Both of Winnemucca's wives were killed in the lead up to the Pyramid Lake War in 1860. Chief Winnemucca resisted life of a reservation, and disassociated himself from his daughter Sara when she wed an abusive white man. Chief Winnemucca spent years struggling to find the best life for his people with the growing number of white settlers.

While traveling, Chief Winnemucca fell ill. He blamed a young woman he was walking with for his illness. He ordered her death by stoning for bewitching him. Chief Winnemucca, sick and comatose, finally died on October 21, 1882, possibly from poisoning, near Coppersmith Station, in northern Nevada. He was about 90 years old.

(Hat tip to William Lefkovics at @HistoryNevada. Follow him for great stuff every day.)

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

Repeating this one with a hint: He is campaigning again this year. On this day in history not so long ago, a former president campaigned in Northern Nevada for a future president. He campaigned at two institutions of higher education. Who was it, who was he campaigning for and where did he campaign?

Tuesday's winner: No one

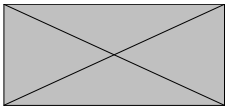
OPINION: PERS secrecy bill based entirely on known falsehood



Robert Fellner
Nevada Policy Research Institute
April 18, 2017

State Senator Julia Ratti's Senate Bill 384 is the latest salvo in a five year campaign of misinformation designed to keep taxpayers from knowing how the Public Employees' Retirement System of Nevada (PERS) spends their money.

Proponents of SB384 claim that disclosing names and pension amounts would leave retirees vulnerable to cybercrime, and thus should be exempt from Nevada's public records law.

But this claim is simply not true, according to three separate Nevada court rulings — including a unanimous Nevada Supreme Court opinion issued in 2013 — as well as the legislatures and courts in the 34 other states that also make this information public.

Bolstering the strength of this consensus is the fact that the alleged speculative harm never materializes.

Said differently, does anyone really believe that Democratic strongholds like California, New Jersey and Rhode Island would continue releasing this information if it actually resulted in harm to Quote: "Given the obvious conflict of interest arising from the fact that legislators are also PERS members, the argument for transparency is that much stronger. Lawmakers must oppose any effort that would make Nevada's government less transparent and less accountable, particularly one that is based entirely on a known falsehood."– Robert Fellner, NPRI, April 18, 2017

PERS secrecy bill based on unfounded fears: Our view

Editorial Board
Reno Gazette Journal
April 17, 2017

A bill before the Nevada Legislature would make secret the names of public employees in the state retirement system.

This is a bad idea, based upon unfounded fears, that weakens retirees?

It is clear that, despite the rhetoric, SB384 is about secrecy, not safety.

Recognizing that the judiciary — who require a claim to be true, as opposed to merely asserted — was a dead-end, PERS petitioned its Democratic allies in the 2015 Legislature to sponsor a bill that would make much of their data exempt from Nevada's public records law, a ploy that the RGJ Editorial Board condemned as an example of why "people dislike and distrust government."

A Republican majority ensured that that bill died, but the current Democratic majority threatens that SB384 has a real shot of passing, as evidenced by committee chairman David Parks' closing remarks at last month's hearing: "As a retired public employee myself, I share the same concerns that you have."

So much for representing the public interest!

Legislators who can pass — and personally profit — from PERS enhancements should not be able to keep that information secret.

And as the ones responsible for paying for those enhancements — along with the System's $13.5 billion shortfall — Nevada taxpayers deserve to know where and how their money is being spent.

Beyond that, transparency is vital for several reasons. After an anonymous tip led to criminal fraud charges, the general counsel for CalPERS — the nation's largest public pension fund — extoled "the great value of the public's assistance in CalPERS' efforts to protect the state pension system from fraud, waste, and abuse."

SB384 would make it virtually impossible to detect similar cases of fraud that might occur here, as well as other more innocuous examples of waste.

Take the case of a San Diego pension fund, for example, where a $500,000 overpayment was only discovered because of a public records request for the very data that SB384 would make private.

These types of errors are even more likely here, given that PERS records are so poorly organized it takes staff several months of manual review to produce an accurate report, according to their sworn testimony.

For decades, numerous iterations of the Nevada Legislature on both sides of the aisle have emphasized the importance of transparency in government, and took great pains to ensure that access be limited only in those rare cases where it is truly warranted.

Given the obvious conflict of interest arising from the fact that legislators are also PERS members, the argument for transparency is that much stronger.

scrutiny of government fraud, abuse and waste and creates a slippery slope to more government secrecy.

State Sen. Julia Ratti, a Democrat from Sparks, is trying mightily to walk a tightrope between the highly charged concerns of public employee retirees and the right of the public to see how its tax dollars are being spent...

....Beyond investigatory reasons for names, at a fundamental level, taxpayers deserve to know whom the government is giving their money to.

- This is what a public job requires. While many public employees do not object to their names and compensation being online, some do. But if this is a concern, taking a public job is optional. Some jobs require security clearances, some require confidentiality clauses, some require random drug testing. Jobs with government entities require that compensation – and who's getting it – is public record because taxpayer money is being spent.

- It sets a bad precedent. Ratti says she intentionally did not seek changes to state law for current public employees, just retirees, who are more frequently targets of identity theft. But if this bill is passed based upon the rationale that revealing names creates an identity theft risk, then it is only a matter of time before current public workers will want the same.

- It's a solution without a problem. Testimony at the bill's committee hearing focused on identity theft fears. Senators were told, correctly, that identity theft is growing and Nevada is among the worst states for it. Supporters then made a leap to say this is why names must be hidden. But ask for an example where public employee salary data contributed to identity theft, and the response is silence. Thieves are getting their information elsewhere.

The RGJ Editorial Board asked a PERS representative for any identity theft cases anywhere linked to public salary data, and none was given. Instead, the representative said the bill would prevent future cases.

But if hundreds of thousands of employees' data has been released for many years across Nevada and the nation and none has been linked to identity theft, the case has been made for lack of harm, not future danger.

University Speech Codes: Essential Or Unconstitutional?

Universities often restrict certain forms of expression, targeting verbal harassment based on traditionally protected classes such as race, sex and religion, and sometimes limiting other speech as well. Speech codes at public universities have come under fire as violating the First Amendment, but they are not unconstitutional in some cases, say M.C. Sungaila, Polly Fohn and Natasha Breaux of Haynes and Boone LLP. Read more »

The Trump Sanctions Policy At 3 Months

Skyrocketing FCA Penalties Ripe For Constitutional Challenges

Constitutional objections to outsized False Claims Act judgments have experienced little success, but the dramatically higher penalty ranges recently announced by the U.S. Department of Justice may create an opportunity for defendants finally to gain traction in arguing for constitutional limits to FCA penalties, say attorneys with Sidley Austin LLP.

FAA Regs For Small Drones — A Step In The Right Direction

For those already in the commercial drone industry and operating under a Section 333 exemption, the Federal Aviation Administration's new regulations for small unmanned aircraft systems likely leave much to be desired. However, the FAA appears to be committed to a circumscribed regulatory construct that will require additional time and ongoing dialogue to perfect, say Timothy Purdon and Seth Nielsen of Robins Kaplan LLP.

Unintended Consequences Of CFPB's Payday Lending Rule

Last month, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau released its long-awaited proposed rule covering payday loans. With the heavy regulation this rule will place on these types of products, and the strong divide it creates, the bureau finds itself stuck between two competing agendas, say Courtney Gilmer and Craig Nazzaro at Baker Donelson Bearman Caldwell & Berkowitz PC.

New York's Final AML Rule And Strategic Alternatives

New York's final anti-money laundering rule imposes a burden on financial institutions unlike ever before, which should cause regulated entities to evaluate whether it makes business sense to remain a New York-regulated institution, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter LLP.

5 Ways To Deal With Underperforming Partners

The dilemma of an underperforming partner may raise a myriad of unwanted issues for a law firm, from a depressed bottom line to toxic internal politics, but with the right approach, firms can steer such attorneys back to the light and avoid an awkward or nasty breakup, experts say.

How To Avoid Trial And Save Clients Money

Most clients aren’t interested in shelling out large sums of money to take a case to trial. Instead, they dream of finding a law firm that can help them escape litigation before they break the bank, experts say. Here, veteran litigators offer their take on how to end a case quickly and save clients cash.

Boyd Briefs
Mar. 31, 2017

[redacted]

From Dean Dan

In this Boyd Briefs we highlight the law school's thriving Health Law Program. We are delighted to share the news that David Orentlicher will be joining our faculty. Professor Orentlicher comes to Boyd after serving as the Samuel R. Rosen Professor of Law and the Co-director of the William S. and Christine S. Hall Center for Law and Health at the Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law. Professor Orentlicher is one of the leading health law scholars in the country. He is a member of the American Law Institute, and former president of the American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics. Professor Orentlicher earned both his medical and law degrees from Harvard, and he is the co-author of the casebook Health Care Law and Ethics. He joins our already outstanding health law faculty including Lehman Professor of Law Stacey Tovino, Professor Max Gakh, William S. Boyd Professor of Law Ann McGinley, and Professor Sara Gordon, who is featured below.

Adjunct Professor Cynthia Asher has organized two excellent CLE programs coming up in April. First, on Friday, April 14, 2017, Samuel R. Maizel, a partner in the Los Angeles office of Dentons, will give a talk titled "Unique Issues That Arise in the Restructuring of a Financially Distressed Healthcare Business." On Friday, April 21, 2017, Cory Talbot, a partner in the Salt Lake City office of Holland and Hart LLP, will give a talk titled "Antitrust Considerations in Health Care and Ways to Protect Your Transaction." Both of these talks are free and approved for two hours of CLE.

The UNLV Health Law Program also now offers law students the opportunity to concentrate their elective studies in health law. Our first Boyd student to earn the new Health Law Concentration is Vanessa Rendon, a December 2016 graduate. I want to congratulate Vanessa on recently placing second in two national writing competitions sponsored by the American Bar Association and the American College of Legal Medicine for her outstanding paper on medical repatriation.

Finally, this week the law school partnered with the Brookings Institution, together with the Saltman Center for Conflict Resolution and the Desert Research Institute, for a wonderful conference on water law and policy in Washington, D.C. You can watch videos from the conference here. After the conference, I had the opportunity to meet with some of our Congressional delegates, including Congresswoman Jacky Rosen, Congressman Mark Amodei, Congresswoman Dina Titus, Senator Dean Heller, and Senator Catherine Cortez Masto. They were happy to hear about all of the great things happening at the law school, and we are very grateful for their continued support.

Associate Professor of Law

What's the most important thing you are working on right now?

My current research focuses on the treatment of individuals with mental illness and addiction in the legal system, and specifically in drug and other specialty courts like mental health court. Specifically, I have been looking at the high rates of co-morbidity of addiction and mental illness, as well as co-occurring substance use and behavioral addictions. Addiction frequently co-occurs with or contributes to a wide range of medical conditions, including physical conditions like heart disease, as well as mental health and behavioral disorders like depression and anxiety. Moreover, many people who are addicted to substances also engage in addictive behaviors, like problem gambling. But while we know that these types of disorders often occur in tandem, drug and other specialty courts are typically segregated; that is, individuals are diverted into a specialty court that might address one problem, like drug or alcohol use, while failing to address another problem the individual may also have, like a gambling disorder. Because of the significant advances in our understanding of the frequency of co-occurring disorders since the original conception of the drug court model, my research suggests that the basic structure of drug and other specialty courts might be improved by shifting the focus away from discrete substances or behaviors, and towards the underlying causes of addiction and the intersection of addiction and mental illness.

What is the most significant issue facing your field and how should it be addressed?

I think the most significant issue facing the legal system as it attempts to deal with individuals with addiction is the continuing lack of understanding that addiction is a brain disease, one with a biological basis similar to cancer or diabetes. This is a problem for any individual with an addiction who finds herself involved with the criminal justice system, but I think it is also a problem for individuals who become involved with drug and other specialty courts. Many drug courts, for instance, will not accept participants who are undergoing medication-assisted treatment for addiction and substance abuse, treatments which have been shown to be safe and highly effective for many people. I think many people still believe that addiction is a type of character flaw or weakness, and this attitude is reflected in the types of addiction treatment we are willing to provide to people both within and outside of the justice system.

When you are working on an article or a book, what's your favorite part of the process?

My favorite part of the process of any writing project is the moment (and for me, it is usually a fairly discrete moment) where I feel like I've reached the top of the mountain and the rest of the way is downhill. Sometimes, this is when I have a pretty good draft of something and I can start fine-tuning. But more often, it's when I can see where all of the pieces will (eventually) go. Even if I still have a lot of—or most of—the work to go, that stage is much more satisfying than the beginning when I feel like one idea could go in a dozen different and unpredictable directions.

Student Spotlight: Bryce Moir

You are taking both the Health Law and HIPAA Privacy courses with Professor Stacey Tovino this semester. How are you enjoying those courses, and how are they shaping your professional objectives?

My mother has been in the medical field for over 20 years, so I have always been fascinated with anything medically related. I also love politics, law, and policy so Health Law and HIPAA are a perfect amalgamation of policy and health. I could not have asked for a better combination! I hope to take these HIPAA skills and be a HIPAA privacy officer after I graduate.

Tell us about your work with the Legal Aid Center of Southern Nevada Consumer Rights Project.

As a law clerk, I researched many topics about bankruptcy law and bankruptcy fraud. We were working on a case where a woman was trying to commit bankruptcy fraud, so that was extremely exciting to be a part of an actual case with real life consequences. The best part of LACSN, however, is that face-to-face connection I made with so many people that needed our help. Really nothing can be better than helping those in need.

You studied music as a high school student at the Las Vegas Academy. Do you still find time to play while now studying the law?

While my violin days are over, I still play piano every day. It keeps me calm and sane in this chaotic world of law school. It really has been my saving grace in times of extreme duress.

Where do you see yourself in ten years?

I see myself somewhere in the health law profession either working as general counsel for a hospital or doing something HIPAA related. Either way, as long as I am happy and comfortable I cannot ask for anything more!

Alumni Spotlight: David Klink '11

David Klink Attorney at Law, Phoenix

What piqued your interest in health care law as a student?

While at Boyd, health care reform and the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act were part of the national debate. So, I focused my studies on health care legal issues, believing it to be a growth field where I could find a job after graduation, since we were also in the middle of the recession.

The health program at Boyd was in its infancy and I was able to study with Professor Stacey Tovino while externing at UMC's Office of Risk Management. Everything from physician credentialing, EMTALA regulations, patient privacy laws, STARK compliance, mental health patient legal issues, institutional review boards for clinical trials, and malpractice claims were part of hospital projects where I experienced classroom legal concepts played out in real life at a large fast-paced hospital.

Tell us about your solo practice working in health care.

My practice is devoted primarily to defending health care providers. I help nurses, doctors, and other health care professionals respond to complaint notices from their licensing boards. This unique area of administrative law has different procedural rules than civil or criminal litigation; however, I frequently draw on civil, criminal, and constitutional law to effectively represent my clients.

Additionally, I advise health care providers and others for general business and litigation matters; and represent personal injury plaintiffs. I have helped clients with provider reimbursement disputes, credentialing issues, employment non-compete agreements, medical marijuana compliance, physician employment and operating agreement reviews, and many other issues affecting health care providers and their businesses.

The growing field of health care is a great practice with many different areas where lawyers can find a niche.

Is there a nugget of advice you would give a recent Boyd Law graduate?

First, understand that your client is often facing one of the most difficult and stressful situations of his/her life. Clients trust us to help them through the unfamiliar legal system. Second, never be afraid to ask other attorneys for guidance in unfamiliar situations. Most attorneys are more than willing to share information and advice because it is impossible to know everything. Asking questions and sharing information about your practice with other attorneys is a great way to develop professional relationships. Third, make time to pursue activities that have nothing to do with the practice of law. This will help refresh your mind and manage the pressures of legal practice.

Community Member Spotlight: Lynn Stange

Chief Compliance Officer at Nathan Adelson Hospice, Member of the Health Law Advisory Board at the Boyd School of Law

Tell me about your decision to serve on the Health Law Advisory Board and what makes Boyd Law's mission meaningful to you.

I came to the Advisory Board initially to attend in our CEO Carole Fisher's place but once the conversation started, my unique experience in the regulatory arena appealed to the Board and I was asked by Stacey Tovino to participate as a regular member. The Board and its mission are meaningful to me because it creates an opportunity to share with community members from all professions regarding health care law and how it relates to actual practice.

What was your first or most memorable job?

My first job was at McDonald's in Helena, Montana. I met my husband of 32 years there, making it very memorable. Beyond that, it was a great place to meet new people from different parts of the city and create this space to have fun and engage in new friendships.

What advice would you give to current Boyd Law students?

Be open to new possibilities and not limit those possibilities. I also think what CEO Carole Fisher and I share is that we believe we should always be in "learning mode" versus "knowing mode."

Where is your favorite travel destination?

Rome, Italy. You can wander the streets endlessly and always encounter something new and interesting. Of course the people are very special and the food is delicious too.

Tell me about a book you have read that has made a real difference to you.

The Shack by William P. Young is a wonderful story of forgiveness, closure and redemption.

EXTERNAL EMAIL

Dear Mayor Goodman,

I am delighted to have the opportunity to see you this Wednesday. I have only been a part of this organization for a few months, but I understand that you have been a long-time and extremely generous supporter of the Museum, in a multitude of ways. Your commitment and service is very inspiring to me.

Attached is your personalized individual giving form and date of your last gift. These documents will also be available in hardcopy at the Board meeting. Since it is time to renew, I would like to confirm whether you wish to remain at the same level or if your giving capacity has changed. You can indicate this on the giving form or feel free to reply to me via email. Please also indicate whether or not you would like an invoice generated for your gift amount.

If you prefer to manage your individual giving over the phone or in person, please do not hesitate to contact me. I am happy to assist you and answer any questions, and I will be available immediately before and after Wednesday's meeting. Please also consider whether you have access to a company match program, as that may increase the total amount of your gift substantially.

We are honored that you consider us a worthy recipient of your valuable time and financial support. Thank you for being a champion of The Mob Museum!

Sincerely,
Adrina

EXPERT ANALYSIS

An FCA Update As We Await High Court's Escobar Decision

The federal False Claims Act may soon be reshaped. With a case pending before the U.S. Supreme Court on the controversial theory of implied false certification, a pair of interesting cases in the Second Circuit and a recent House Judiciary Subcommittee raising issues of FCA reform, the law may face changes in text or interpretation, say attorneys with Bradley Arant Boult Cummings LLP.

Unclaimed Property Auditors Move Beyond Life Insurers

The same contingency-fee unclaimed property auditors that targeted life insurance companies are now turning their focus to other types of insurance, like health insurance and property and casualty insurance, raising a host of unique issues, say Wilson Barmeyer and Mary Jane Wilson-Bilik at Sutherland Asbill & Brennan LLP.

Panama Papers: Reminders About Law Firm Cybersecurity

Nowhere is the attractiveness of law firms as cybercrime targets more evident than the recent Mossack Fonseca hack, believed to be the most significant data theft event in history. Firms represent a treasure trove of information and historically have had dreadful cybersecurity practices. There has been some progress, but firms can also commit to better defending their information by taking a simple, three-step approach, says Sean Doherty of TSC Advantage.

Opinion

Trump Campaign Officials Likely Violated CFAA

The publicly available evidence strongly suggests that certain Trump campaign officials had knowledge that Russian hackers had penetrated the Democratic National Committee computer system before this became publicly known, and sought political benefit from this. If that is true, there is probable cause to charge Trump officials, and maybe the president himself, with felony violations of the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act, says former federal prosecutor Peter Toren. Quote of the Day

"It's not that people are malicious, but if they don't have adequate training, they may be doing something that they think is helpful that isn't helpful."

— Medicaid Acting Administrator Cody Phinney

From the Editors

Nevada Medicaid is putting a hold on enrollment for two types of health-care providers while the agency develops new rules aimed at curbing fraud and abuse within the state-run insurance program. Megan Messerly explains the moratorium.

Good-bye, November

The Truth About The Russians And The Election

Last week, media outlets flooded the airwaves with dark tales of online Russian operatives who prevented Hillary Clinton from becoming U.S. president. However, the conclusory allegation of a Russian-orchestrated and targeted cyberstrike seems more akin to propaganda than truth, and is not only disquieting, but also irresponsible, says John Reed Stark, president of John Reed Stark Consulting LLC and former chief of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's Office of Internet Enforcement.

What The FCC Will Look Like In 2017

Given that the Republican Party will soon hold three of five commissioner seats at the Federal Communications Commission, its agenda will likely hold sway for at least the next four years. The FCC may shift its attitude toward issues such as spectrum management and major mergers, says Stephanie Roy of Steptoe & Johnson LLP.

CPP Rollback May Impact SO2 Emissions Trading Markets

If the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Clean Power Plan is jettisoned or substantially scaled back by the D.C. Circuit or the next administration, then the resulting short-term regulatory uncertainty and the potential tapering of recent declines in sulfur dioxide emissions may affect sulfur dioxide emissions allowance prices, says David Fotouhi of Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP.

The Panama Papers: The Story So Far, And What Comes Next

The offshore banking industry attracted global attention earlier this year with the publication of 11.5 million leaked documents detailing decades of information about over 200,000 bank accounts and shell companies. Jeremy Maltby and Grant Damon-Feng of O'Melveny & Myers LLP examine government responses to the Panama Papers and offer tips for companies to minimize their risk of exposure to unlawful shell company activity and its consequences.

Are Courts In The Discovery Driver's Seat?

I recently asked a panel of four federal court judges whether they expect courts to start taking a more active role in e-discovery. They answered with a resounding yes. However, their responses left me wondering whether courts are actually taking a more active role in discovery since the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure amendments took effect in December 2015, says Cristin Traylor of McGuireWoods LLP.

BigLaw Fails To Bend To GC Billing Needs, Survey Says

Corporate legal departments in 2016 had little faith in law firms to be change agents and drivers of innovation in a climate where departments are increasingly seeking cost-effective alternative fee arrangements, according to results of a survey recently published by Blickstein Group.

More Work To Move In-House As Cos. Continue To Cut Costs

As corporate legal departments continue to strive for efficiency and cost cutting, the traditional work of outside counsel is becoming increasingly expendable, and with ever-improving legal technology, more and more legal work is expected to be brought back in-house, according to a new report.

Chadbourne Pay Row Counterclaims Are Revenge, Attys Say

Chadbourne & Parke LLP engaged in "naked acts of retribution" when it countersued lawyers who have alleged the firm short-changed female partners and locked them out of leadership, according to a Friday filing from the attorneys.

Eversheds, Sutherlands Ink Trans-Atlantic Deal

Sealing a relatively rare transatlantic law firm merger, partners of Atlanta-based Sutherland Asbill & Brennan LLP and the U.K.'s Eversheds LLP have voted to combine to create a new firm — 2,300-attorney global giant Eversheds Sutherland, the firms announced Friday.

GC Cheat Sheet: The Hottest Corporate News Of The Week

My Strangest Day In Court: The 1995 Oklahoma City Bombing

When Timothy McVeigh detonated a rental truck full of fertilizer and fuel oil in front of the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building on April 19, 1995, the explosion blew the windows out of our courtroom and the jurors jumped from their seats and dashed from the building. Plainly, there would be a mistrial, recalls Randy Gordon of Gardere Wynne Sewell LLP.

Subject: Your Guide to 2015 NPP Risk Areas and Audit Considerations

Dear Colleague,

Hiring non-physician practitioners (NPPs), such as nurse practitioners, physician assistants, or clinical nurse specialists, can ease physician workload and boost patient satisfaction. But if you don't know the specific rules for billing NPP services, you could lose deserved reimbursement — or worse, face fraud charges and denials.

You need to know the answers to these questions before you start billing NPP services:

- Which services can your NPP perform and what are the options for billing them?
- What are the split/shared E/M visit basic requirements, and when do they not apply?
- How do split shared rules differ between an office setting and a hospital setting ?
- What levels of supervision are required for an NPP to provide services?
- What are the NPP and incident-to risk areas and specific audit considerations?
- Can you apply CMS's "incident-to" rules to non-CMS payers?
- What can you do if the non-Medicare payer does not credential or recognize the NPP's NPI?
- How can you determine who has the ability to bill for services and when?

If you don't know the answers, your practice or facility will pay the price.

You need a trusted resource that provides expert answers to these questions and more. Turn to the Non-Physician Practitioner Handbook 2015.

Brought to you by The Coding Institute, this guide includes tips and tricks, expert-answered reader questions, and sample tools to ensure you learn the pros and cons of hiring NPPs, as well as the ins and outs of ethically maximizing reimbursement for NPP encounters.

Take a look at some of the key areas covered in Non-Physician Practitioner Handbook 2015:

- Boost your productivity and income by adding an NPP, but weigh the pros and cons first.
- Follow 3 Easy Steps to Keep Your NPP Coding Incident Free.
- New MAC Tip Reminds Practices What Ancillary Staff Can — and Cannot — Document.
- Focus on terminology to navigate the NPP maze.
- Use this incident-to audit checklist to avoid claim missteps.
- PA Assisting at Surgery? Check These Tips to Bill Properly.
- Quickly Determine Whether You Can Bill Your NPPs Service Incident to the Physician.
- Avoid these F2F pitfalls.

How American Express is evolving

Listen in to the latest podcast by Jo Ann Barefoot, consultant and Banking Exchange editorial advisory board member. Here's how she describes her chat with Courtney Kelso of American Express:

"Think about trying to drive disruptive innovation in an organization that's not only enormous and global, but is also 165 years old—one of the oldest financial brands anywhere. As Courtney says, American Express was a freight company, moving Americans west in the 1800's. Innovation and adaptation are in its corporate DNA, but change at big companies is hard.

"And then also think about taking a company like American Express, which has always epitomized elite, high-prestige financial services, and shifting it from being an exclusive brand to an inclusive brand. It's a fascinating saga, full of lessons for everyone." Listen now

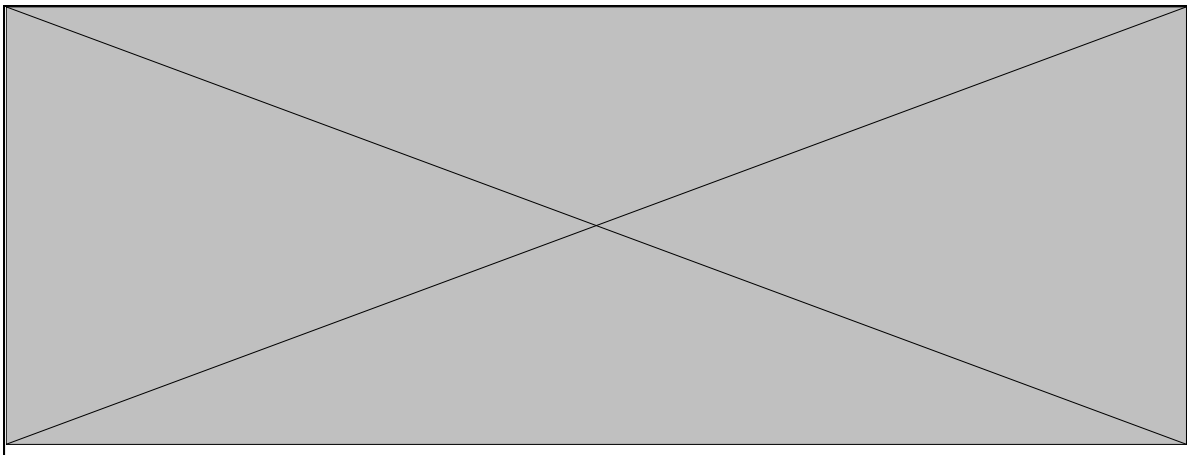
Subject: Auditing EH&S programs for the Non-Technical Auditor in 2015



Date: Monday, March 9, 2015 | Length: 90 minutes
Time: 1:00 pm ET | 12:00 pm CT | 11:00 am MT | 10:00 am PT
Speaker - Lynn Fountain, CGMA, CRMA

Worldwide attention focused on global environmental issues and health and safety concerns from toxic chemicals tops the list of major risk areas that all companies must be able to manage. Environmental issues span further than hazardous waste or toxic emissions. Similarly, health and safety issues span further than a worker slip and fall or carpal tunnel syndrome. Compliance professionals must be prepared to proactively and effectively identify the risks incumbent in their everyday processes.

Compliance rules governing environmental health and safety issues are some of the most complex laws that exist today. Dependent on the industry, rules can incorporate aspects ranging from air, water, soil or waste pollution to worker safety regulations and community and employee health standards. These laws are often very technical in nature and require professionals with specific engineering, scientific or safety background to develop compliance programs. Companies often put significant capital into creating elaborate programs to address these various environmental and health and safety requirements. Once the programs are developed, their ongoing operation can overshadow the ongoing need of periodic operating effectiveness.

This session Auditing EH&S programs for the Non-Technical Auditor in 2015 by expert speaker Lynn Fountain is designed to provide compliance and audit professionals with base understanding of the most important risks associated with environmental health and safety concerns. In addition, attendees will uncover effective deployment strategies for assessing these very technical areas.

Training Objective

- Environmental issues span further than hazardous waste or toxic emissions.
- Common Chemical and EH&S Risks
- Understanding EH&S terminology
- Regulations impacting EH&S compliance professionals should understand
- Effective utilization of assessment methods: maturity model assessment, interviews, site visits, questionnaires

- Application of attorney client privilege to audits
- Keys to reporting results

Good Morning, Bradley:

Have you asked for the Attorney General's office to intervene? It appears you need to consult a private attorney, or you may also contact Nevada Legal Services (702-386-0404) or Legal Aid Center of Southern Nevada (702-386-1070). The Mayor does not have the authority to intervene or conduct investigations regarding personal business disputes; this is a legal matter that must be resolved through appropriate legal channels. Best wishes in your efforts.

Constituent Services, Office of the Honorable Mayor, Carolynn Goodman:

WE need your continued assistance and involvement. We would like to request an update/status on our recent request for assistance submitted to the AG on June 9, 2018 regarding our recent inquiry/fraud complaint about Wells Fargo Bank (WFB), Wells Fargo Dealer Services (WFDS), and Centennial Toyota of Las Vegas (CTLV).

After considerable inquires, WFB did reply in reference to our claims on fraudulent business practices, coercion, and sales tactics of WFDS and CTLV. Their documents reveal . .

STATE OF NEVADA
OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Suite 3900
Las Vegas, NV 89101

Honorable Adam Paul Laxalt, Attorney General:

We have received your Response Letter dated July 16, 2018 regarding our recent inquiry/fraud complaint about Wells Fargo Bank (WFB), Wells Fargo Dealer Services (WFDS), and Centennial Toyota of Las Vegas (CTLV). Thank-you for responding to our complaint.

My Mother, Mary Ann Driver who suffers from "Vascular Dementia" and impaired motor skills and diagnosed with early Alzheimer's Disease was victimized by egregious business practices of WFB, WFDS and CTLV. My Mother's Social Security income of $953.00 p/m which covers her mortgage, food, utilities, hospital/medical prescriptions and bills - with any outstanding expenses paid by Her Family Members & Caring Friends, was in no financial or coherent position to be sold a vehicle under any circumstances!

The day of the sale, documents attached show CTLV & WFDS agreements, loan papers, and documents indicating an APR ranging from 6.29% up to 7.45%, monthly payment amounts ranging from $204.99 to $211.90 and total sales price financed from $12,235.50 up to $19,488.80. Transactions that were fraudulent and deceptive. Equally, WFB, WFDS and CTLV engaged in further nefarious business practices as mentioned below:

Mary Ann Driver, a Nevadan Senior Citizen almost 80 years old was sold a 2015 Nissan Sentra priced at $19,488.00 for a 72-month term lease with monthly payments of $211.90 without income verification, proof-of-employment or asset-based down-payment; and

Mary Ann Driver may have been the latest victim of WFB business practices of accepting falsified income reported at $4,200.00 without proof being reported to WFDS as stated per letter dated July 11, 2018; and

Mary Ann Driver was coerced into purchasing a 60 month/$795.00 "Tire & Wheel Protection with Cosmetic Coverage – Platinum Plus Service Agreement"; and

Mary Ann Driver was coerced into purchasing a 24 month/$2,440.00 "Century Service Plus Vehicle Service Agreement" through Century Automotive Service Corporation; and

Mary Ann Driver was coerced into applying for a Toyota Credit Card for a $2,500 down payment AND was coerced into signing a "POWER-OF-ATTORNEY" to CTLV for the "trade-in-value" of $132 toward Her 2008 Kia Spectra as additional down-payment; and finally

From the Desk of Mr. Bradley 3125 N. Andrita St. 90065

The Fact is My Mother at her age, given her lack of employment, inadequate income verification, high risk-low credit rating coupled with her impaired cognitive skills SHOULD HAVE NEVER been sold a lease and frivolous service agreements during her visit to a dealer just to inquire about trade-in-values.

We are asking for your assistance with Wells Fargo Bank, Wells Fargo Dealer Services established under Account No. 8882479293, and Centennial Toyota Las Vegas to cancel the $19,488.00/72-month term lease and retrieve/schedule a pick-up of the 2015 Nissan Sentra and return it to the dealer, cancel the Toyota Credit Card Services issued under Account No. [redacted] rescind the "POWER-OF-ATTORNEY" to CTLV for the "trade-in-value" and return her 2008 Kia Spectra or provide equivalent compensation for the loss of her vehicle which has resulted in fear and a deep mistrust of all Las Vegas, Nevada business practices that systematically prey upon the Poor, Elderly, Single Women or Senior Women of Color living in Las Vegas.

My Mother's Rights, Freedoms, Protections and Privileges as a Senior Citizen has been trampled-on, misused and abused. This situation seriously warrants further investigation
We thank-you for your assistance and hope to hear from you soon on this important and timely investigation.

Bradley,
Son of Mary Ann Driver

Notice of Default and Requirement of Strict Compliance

Dear MARY A DRIVER, :

Notice is hereby given that you are in default under the terms and conditions of your retail installment contract or loan agreement ("Agreement") with Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. DBA Wells Fargo Dealer Services. Our records show you have failed and refused to pay the full monthly installment of $ 204.99 due and payable on the 19TH day of each month for the month of APRIL through the present. The Past due amount set forth above must be paid to Wells Fargo Dealer Services by the Payment deadline set forth above. If you do not pay this amount, Wells Fargo Dealer Services will declare all unpaid sums immediately due and payable and repossess the collateral subject to state law without any further notice to you by Wells Fargo Dealer Services.

☐ If this box is checked, Wells Fargo Dealer Services is informed and believes that you are also in default by failing to keep the above referenced collateral insured as required by your Agreement with Wells Fargo Dealer Services. Demand is thus made that you immediately transmit to Wells Fargo Dealer Services written proof of insurance. Said proof of insurance must conform to your agreement with Wells Fargo Dealer Services and must provide lien holders' coverage in favor of Wells Fargo Dealer Services.

WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES MAY HAVE ACCEPTED LATE PAYMENTS IN THE PAST WITHOUT STRICTLY ENFORCING THE AGREEMENT. YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT GOING FORWARD WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES REQUIRES STRICT COMPLIANCE WITH ALL OF THE TERMS OF THIS LETTER AND OF THE CREDIT AGREEMENT WITH WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES. IF YOU FAIL TO STRICTLY COMPLY WITH THE AGREEMENT FROM THIS DATE FORWARD, WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES WILL ENFORCE THE AGREEMENT. ENFORCEMENT MAY INCLUDE REPOSSESSION OF THE ABOVE-REFERENCED COLLATERAL. IN THE EVENT OF YOUR CONTINUED DEFAULT, WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES WILL ALSO TAKE ALL APPROPRIATE ACTION, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO LEGAL ACTION AGAINST YOU FOR ANY AMOUNTS DUE AND PAYABLE BY YOU UNDER THE TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT, ATTORNEY'S FEES, COSTS AND OTHER CHARGES AND FEES ALLOWED BY THE AGREEMENT AND NEVADA LAW. THE RECEIPT AND COLLECTION BY WELLS FARGO DEALER SERVICES OF ANY PARTIAL PAYMENT SHOULD NOT BE CONSTRUED BY YOU TO BE AND SHALL NOT BE A WAIVER OF THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THIS LETTER, WHICH REQUIRES FULL PAYMENT OF THE PAST DUE AMOUNT AND ANY AMOUNTS THAT HAVE BECOME DUE BEFORE THE PAYMENT DEADLINE.

If you pay the Past due amount, together with any other installments which may become due prior to the Payment deadline, and provide proof of insurance (if applicable), Wells Fargo Dealer Services will not take the actions described in this letter. All sums should be made payable to Wells Fargo Dealer Services and mailed to PO Box 17900, Denver, CO 80217-0900 (or you can send overnight delivery to Lockbox Services 17900,Wells Fargo Dealer Services, 1740 Broadway St – LL2, Denver, CO 80274).

If you have questions, please call 1-800-289-8004, Monday-Friday, 5:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Pacific Time.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Wells Fargo Dealer Services

Subject: Response to your concerns for your account ending in 9293

Consumer Financial Protection Bureau Case Number: 180610-3226343

Dear Mary A. Driver:

Thank you for giving us the opportunity to review your concern with Wells Fargo Dealer Services (WFDS). We are writing in response to the concerns that we received on your behalf from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. In order to complete our research, we need some additional information, which you can find outlined below.

About your concerns

We received a concern on your behalf that was submitted to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau by Brad Bradley. The concern was related to the opening and the terms of your loan. Mr. Bradley expressed concern that you had purchased a 10 year lease for a 2015 Nissan Sentra priced at $19,488.00. In addition, Mr. Bradley stated that the monthly payment was one-third of your income and that the dealership utilized poor judgement in their business practices when selling you the vehicle. Our research shows that you purchased a 2015 Nissan Sentra for a 72 month (6 year term) with a monthly payment of $204.99. The original balance of the loan was $12,235.50 with a contract amount of $14,759.28. The application shows that your income is $4,200.00 per month. On behalf of Wells Fargo Dealer Services, we personally would like to extend our apologies for any service you received that did not meet your expectations from Centennial Toyota. As the lender, Wells Fargo is not present during the negotiation process, and unfortunately we do not have direct knowledge of all the circumstances during this process. We appreciate the opportunity to address your concerns related to your concerns with our business partner, and apologize that the exchange left you feeling less than a valued customer. Attached, please find a copy of your Retail Installment Contract for your review.

Please contact us

As discussed during our conversation on June 15, 2018, you requested that Wells Fargo Dealer Services not contact you and that you would call back giving us authorization to speak to a third party regarding your concerns. We would like to be of service and thoroughly review your concern. In order to achieve this, please contact us and provide us with verbal authorization to discuss your concern with a third party. You may also provide us with a written Letter of Authorization that would allow Wells Fargo Dealer Services to discuss concerns about this account with a third party. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause; however, without your authorization, we can't release account-specific information to third parties. Please contact us at the number below to provide the verbal authorization or complete the attached Authorization to Release Account Information and return it to us as indicated. Once we receive the completed and signed form, we will be happy to help you further.

CAROLYN GOODMAN
CITY OF LAS VEGAS STATE OF NV
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
495 South Main Street
Las Vegas, NV 89101

Honorable Mayor, Carolyn Goodman:

Mary Ann Driver, a Nevadan Senior Citizen/Resident and I want to personally "Thank-You" for your assistance and intervention in resolving a recent inquiry/fraud complaint about Wells Fargo Bank (WFB), Wells Fargo Dealer Services (WFDS), and Centennial Toyota of Las Vegas (CTLV).

Given the facts presented, the responses and replies provided by all interested parties, and the exposed business practices exhibited by WFB, WFDS, and CTLV coupled with your advocacy on our behalf, the matter was officially resolved on September 5, 2018 with all previous credit card arrangements canceled since October/November 2018. Furthermore, all auto, service, and coverage agreements were rescinded, the 2015 Nissan Sentra returned to the Lender, and equivalent compensation proffered to Mary Ann Driver from CTLV with no further legal/civil matters forthcoming. Please consider this matter closed!

Now that My Mother has peace-of-mind, WE can finally focus on securing healthcare assistance for her degenerative symptoms brought on by early Alzheimer's Disease. And Again, thank-you for your assistance and support on our behalf.

At this special time of Acknowledgement, Sharing, and Caring, we wish you and your Family a Safe, Happy, and Joyous Holiday Season by enclosing a Holiday GIF of Peace, Joy and Happiness.

EPA's New Risk Management Rule Is Here ... For Now

After the 2013 explosion at a fertilizer facility in Texas, President Obama signed an executive order requiring federal agencies to identify improvements to risk management practices. In response, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has just published a final rule amending its Risk Management Program regulations. But changes to the Congressional Review Act could affect the rule's future, says Michael Reer of Harris Finley & Bogle PC.

What Trump High Court Candidates Say About 1st Amendment

As media advocates, we wondered how President-elect Donald Trump's soon-to-be-announced U.S. Supreme Court nominee might react to Trump's vow to shred the hard-won protections now embedded in the law of libel. We found that none of the opinions from judges on his shortlist hint at any inclination to depart from these established rules, say Gayle Sproul and Max Mishkin of Levine Sullivan Koch & Schulz LLP.

Health Care Enforcement Review And 2017 Outlook: Part 1

Over the past year, clear trends have emerged in the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's enforcement activities. In part one of this four-part series, attorneys at Mintz Levin Cohn Ferris Glovsky and Popeo PC examine key 2016 government policies, regulations and enforcement actions in this area, and the likely impact of these trends on enforcement in 2017.

In Congress: More Confirmation Hearings

Democrats will have a difficult time actually defeating any of President-elect Trump's cabinet nominations because of a change they made to the Senate rules to end the filibuster for executive branch nominations. Their goal is not really to defeat the nominees but to draw stark differences early on in the new administration, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Dabbing Into The Financial Side Of Marijuana

Both the U.S. Department of Justice and the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network have provided guidance for brokers and firms doing business with the cannabis industry, concerning how to avoid prosecution for violating the law. However, even 100 percent compliance does not guarantee total safety from investigation, says Neda Ghomeshi of Hunter Taubman Fischer & Li LLC.

Dear colleague,

Frustrated by under-reimbursement, claims denials, and failed appeals letters? Many revenue recovery strategies that worked for out-of-network (OON) providers in the past are no longer effective today. The climate has changed and so must you.

It's no secrét that it is becoming more difficult to recover what is owed in a reasonable amount of time. Across the nation, practices and facilities are struggling to keep up. To thrive in this environment, you need to learn how to do more with less – reduce denials, manage appeals and recover lost revenue. We think it's about time you learned what the insurers don't want you know: how to push back and fíght for what's owed.

Join us for this live audio conference "Balance Billing for OON Practices: Manage Denials with Effective Appeals" with industry veteran Thomas J. Force, Esq. on Thursday, May 17, 2018 at 1 pm ET to improve your revenue cyclé workflow. Get a comprehensive overview of what an OON provider needs to be doing, now, to earn proper reimbursement—including best practices to address fraud audits, recoupment by insurers, and balance billing challenges. Plus, Force will equip you to defend against deníed and under-reimbursed claims by improving your appeals letters. You will díscover fíeld-tested techniques, best practice tools and resources to help your practice effectively appeal claims- and improve your bottom line. Force will walk you through what it takes nowadays to excel at revenue recovery. From denial prevention to stronger appeals, he's going to share inside techniques and strategies to help your organization recover more revenue in a shorter amount of time.

This session will provide you practical advice on how to prevent, manage and appeal deníed claims. You'll learn the five best tools that you should be using to prevent denials from happening. You'll learn how to strengthen a case by holding health plans accountable using state and federal law. You'll also learn how to approach denial management overall and what to include to create a strong appeal letter.

After attending this session, you'll be prepared to optimize your collections with effective, proven recovery techniques. Read more.

Session Highlights

This session will cover useful topics, such as:

- Effective strategies for revenue recovery, collections, and appeals
- How to use ERISA to hold insurers accountable to get claims paid
- How to leverage small claims count to collect what you are owed
- How to generate more revenue on the out of network
- Effective OON work flow
- Balance billing for OON practices

- ERISA rules and regulations
- Best practices to reduce fraud audits
- Strategies to address recoupments by insurers

Session Agenda

This session will cover:

- Industry overview

Subject: 3rd Street / FSE

Members of the Board,

An update and request for guidance regarding the issue of 3rd Street between Ogden and Fremont. My apologies for the long email…..and if this is an area that you feel you could provide more assistance with, I would very much like to arrange for a call tomorrow.

You will recall our discussion at the December meeting during which time I shared the attached letter. In January, I reached out to Scott Adams again, making him aware of poor conditions on the street and asking for an update on the City/FSE negotiations. Scott replied that the City's position was that the City would "take back the street from the alley to Ogden." He indicated that there might be pushback from Boyd Gaming; and, if that proved to be the case, he would apprise me.

I again contacted Scott for an update two weeks ago and we arranged to speak last Monday. At that time, the City's position had evolved as a result of pressure from Boyd. Scott informed me that they were prepared to leave the lease of the street with FSE intact, and would instead add language in the agreement with respect to the operating conditions. In my opinion, it is not problematic to leave the lease "as is", provided that there are strong guidelines for how the space must be maintained. I also conveyed this concern to the Mayor in a meeting with her last Wednesday.

All communications with the City suggest that Boyd Gaming is the key challenge on the FSE side. To that end, the Mayor told me that she would speak with Bill Boyd. (Mayor continues to be extremely supportive.) Rob has also helped set up a meeting with Steve Thompson, EVP of Boyd Gaming, for later this month. Unfortunately, I do not believe we have much time at our disposal.

While there is some talk of a two week delay, it appears that City staff is planning to put the funding agreement for the FSE canopy refresh on the City Council agenda for March 21st. While City staff has expressed the intention to include operating parameters in the funding agreement, the FSE is trying to keep that in a separate MOU. Additionally, the operating language that FSE is advocating for is not strong enough to satisfy our needs for a truly appealing pedestrian thoroughfare. I was shown the language this morning, though I do not have it in a form I can forward.

There has been a flurry of conversations today between and among the City, FSE, CIM, and the Museum. In particular, I joined a meeting with Councilman Seroka and Patrick Hughes, CEO of the FSE. I also spoke again with the Mayor, who continues to try to help. Mark Brandenburg, FSE Chairman, also contacted me. The position that I have articulated is that we are completely supportive of the funding for the FSE refresh – it is essential. But, we need assurances that 3rd Street will be properly maintained, open and attractive. We need specific language to address this that can withstand changes in management. And, it needs to be tied to the funding agreement – otherwise the City will lose any leverage it has to impose these parameters.

Mark and I agreed that I would send the FSE a list of provisions that we would like included in the agreement. I would like to provide that and, hopefully, work this out amicably. However, it seems that we need to concurrently seek support of each member of City Council such that they not move forward to funding the FSE refresh without addressing our concerns on 3rd Street.

Please feel free to share any thoughts.

Thanks you,

Jonathan

CMS Final Rule Does Not Answer Insurers' Biggest Questions

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services recently released a final rule intended to stabilize exchange markets for 2018. However, the rule does not resolve ongoing uncertainty regarding cost-sharing reduction funding, among other concerns, and this uncertainty will likely overshadow any stabilizing effects, say attorneys with McDermott Will & Emery LLP. Tribal Self-Governance Under Trump: A Common Goal

Today, tribes' unwavering resolve to assume control over a greater number of programs traditionally provided by the federal government may in fact reflect the zeitgeist of the Trump administration. Tribes must educate a new, not-yet-appointed cadre of federal officials on how tribal self-governance can create economic growth not only in Indian country but in the surrounding communities as well, say Venus McGhee Prince and Claire Newman of Kilpatrick Townsend & Stockton LLP. Miami Could Attract Hedge Funds If SALT Deductions Axed

For years, inertia has been Nitin Motwani's greatest foe in his attempts to lure hedge fund owners in the northeast to Miami, which he has pitched as a tropical low-tax paradise. But with the Republican tax bill proposing to eliminate deductions for state and local taxes, he's sensing an opportunity to finally overcome it. Read more »

Tax Bills Ax Most Valuable SALT Deductions, Study Shows

While both the House and Senate versions of tax reform legislation now include up to $10,000 of property tax relief, a new study Tuesday showed that the loss of write-offs for state income and sales taxes is going to have a larger impact. Read more »

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Will The Supreme Court Review SEC's In-House Judges?

I was confident that the U.S. Supreme Court would grant certiorari in Lucia v. SEC to resolve the split in the circuits over whether federal administrative law judges should be considered inferior officers or employees under the Constitution — until the government's response to the Lucia petition last week, says professor Harold Krent of IIT Chicago-Kent College of Law. How DOE's 'Grid Resiliency' Policy May Impact Gas Markets

At the behest of the U.S. Department of Energy, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is soon expected to release an interim rule that subsidizes power plants that hold 90 days of fuel supply on site — i.e., coal-fired and nuclear plants — and effectively penalizes gas-fired plants. But FERC has an opportunity to mitigate the threat to gas-fired generators, says Chip Moldenhaeur of LawIQ. Read more »

For Trump, Exiting TPP Was The Easy Part

By pulling the U.S. out of the Trans-Pacific Partnership, President Donald Trump was able to fulfill one of the core promises of his campaign, but he may be in for a rude awakening as he attempts to reshape American trade policy in his own image.

2 GOP Sens. Push Own Affordable Care Act Replacement

A pair of Republican senators on Monday pushed their own take on the Affordable Care Act replacement, intent on allowing states to choose the existing system or devise their own health insurance market.

Analysis

Trump, GOP Differences Could Impede Tax Reform Timeline

The House Republicans have tax reform high on their agenda, but their desire to pass legislation before the end of the summer could be significantly impeded if President Donald Trump doesn't agree with their approach for taxing imports and raising approximately $1.2 trillion.

Analysis

Delayed Fiduciary Rule Faces Host Of Obstacles To Repeal

While President Donald Trump is expected to further delay the start of the U.S. Department of Labor's fiduciary rule for retirement account advisers beyond the regulatory freeze imposed Friday, experts said the path to an actual rollback of the regulation is still unclear — especially if firms that have already put millions into compliance choose not to dismantle their efforts.

Trump State Dept. Pick Tillerson Passes Senate Panel

President Donald Trump's pick for secretary of state has passed his first official test in the Senate despite questions over his ties to Russia, as the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee voted to approve his nomination along party lines.

U.S. Supreme Court Declines To Hear Texas Voter ID Case

The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday declined to hear a case that involves a challenge to a controversial Texas law that requires voters to present specific forms of government-issued IDs to cast a ballot, leaving in place lower court rulings that the law is discriminatory to minority voters.

Analysis

Houston Same-Sex Benefits Row May Test Obergefell's Reach

The Texas Supreme Court's decision to hear a challenge to Houston's same-sex employee benefits program could not only impact employers and threaten the rights of such couples across the state, but also lay the groundwork for a U.S. Supreme Court appeal to limit the effect of the Obergefell decision nationwide.

Obama's EPA Leadership Is Out, Acting Heads Step In

As President Donald Trump assumes control of the executive branch, former leaders at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are out, and acting heads have taken over.

Tossing EPA Haze Rule Is Only Option, 5th Circ. Told

Texas and utilities and business groups fighting the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's regional haze plan for the state on Friday told the Fifth Circuit that vacating the entire rule is the only way to ensure the agency crafts a revised rule within its legal authority.

Fla. Claims Conflict In Reversal Of Utility's Nuke Plans

Florida's governor and cabinet Monday urged the Florida Supreme Court to review an appeals court's reversal of their approval for Florida Power & Light Co. to build two nuclear generating units and 89 miles of transmission lines in South Florida, arguing the decision conflicts with a prior ruling.

HEALTH & LIFE SCIENCES

Trump Revives Policy Separating NGO Aid From Abortions

President Donald Trump on Monday signed an executive order reinstating the so-called Mexico City Policy, which forbids any foreign nongovernmental organizations that receive U.S. money for family planning from providing, lobbying for or educating about abortions.

Pfizer Hits Back At Texas In Rebate Info Disclosures Suit

Pzifer Inc. told a federal judge in Texas on Friday that, contrary to claims from the Texas Health and Human Services Commission, there is no proof that the commission's disclosure of its drug pricing and rebate information to two state legislators was required in order to oversee administration of the Medicare rebate program.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

6 Reasons Why A Wholesale Dodd-Frank Repeal Is Unlikely

The Dodd-Frank Act was passed in 2010 with the Great Recession providing momentum and popular support for its enactment. Conversely, there is no acute crisis to serve as a catalyst for its repeal, say Anthony Drenzek and Timothy Mungovan of Proskauer Rose LLP.

USCIS Parole Rule: A Practical Solution For Entrepreneurs

A new rule from U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services amends immigration regulations to expand the use of government authority to authorize parole for foreign entrepreneurs. The expansion is a welcome development for foreign entrepreneurs who have been frustrated by the lack of immigration options available through the existing U.S. visa categories, says Susan Cohen of Mintz Levin Cohn Ferris Glovsky and Popeo PC.

Everything To Know About EPA's Final Nanoscale Rule

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency recently published the first federal environmental regulation to impose reporting requirements specifically for nanoscale materials. Given that 2016 amendments to the Toxic Substances Control Act enable the EPA to issue significant civil penalties, it's critical for industry to understand the regulation and its implications for business, says Lawrence Culleen of Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

More And More States Are Targeting Payroll Debit Cards

It has become increasingly prevalent for employers to pay their employees with payroll debit cards due to the benefits to both employers and employees. However, despite these mutual benefits, many states have enacted legislation that may potentially curtail the use of these cards to pay wages, says Caroline Berdzik of Goldberg Segalla LLP.

10 Antitrust Trends And Developments To Watch This Year

President Donald Trump's competition policies are sure to top the headlines in 2017. We can expect renewed focus on the SMARTER Act, continued attention to the pharmaceutical industry, and hurdles for foreign investment in the U.S., say attorneys with Cooley LLP.

DAYS UNTIL THE NEVADA GOP PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS: 20

DAYS UNTIL CANDIDATE FILING OPENS: 33

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 279

Good morning, everyone. In case you missed it, Donald Trump said on "Today" this AM that he wants to be more understated and more of a statesman. Shortely thereafter, he unleashed a Tweetstorm accusing Ted Cruz of fraud in Iowa and calling for a new election. I'm not kidding. Oh, and in case you missed it, Rand is out.

Tonight on "Ralston Live," we have Sunrun's Bryan Miller (taped yesterday, see below). Last night, we had Labor Secretary Tom Perez.

What's below: TV spending in WH race, Adelson News reveals itself, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Strip hotel rebranding.

COMING UP

Watch "Ralston Live" tonight to see some pretty remarkable statements from SunRun's Bryan Miller. Not only did he guarantee a lawsuit against the PUC for "breaking the law" if it does not reverse its entire net metering decision (not just the grandfathering part), but he called Gov. Brian Sandoval a liar and said the governor's undue political influence on the regulators will be the first line in his bio. It is something else, dear Flashees.

WHO'S SPENDING WHAT ON TV HERE?

Bernie is outspending Hillary on TV in Nevada, but she is catching up. And Marco is all in here. The details.

MORE OMINOUS DOINGS AT THE ADELSON NEWS

Yes, it's embarrassing to put a sports column about the Sheldon Raiders on Page One. But here's something more scary: I am reliably told that Alan Snel, who announced this week he is leaving the newspaper, wrote a strong story featuring critics of the stadium's public financing scheme and it was spiked. "I cannot really confirm or deny anything," Snel told me in a brief conversation Tuesday.

But one source with knowledge of what occurred told me the story was killed. Editor Glenn Cook did not respond to an inquiry, and my usual RJ peeps were silent, too.

So: Fluffy columns, reversed editorial positions, overplayed stuff in the newshole. Meet the Adelson News, dear Flashees.

A QUINTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Astrid Silva endorses Hillary today, along with other DREAMers. We. Matter.

Nugget No. 2 – Congressional candidate Lucy Flores keeps tweeting about her Sanderslove. But her latest campaign manager, Monica Perez, is a huge Hillary supporter and keeps tweeting about how wonderful she is. Awkward.

Nugget No. 3 – ICYMI, Catherine Cortez Masto and Joe Heck raised about the same last quarter, but Heck has a million dollars more on hand. Not insignificant, but not determinative.

Nugget No. 4 – The RCG jobs report has lots of good stuff.

Nugget No. 5 – Keep an eye on that adverse taxi regulatory audit and the companies fighting back. Owners considering legal action, hiring financial analysts to do audit of audit. Ugly.

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Megan Messerly on the Tom Perez visit.

Imagine this issue if there were a Reid-Sandoval race. Sigh.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Early Nevadans had a difficult time understanding or trusting the Asian population, which of course was comprised mostly of Chinese and Japanese immigrants. In early 1900s, in California, the growth of the Japanese population was viewed as a "problem" by many. Japanese immigrants moving to the United States for more opportunity were even buying land. The California legislature in January 1909 was considering anti-Japanese legislation. US President Theodore Roosevelt was against such legislation as bad for business and international relations. But, Nevada followed California's lead. On February 2, 1909 the Nevada State Legislature was considering Assembly Joint and Concurrent Resolution #1. In the final amended Resolution in the Nevada Assembly, the words remained harsh. Some Nevada legislators felt Japanese immigrants were agents of the Japanese Government sent to the US to acquire lands and therefor gain a foothold for some future takeover. The Resolution in its form on February 2, 1909 resonated genuine fear, and berated the Federal Government for interfering with the rights of the States. The considered Resolution included, "Whereas, agents of the Japanese Government are acquiring wheat and grain lands with which Nevada is so bounteously supplied…" This was right after the initial implementation of the Newlands Act through which irrigation was reclaiming arid lands. They may actually have believed that 1) the Japanese were coming to take over, and 2) than Nevada actually had lots of farmland. The considered Resolution referenced the "Japanese peril," "the Japanese invasion," and "the encroachment of the Japanese." When the Resolution mentions pending legislation in California, it refers to the Japanese, or at least the presumed Japanese agents, as "parasites of the world."

US President Theodore Roosevelt spoke to the US Senators representing the western States, including the US Senator for Nevada, George Nixon. Senator Nixon then sent a telegram to the Nevada Legislature on February 3, 1909. Though Nixon declined to include his own view of the alleged problem, he did express that after speaking with the President that passing such anti-Japanese legislation, though well intended, could bring unwanted results. Nixon said “the very object of the Resolution may be injured by radical action at this time.” The Nevada State Assembly passed the Resolution on February 3, 1909 by a vote of 44 for, 1 against, and 3 not voting. A telegram was sent to Senator Nixon advising him of the Assembly’s actions.

“… now is a better time than ever to lay down terms to that Empire and teach those arrogant people that American rights cannot be encroached on…” – proposed Assembly Joint and Concurrent Resolution #1 as amended February 2, 1909 for consideration by LegislatureFebruary 3, 1909.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

On this day in history, a Strip hotel re-opened as a nationally known brand, one perhaps most famous for its t-shirts. What hotel was it before it re-opened, and what was the new name?

Tuesday’s winner: NV Energy’s Tony Sanchez

The question: On this day in history, a letter arrived in one rural city from another. In it was a name that would become forever famous, ready to be printed for the first time. What name?

The answer: Mark Twain

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

From Showdowns To Hotlines, Frazzled Judges Get Creative

Using magistrate hotlines, “showdown” hearings and extra mediation, many courts with heavy dockets have pioneered methods for moving cases along. But not every program succeeds, and the techniques have their detractors. (This article is part of a series on the lack of new judgeships in the federal judiciary).

Carolyn-

Now that a new Administration is beginning to take shape, it's very likely that there will be an even higher mandate on detecting fraud and waste in government programs and systems across the board.

What will that look like? We're covering this – and a lot more – at our upcoming two-day forum on Fraud Analytics in Government January 30-31 that presents best practices on using existing government data streams and systems to detect and prevent fraud and improper payments.

We've got some outstanding speakers lined up at the event, including experts from USPS-OIG, Commerce, and Social Security Administration.

Can I get you an agenda?

Balance Billing for Out-of-Network Providers

Most out-of-network (OON) health care providers make critical mistakes that jeopardize their compliance with state and federal laws. Many providers tell patients they will accept any payment received from the patient's health plan as payment in full. This practice is risky and may invite accusations of ínsurance fraud – however, it is prevalent throughout the U.S.

A few of the cases where billing-related errors (overpayments, negligent misrepresentation, OON write-offs, and balance billing) ended in real legal nightmares are:

- Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. and Cigna v. Health Diagnostic Laboratory, Inc.—$84 Million dollars recovered
- Aetna v Health Diagnostics Laboratory—Sued for "tens of millions" of dollars
- Aetna v Bay Area Surgical Management (BASM)—Amount sought: $23 Million

What makes it worse is that HHS is actively waiting and watching to càtch you in case you backslide. However, all is not lost! Join expert speaker Thomas Force, Esq., to learn how OON providers and their revenue recovery staff can maintain compliance while collecting a fair amount of money from the patient's health plan. Thomas will also cover state laws related to balance billing requirements for OON providers.

Conference: The Balance Billing Requirement - Why Out-of-Network Providers Must Balance Bill Their Patients
Date: Thursday, December 14 (Available for all day)
Time: 60 minutes

Failure to balance bill patients can lead to large recoupment, audits, and litigation for ínsurance fraud. This training session will help you avoid common pitfalls and get answers to questions such as:

- Why is balance billing required in most jurisdictions?
- What are the exceptions to balance billing requirements?
- How to properly balance bill patients without offending or alienating them?
- How can your practice use ERISA to appeal denied and under-reimbursed claims for employer-sponsored plans?
- What is a recoupment and what to do when faced with one?
- What are the penalties for non-compliance with balance billing?

Session Highlights

This session will cover:

- Why OONs are required to balance bill and why it is ínsurance fraud if you don't
- The case of Ingenix's conflict of interest and how FAIR Health is reforming out-of-network reimbursement
- ERISA Pre-emption: What it means for providers located in states that restrict or prohibit balance billing
- Case studies of problematic billing and how they are noncompliant
- Patient protections under PPACA: Coverage for emergency services
- Industry insights on Medícare, TRICARE/CHAMPUS and balance billing

- The impact of New York's Emergency Medical Services and Surprise Bills Law
- How to write a patient-friendly balance bill letter, and consider the timing of the same
- The importance of a Charity Care Program/Financial Hardship policy
- The best practices: Transparency and disclosure
- The case laws: Cigna vs. Health Diagnostics, Aetna vs. Health Diagnostics Laboratory, and more PENSIONS: Does the Public Support Pension Reform?

Conventional wisdom suggests that while pension problems are likely to be a serious discussion in fiscal and budget committees in city halls and statehouses, substantive pension reform efforts will be given short-shrift, in part due to a lack of interest among the public on such a complex issue, as well as misinformation about the effects and political repercussions of reform. But what if the conventional wisdom is wrong? New polling suggests that it may indeed be. Not only does the public understand the importance of the issue, but there is also widespread support for reforms.

TRANSPORTATION: Reauthorization Recommendations for Congress

Approximately every six years, Congress reauthorizes U.S. surface transportation legislation, providing an opportunity to make changes and updates that affect millions of Americans. Reason Foundation has identified six programs or policies that need to be changed in the next reauthorization.
» Eliminate TIGER Grants
» Require Metropolitan Transportation Plans to Consider Congestion Reduction
» Add Taxpayer Protections to the Railroad Loan Program

» Eliminate Surface Transportation Funding for Non-federal Modes
» Simplify Conformity Regulations for Regional Transportation Plans
» Simplify DOT Regulations Regarding Metropolitan Transportation Planning

PRIVATIZATION: Pennsylvania House Passes Liquor Privatization Bill

For the second time since 2013, legislation that would privatize the sale and distribution of wine and distilled spirits in Pennsylvania has passed the House, which voted yesterday to approve House Bill 466 by a 114-87 margin. HB 466—sponsored by Speaker Mike Turzai—would privatize Pennsylvania's state wholesale wine and spirits monopoly, gradually close the hundreds of state-owned liquor stores, and create 1,200 private retail and distribution licenses for wine and spirits.

ENVIRONMENT: Repealing Plastic Bag Bans Good for Shoppers, Environment

A statewide plastic bag ban signed into law by California Gov. Jerry Brown won't come into force until after the voters have a say in November 2016. While Californians can be proud of their commitment to environmental protection, it has sometimes led to perverse results, and local efforts to ban lightweight plastic bags in is a case in point. As Reason Foundation vice president of research Julian Morris recently wrote in the Orange County Register , such bans have been sold on their supposed environmental merits, but almost certainly cause more emissions to the environment, increase the use of natural resources—including oil and water—and do little to reduce litter or marine pollution.

INNOVATORS IN ACTION: Reforming Public Safety Pensions in Tequesta, Florida

The latest installment of Reason Foundation's Innovators in Action interview series—which profiles innovative policymakers in their own words, highlighting good government efforts delivering real results and value for taxpayers—focuses on the Village of Tequesta, Florida's 2010 reforms to its public safety defined-benefit retirement plans. Village officials negotiated significant reforms to police and firefighter pensions in the collective bargaining process—including a full transition to a defined-contribution, 401(k)-style system for new police officers and a realignment of benefits for new firefighters entering their defined-benefit pension system—putting the plans on a path toward sustainability. I recently interviewed Tequesta Village Manager Michael Couzzo on the reforms enacted, the resulting benefits and more.

INFRASTRUCTURE: The Private Cure for Crumbling Waterway Infrastructure

The locks and dams on our nation's rivers are decaying and require billions in investment, but given our current fiscal condition, it is unlikely that the current or next administration will find the political will and support to fund the cost of rebuilding these assets. According to former Conrail executive William Newman, it doesn't have to be this way. In a new Reason Foundation article, Newman writes that given their economic value and potential attractiveness as commercial investments, the locks are a classic federal asset ripe for either: 1) privatization; 2) a long-term concession (lease) to private investor/operators; or 3) a public-private partnership, with preference in that order.

NEWS & NOTES

New Research on Public Pension Underfunding : The failure of many states to properly fund their pension systems has been a well documented reality over the past few years, and unfunded liabilities are estimated to be as high as $4 trillion. A little examined question is why policymakers have been so particularly bad at fulfilling their duty of making full annual required contributions to pension systems. Reason Foundation colleague Anthony Randazzo recently teamed up with USC political scientist Michael Thom to examine this question and found that there are various fiscal, political, and institutional factors at work, and no one-size-fits-all answer. Their results were recently released by the journal State and Local Government Review; the article is available here.

GAO Releases Latest Biennial High Risk List : Earlier this month, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) released the latest edition of its biennial High Risk List, identifying 32 federal activities with a high risk for waste, fraud, abuse or mismanagement, or are in need of reform. GAO added two new areas in this edition, covering information technology acquisitions and operations and veterans affairs health care, and it also introduced new star-shaped graphics to indicate degrees of progress in meeting five criteria for removing an area from the High Risk List, which include leadership commitment, agency capacity, an action plan, monitoring efforts, and demonstrated progress. Details on the list, a full report, and podcast are available on the GAO's High Risk List homepage.

A Fix for New Jersey Pension Mess? New Jersey's severely underfunded government employee pensions made national news this week in the wake of a Superior Court judge's ruling that Gov. Chris Christie's administration violated a 2011 pension reform law by cutting over $1.5 billion from the state's legally required pension contribution in this year's budget; the administration plans an appeal. The ruling came a day before Christie's annual budget address , in which he endorsed a "roadmap to reform" developed by the New Jersey Pension and Health Benefits Study Commission he appointed last year to develop comprehensive solutions for the state's looming pension and retiree healthcare crises.

Among other reforms, the Commission recommends freezing the state's current defined-benefit pension plans to any new accruals or employee contributions and shifting all current and future employees to a cash balance plan, which blends some aspects of defined-benefit pensions with features of a 401(k)-style defined-contribution plan. The Commission's full report and recommendations are available here.

Pennsylvania Gov. Wolf Creates Innovation Unit : On February 5th, new Pennsylvania Governor Tom Wolf signed Executive Order 2015-04 establishing a new Governor's Office of Transformation, Innovation, Management and Efficiency. The order calls for agency heads to solicit employee input and identify key staff to form innovation teams, enhances interagency coordination, and emphasizes public-private partnerships in order to find an immediate $150 million in cost savings to help close the Commonwealth's current $2.3 billion budget deficit. In addition to seeking internal cost savings ideas from employees, the new office will explore new opportunities to partner with the private sector and better leverage the state's collective buying and purchasing power. The executive order is available here.

Nearly Half of PA Municipalities Have Distressed Pension Plans: Earlier this month, the Pennsylvania Department of the Auditor General released a report finding that of the 1,223 municipal governments that administer pension plans, 562 of them (46%) administer plans that are "distressed" and underfunded by at least $7.7 billion. The aggregate unfunded liability is up $1 billion since the previous edition of the report was issued two years ago. Philadelphia topped the list of distressed municipalities with its $5.3 billion unfunded liability, followed by Pittsburgh at $484.6 million. The full report is available here.

New Report on Water PPPs: A new report from the Horinko Group provides a useful primer for local public officials on how different types of public-private partnerships (PPPs)—including management consulting contracts, operations and maintenance contracts, concessions/leases, and design-build-operate agreements—can be used to meet a local government's unique water and wastewater infrastructure needs. It includes discussions regarding ways to assess water/wastewater needs, selecting the best PPP model, and best practices in PPP implementation. The full report is available here.

Texas Pols Seek to Improve State Contracting: Shortly after taking office last month, new Texas Gov. Greg Abbott issued a memorandum endorsing contracting reform legislation—Senate Bill 353 , sponsored by Sen. Jane Nelson—aimed at improving transparency and accountability in the contracting process. Among its provisions, the bill would require public disclosure of all no-bid contracts (and a public justification for using them); require agency employees involved in contracting to disclose any possible conflicts of interest; prohibit contracts with firms in which agency leaders or staff have a financial interest; and require the agency's board chair or director to sign any contract valued over $1 million. The legislation comes in the wake of a January 2015 report from the Texas State Auditor's Office reviewing 14 contract audits conducted since 2012 that found that while state agencies generally complied with contract planning and contract formation requirements, they "did not consistently comply with contract procurement and contract monitoring requirements."

Georgia Social Infrastructure PPP Legislation Reintroduced: After coming close to passage in 2014, the Georgia General Assembly will again consider social infrastructure PPP enabling legislation in the 2015 session. The "Partnership for Public Facilities and Infrastructure Act" (Senate Bill 59), sponsored by Sen. Hunter Hill, would authorize state agencies, local governments, school boards and other governmental units to use PPPs to develop any infrastructure project on government-owned or leased land that serves a public purpose and would also create a Partnership for Public Facilities and Infrastructure Act Guidelines Committee to prepare model guidelines for governmental authorities to use in developing PPP projects. A very similar bill passed the Senate and the House Committee on Governmental Affairs in 2014 but failed to receive a vote in the full House. Hill has modified the 2014 legislation to address concerns raised over provisions related to unsolicited PPP proposals that private sector firms would be allowed to submit to state agencies, according to the Atlanta Business Chronicle.

Indiana to Contract Out License Plate Production: The Courier-Journal reported late last month that the state's Bureau of Motor Vehicles plans to end its contract with a company that employed maximum-security state prisoners to produce license plates, instead opting to shift production to a new vendor, Intellectual Technology Inc., in a contract estimated to save the state $14 million over five years.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

"Many economists disagree with GASB and argue that it is more appropriate to measure funding status of public pensions using a lower riskless rate of return analogous to the corporate bond rates used to discount private sector pensions, such as a long-term Treasury rate, instead of a higher expected long-run investment return on assets. They reason that there is an implicit public guarantee that assures public pensions will be paid regardless of investment returns, which makes it hazardous to determine funded status and make benefit promises based on anticipated investment returns that may not come to pass. In lay terms, they say using expected investment returns amounts to counting the chickens before they hatch."

—Christopher M. Klein, Chief Judge of the United States Bankruptcy Court, Eastern District of California, "Opinion Regarding Confirmation and Status of CalPERS," February 4, 2015, p.21.

"A funded ratio of 80% should not be used as a criterion for identifying a plan as being either in good financial health or poor financial health. No single level of funding should be identified as a defining line between a 'healthy' and an 'unhealthy' pension plan. All plans should have the objective of accumulating assets equal to 100% of a relevant pension obligation, unless reasons for a different target have been clearly identified and the consequences of that target are well understood."

—American Academy of Actuaries, "The 80% Pension Funding Standard Myth," Issue Brief, July 2012.

"Illinois' pension debt is so large that it would take three years of a complete government shutdown, during which the entire general fund went toward pensions, just to break even. That means no funding for schools, no money for public safety and nothing for health care and human services. [...] This $111 billion pension shortfall means the state has only 39 cents of every dollar it should have in the bank today to pay for future benefits. In the private sector, these funds would be deemed bankrupt."

—Benjamin VanMetre, "State of the State: 10 Pension Facts Every Illinoisan Should Known ," Illinois Policy Institute, February 3, 2015.

"If you cover current obligations by borrowing money, you're on an unstable course."

Hi Mr. Sanders:
Sadly I'm guessing you'll have to rely on the advice of your attorney. As my husband also was an owner of a vintage Rolls (purchased at a local auction), we soon learned that these old cars are bottomless pits and repairs, replacements are unending!! Remember the saying, "let the buyer beware," --- there is merit in that, too, as we have learned from experience.
I am copying in my office staff in hopes they might have some recourse for you to pursue beyond what I've commented upon above. Good luck to you both, and be sure to look at the half-full glass of your life and enjoy all the beauty you enjoy.
Good luck.

Subject: Asking for Advice

Dear Mayor Goodman:
My name is Eric Sanders & I live in Desert Shores. We met a few times when you came here & we also met your Husband, the former Mayor, when he came here.
The reason I am writing to you is that we have a problem, that you may be able to give us some advice about.
I am a young 77 years of age, & my wife and I decided to get something different for ourselves to celebrate our, then 21 years of marriage.(Valentines Day-2/14/2014). We decided to buy an older Rolls Royce Silver Shadow,1980), so we could have fun driving around in it.
So, we went down to a business, in Las Vegas, that dealt with & restored older Rolls. The place is called The Touring Shoppe, 3050 Sirius Ave., Las Vegas Nv. 89102. The owner is Wayne McMiniment.(He goes by an Alias Wayne Andre.)
After speaking with him initially, we showed us a car, on his premises, that, he said, had only 9000 miles on the odometer,(which he showed us), but was sitting in a garage for many years and needed only minor work done on the engine & some cosmetic work on the body.
Needless-to-say we liked the car. The total price to restore it to running condition would be $25,000.
He wanted a $15,000.00 deposit & he said the work would take a few months after he completed work on another car that his mechanic was working on before ours.
To make a long story short, it's now been over 2 years & we have kept all of the e-mails that have been sent to & from this man. It turns out that he had been arrested for investment fraud & stealing other people's money. Had we known this prior to dealing with him, we would have never given him the money.
The last e-mail he sent us was so nasty & full of foul language(we have copies) that we knew we were never going to see that car.
He has since shut down his computer & we are unable to e-mail him & demand our $15,000 deposit back. I would like to see this man put in jail for defrauding senior citizens & willfully & knowingly defrauding customers.
What can we do to get our money back & make sure he never does this anyone again?
Thanks for your assistance.
Hope you have wonderful holidays, coming up, & we look forward to seeing you again.
Best regards.
Eric & Maria Sanders

Everything the Out-of-Network Provider Needs to Know to Generate More Revenue for its Practice

Patients are increasingly seeking out-of-network (OON) services and since OON services offer a higher reimbursement rate at lower volumes, out-of-network represents a great opportuníty for many providers to increase their reimbursement. But remember, what has worked for you in the past is no longer effective in recovering revenue for your practice. You must contend with balance billing issues, lower patient volumes and legal standing issues. The climate for OON billing has changed and so must you!

Join expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., in this on-demand webinar “Everything the Out-of-Network Provider Needs to Know to Generate More Revenue for its Practice”, to get deeper insights on effective revenue recovery techniques for your out-of-network services. Get strategies to maximize recovery against health plans while ensuring that your patients pay their fair share of charges. Thomas will analyze and discuss in detail the procedures necessary to be successful as an OON provider—starting with scheduling and involving the entire revenue cyclé. In addition to this, you will receive instructions for revising patient forms, drafting appeals and balance bill letters, and steps necessary in holding the health plan accountable to the law.

Carolyn-

Now that a new Administration is beginning to take shape, it's very likely that there will be an even higher mandate on detecting fraud and waste in government programs and systems across the board.

What will that look like? We're covering this – and a lot more – at our upcoming two-day forum on Fraud Analytics in Government January 30-31 that presents best practices on using existing government data streams and systems to detect and prevent fraud and improper payments.

We've got some outstanding speakers lined up at the event, including experts from USPS-OIG, Commerce, and Social Security Administration.

Can I get you an agenda?

Subject: Federal litigation impacting OON Providers - Understanding balance Billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment

Ted Burton

Dear Colleague,

Recently Out of Network (OON) providers have been facing a slew of lawsuits from ínsurance companies for failure to balance bill and for indiscriminate fee forgiveness.

Some Facts:

- HCA Health* v. Aetna, it was held that ínsurance companies must establish a procedure for requesting waiver of co-ínsurance or co-payments, without which they cannot hold a healthcare service provider liable for waiving co-payments.
- North Cypress* v. *Cigna, it was held that the ínsurance plans of the patients must be interpreted as they are likely to be understood by an average plan participant.

Fee Forgiveness has provided practitioners and providers in the healthcare system an ability to attract more patients to them; however, the same has brought legal challenges and other complications to the practice. The best way to understand the strategies of insurers is to carefully monitor federal litigation. The motions and memoranda within these cases outline the various positions of the health plans on risk areas such as balance billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits. As an OON provider, you can't possibly hope to obtain proper reimbursement and remain compliant in the current climate without understanding relevant federal laws and cases interpreting these laws.

Join us for this On Demand Webinar (available all day)—"Update on Federal Litigation Affecting out of Network Providers", on Thursday, August 9, 2018, where expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., reviews these recent set of lawsuits with in-depth case studies to unearth what will work in Court and will not. This session will provide you the information that you need to ensure that your practice is compliant in balance billing, careful in fee-forgiveness, and prudent in documentation. You'll get all the guidance you need to avoid legal liabílity and improve profitability.

Session Highlights:

- Type of disclosures that must be provided by the OON provider to their patients prior to rendering of services.
- Written policies that must be in effect so as to assist the practice succeed against healthcare audits.
- The purpose of patient assignment and benefit forms.
- The impact of anti-assignment provisions in healthcare plan documents.
- The danger of not collecting call ínsurance, deductibles or otherwise balance billing out of network patients.

Session Agenda:

- Network Participation
  - In-network vs. Out-of-Network
  - Patient Cost Sharing
  - Balance Bill
- Best Practices
  - Transparency and Disclosure
  - Practice Management
- Case studies
  - Out-of-Network Reimbursement
  - Fee Forgiveness
  - Excessive Fees

- Assignment on Benefit Cases

Why Attend?

This session will help you learn strategies to avoid health plan audits and litigation based upon fee forgiveness and failure to balance bill patients. You will be provided disclosure and other patient forms, and practice policies which will assist you (out of network provider) to remain in compliance with state federal laws. You'll also get best practices for compliance.

Your registration includes:

- 1 AAPC CEU.
- Complímentary attendee package, including the speaker's complete presentation handouts.
- Additional handouts on cases studies. Keep this quick reference tool close by for future use!

Fed announces new payments research

The Federal Reserve today announced plans to conduct its sixth triennial study to determine the current aggregate volume and composition of electronic and check payments in the U.S. The study builds upon research begun by the Fed in 2001 to provide the public and the payments industry with estimates and trend information about the evolving nature of the nation's payments system. A public report containing initial topline estimates is expected to be published in December 2016.

"Over the 15-year life of the study, the survey instruments have been adapted and updated to keep pace with the dynamic change in the U.S. payments system," said Mary Kepler, senior vice-president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and the study's executive sponsor. "Not surprisingly, the 2016 study will incorporate a number of significant enhancements, including an expansion of fraud-related information and an increase in the number of depository and financial institutions sampled." Metro Chamber Legislative Day

Members of the Las Vegas Metro Chamber's Board of Trustees and Government Affairs Committee were in Carson City on Thursday to represent you in the halls of government. The Metro Chamber's volunteer leadership met with lawmakers and state government officials to advocate on behalf of Nevada's employers and business community for good public policies that will help them thrive. These meetings gave Metro Chamber leaders an opportunity to reinforce the pressing need for key reforms in the Metro Chamber's top priorities: K-12 reform and additional funding for education; tax reform; and funding for the UNLV School of Medicine.

The day concluded with the Legislative Reception, at which the state's key policy makers and business leaders mingled and discussed the proposals at the Legislature.

Senate Bill 252: Proposes a Restructuring of the Business License Fee

The Metro Chamber testified on SB 252, which lays out provisions for the Governor's Business License Fee, on Wednesday. During his testimony, Vice President of Government Affairs Paul Moradkhan applauded Governor Sandoval for his vision to propose significant education reform and for a plan to pay for it. Moradkhan emphasized the business community's commitment to the Governor's education initiatives, many of which have been long standing priorities for the Metro Chamber. Moradkhan also stressed the need for additional time and analysis of the proposal, and other plans that emerge, noting that the Metro Chamber is Nevada's largest and broadest business association with members who operate in every category of the Governor's proposed tax plan. In light of the significance of this and other tax plans, the Metro Chamber is taking adequate time to evaluate the specifics and how they will impact its members. The Metro Chamber believes that members deserve to know that any type of tax proposal is thoroughly vetted and the impacts a plan would have on businesses, job creation and the economy are understood. We will keep members up-to-date on these important discussions.

Assembly Bill 236:

Adopts Internet Engagement as a Formal State Policy

The Metro Chamber testified in support of AB 236, which adopts as a formal policy the use of the Internet to help promote public engagement with the state government. This bill would direct all state agencies to take advantage of tools like email, social media and online forums to help drive discussion and disseminate information about the functions, opportunities and engagement available to Nevadans at the state level. The Metro Chamber believes this bill will help modernize the way the state interfaces with its citizens and promote transparency across all levels of government by encouraging engagement and making information easily accessible.

Assembly Bill 300:

Creates a State Inspector General

The Metro Chamber offered its support to AB 300, which creates the Office of Inspector General in Nevada. This measure is intended to reduce fraud, waste and abuse at the state level by charging an individual to investigate and audit the state's departments and moves the currently existing Department of Internal Audits to the Inspector General's office. Increasing government oversight and reducing fraud and abuse is a longstanding public policy objective of the Metro

Chamber.

Senate Bill 157:

Institutes the State and Local Government Cooperation Act

The Metro Chamber supports SB 157, and testified before the Senate's Government Affairs Committee that its passage would be beneficial to the business community. The bill provides for specific measures that help facilitate effective communication between state and local governments, benefitting Nevadans by increasing coordination and cooperation between governing bodies. The bill also sets out several definitions to help provide consistent and predictable decision making mechanisms by local governments. This bill will help promote good governance at the state and local level, with employers and employees reaping the benefits of a communicating, coordinating government.

Senate Bill 213:

Creates Mechanisms to Track Federal Funding in the State

The Metro Chamber testified in support of SB 213, which is designed to help Nevada receive its fair share of federal dollars redistributed to the state. The legislation requires the chief of the state's budget division to maintain a database related to federal funds in Nevada and to conduct an annual report about the status of Nevada's federal funding and the mechanisms in place to distribute and administer those funds. The Metro Chamber believes this bill will help Nevada get its deserved return on federal tax dollars to help fund the essential services that the state provides.

Senate Bill 214:

Creates an Advisory Council on Federal Funding

The Metro Chamber appeared in support of SB 214, which creates an advisory council on federal funding. The council is intended to help government agencies maximize their ability to get a return on taxes paid to the federal government by Nevada. The council will evaluate, monitor and advise state and local agencies on how best to apply for and receive federal dollars to help fund their respective operations. The Metro Chamber believes this bill will help increase Nevada's return on federal tax dollars, which will help fund the essential services that the state provides.

Senate Bill 251:

Ratifies the Interstate Medical Licensure Compact

This bill ratifies the Interstate Medical Licensure Compact, making it easier for physicians licensed in other states to receive a license to practice medicine in Nevada. The compact also provides best practices across states for the licensure of physicians in Nevada. The Metro Chamber supports this bill because of the role it plays in helping attract a qualified medical workforce to the state, making it more efficient for doctors licensed in other states to relocate their practice to Nevada. This will improve the quality of life for Nevada's residents, create jobs and help grow the medical sector of our economy.

Senate Joint Resolution 13:

Proposes a Limit on Property Tax

The Metro Chamber testified as neutral on SJR 13, which proposes to limit the amount of real property that can be taxed to one percent of the base value of the property. If successful, this measure would amend the state constitution. The Metro Chamber believes property tax reform is an important component of tax policy this legislative session. The Metro Chamber will review this tax proposal and other tax plans as they emerge on behalf of the business community.

For questions or inquiries regarding the legislative session, please contact Paul Moradkhan, vice president of Government Affairs, at pmoradkhan@lvchamber.com or Justin Harrison, director of Government Affairs, at jharrison@lvchamber.com or 702.641.5822.

Metro Chamber Endorsements for Local Government Primary Elections

The Metro Chamber's endorsed candidates are selected by your fellow Chamber members on the Government Affairs Committee. They consider the candidates' understanding of business and fiscal issues, and their knowledge about how decisions in government may impact employers, employees and the economy.

By voting for Metro Chamber endorsed candidates, you will make an impact in electing individuals who know the key to a thriving economy begins with good public policies that support businesses like yours.

Early Voting is Saturday, March 21, through Friday, April 3, 2015.

Primary Election Day is April 7, 2015.

Hearing for Mathew Judge Harter in Velasco vs Velasco case: 01-06-16

Monique Velasco aka Monique Epperson

Scope: Domestic Violence. Motion filed to modify custody after 10 years from Primary of Mother to Primary of Father. Allegations of Domestic Violence in the home due to Mothers boyfriend. A Child interview was conducted.

Judge Harter order Claudia Schwarz to do a custody evaluation. She was the only one recommended by Judge Harter from the Outsource provider list. No other option was given.

Judge Harter ordered both of the parties to pay for the evaluation Ms. Velasco stated she could not pay. Judge Harter informed Mr. Velasco to pay in full and reduced her part to judgment.
There was no domestic violence reported in the child interview. Both children were not favorable toward Justin Day.

Ms. McKellar requested Sunday through Wednesday visitation. No custody change was made at this time. The current schedule is Monday and Tuesday for Mr. Velasco. There is no domestic violence case number re: Justin Day. Mr. Velasco has a documented domestic violence case number on the record against his current girlfriend.

Alcohol issues were alleged against Mr. Velasco and his live in girlfriend.
Justin Day did not live with Ms. Velasco. He had his own residence.

On Sundays, Ms. Velasco's father babysits. And both parties work 6-2.

Ms. Velasco requested for her $7,500 arrears in child support.

Hearing under Judge Harter Velasco vs Velasco Judge Holds Children Hostage 11-9-16

(Prior to this hearing on 10/04/16 Ms. Velasco filed a Motion for reconsideration, asking the Judge to review what he quoted on the record regarding the CPS records, as they were incorrect, and asked him if he made a mistake.

On 10/21/16 Filed for In Camera review of CPS records. On 11/2/16 an Emergency Motion for contact with children.)

Claudia Schwarz files a letter to the court on 11-3-16 recusing herself from the case. She states Ms. Velasco has harassed her and that Ms. Velasco is non-compliant with payments. C.P.S. records found: No NEGLECT, Unsubstantiated and case closed.

Judge Harter stated he requested Dr. Levy's report.

Judge Harter gave Ms. McKellar a copy of Dr. Levy's report.

Dr. Levy's report concluded that Ms. Velasco "does NOT meet the clinical criteria for alcohol use disorder".

Hearing Judge Harter Velasco vs Velasco Mandamus to disqualify Judge Harter for bias 1-31-17

On Dec. 5, 2016 Ms. Velasco files a Writ of Mandamus to disqualify Judge Harter for bias.
Ms. Velasco went 90 days without any incident.

Ms. Velasco have not had contact with her kids for 121 days.

Judge Harter states he had no intent of cutting off contact.

Judge Harter states it was because Ms. Velasco never followed through with the 2nd half of the custody evaluation.

He stated Donna Gosnell was $3,500, however, Ms. Velasco stated Donna Gosnell says she is $4500.

Judge Harter says Ms. Velasco is "minimizing what happened at the school."

Judge Harter states "he is not worried about her drinking and being with the kids"

Judge Harter states "right now, no safety issues as long as she is not with Justin Day"

Judge Harter states Claudia "will not finish it up until you pay the sums." Judge Harter offers Ms. Velasco to pay in full for a new custody evaluation with another evaluator. Ms. Velasco accuses Claudia Schwarz of "fraud upon the court".

Ms. Velasco refuses to go back to Claudia and Ms. McKellar suggests Dr. Leinket. Judge Harter orders Donna Gosnell. He states she is an LMFT and LADC. She will not start her evaluation until she gets paid. Judge Harter states there no mention of mental illness.

Ms. Velasco states "are you denying my rights to my children," Harter responds: "if that is the way you want to read it, it's in black or white"

15:05:45- Harter states if she passes scram and pays the initial retainer to Donna Gosnell, she will have to get some custody. Ms. McKellar responds with "at this point she wants a full mental evaluation." Two minutes after Harter states there is no mental illness. Judge Harter states her client would have to pay for the mental evaluation. Ms. McKellar states Claudia does MPI evaluations, which is why she selected her.

Ms. Velasco sent in a motion for the unredacted copy of the C.P.S. records. She asked Judge Harter to get them, after he read off of the CPS report in the previous hearing. Judge Harter states "he does not get a copy of the unredacted copy".

Judge Harter confirms he realizes Ms. Velasco is no longer with Justin Day.

Mr. Schneider states: "Mr. Day is working with Mr. Velasco and both parties are working in concert with each other against Ms. Velasco"

Mr. Schneider states "why is there a custody evaluation when the matter doesn't even exist".

Mr. Schneider argues "Father is texting Ms. Velasco saying she is going in for a psychological evaluation Mr. Velasco has already set it up that Mrs. Velasco is crazy and going in for a psych evaluation"

Hearing Judge Harter Velasco vs Velasco Judge apologizes for misreading C.P.S. Report Part 2: 01/31/2017

Ms. Velasco is required to have an App on her phone that doesn't allow her to text and drive.

Hearing Judge Harter Velasco vs Velasco Evidence Suppressed 6/7/17

The most important item is that the judge committed perjury for the second time. He stated 3 times on the record that Donna Gosnells recommendation states "no

15:33:45: Judge Harter apologizes to Ms. Velasco and reads the CPS report as such: "not because she is drunk but because she looks at her cell phone when driving"

Judge Harter then proceeds to file a minute order indicating such, but in the minute order states it was the Child Interview and not the CPS records.

Mr. Schneider argues this case has "Justin Day written all over it" He asked for a court order that neither parent exposes the children to Justin Day. Ms. McKellar argued that no one can tell her client who he can hang out with.

McKellar states there is already an order for no contact with Justin 15: 41:40. Judge Harter confirmed. Mr. Schneider asked to have it reiterated and reduce it to writing. Ms. McKellar argues for supervised visit.

Judge Harter rules that Ms. Velasco does not need supervised visits and grants Wednesday after school until Friday morning visitation for Ms. Velasco.

Judge Harter states Ms. Velasco hasn't had any contact because it was based on what the children wanted and the accusations of domestic violence, not because of alcohol.

Mr. Schneider argues the two fathers are colluding against her. Judge Harter says "it's not the first time this has happened in here" Judge Harter gives Donna Gosnell the power to recommend whatever she wants. He is going to go by her recommendation. No contact with her children until Donna Gosnell recommends she can. No phone contact until Donna recommends it.

Mr. Schneider argues, Justin Day and Mr. Velasco are still hanging out together and the kids are still there. Judge Harter's response: "It's funny how that works out" "She wants a double edge sword type of thing" contact". And it doesn't state that. It says, no visitation pending a psych evaluation. It is not the same thing. He did that to protect Mandy since she gave no contact. And he also suppressed evidence by not submitting Dr Levy's report to the court. Patricia filed it for the second time, & it wasn't on the minute order.

Boyd Briefs

March 15, 2019

[redacted]

From Dean Dan

This week, the UNLV William S. Boyd School of Law was ranked 58th out of 192 accredited law schools in US News & World Report's 2020 annual list of best graduate and professional schools. This is our highest ranking ever, and the law school has moved 25 points in the last four years. We are particularly delighted that our Lawyering Process program was again ranked first in the nation and our Saltman Center for Dispute Resolution jumped five spots rising to fifth nationally. I invite you to read our press release here. While we are always excited to see our programs nationally recognized, our focus remains on building a great law school that serves our students and our community.

I want to thank Professor Anne Traum, the Ninth Judicial Circuit Historical Society and the Federal Bar Association who this week brought a terrific panel to Boyd on Women in the Law, Going First and Going Forward: Nevada. The panelists were Judge Johnnie Rawlinson of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit; Judge Gloria Navarro, the Chief Judge of the District Court; Franny Forsman, former Federal Public Defender; and Becky Harris, former Chair of the Nevada Gaming Control Board and former Nevada State Senator. We reconvened in the afternoon, where Judge Rawlinson, Judge Jay Bybee of the Ninth Circuit, Court of Appeals staff, and UNLV Law faculty helped our students hone their federal appellate practice and advocacy skills.

Best,

Dan

Faculty Spotlight: Stacey A. Tovino

Stacey Tovino, JD, PhD, is the Judge Jack and Lulu Lehman Professor of Law at Boyd.

What are you are working on right now?

I just placed my latest article, "Going Rogue: Mobile Research Applications and the Right to Privacy," in the Notre Dame Law Review. This article assesses the ability of state law to respond to the privacy and security issues raised by mobile application-mediated health research conducted by independent scientists, citizen scientists, and patient researchers. Finding that all fifty-one jurisdictions have at least one potentially applicable data breach notification law, thirty-six jurisdictions have at least one potentially applicable data security law, and fourteen jurisdictions have at least one potentially applicable data privacy law, "Going Rogue" proposes textual amendments to these laws. If adopted, these amendments will help create cross-industry privacy and security protections designed to keep pace with health-related big data.

What is one of the most significant issues facing the field of health law and how should it be addressed?

The opioid crisis combined with new legislation in the area of mental health is increasing the demand for lawyers with mental health law expertise. Historically, mental health lawyers focused on issues in criminal law, including the insanity defense, as well as constitutional-based civil law issues, including involuntary commitment. In addition to these important areas of law, mental health lawyers now need expertise in the evolving fields of mental health parity law, mandated mental health benefit law, opioid prescription regulation, mental health care fraud and abuse, regulation of referrals to sober living homes, mental health patient privacy, drug and alcohol treatment record confidentiality, mergers and acquisitions involving mental health care institutions, and Medicare and Medicaid coverage of inpatient and outpatient substance use disorder treatments and services, including tele-mental health. I just completed a book proposal that covers all of these topics and more. My goal is to prepare students for the growing career opportunities in this area.

Student Spotlight: David Chavez

Tell our readers about your path to becoming principal violist for the Henderson Symphony Orchestra.

In the summer before the final year of my undergraduate studies I was still seriously considering pursuing a master's degree in music. My orchestra director here at UNLV—Professor Taras Krysa—was the musical director of the Henderson Symphony Orchestra, and he encouraged me to apply. I was thrilled when I won the audition. The HSO programs a lot of bold repertoire that you don't often get to perform at a university-level orchestra. I know that the discipline that it required has made me a better leader and law student.

How has Huellas (the mentorship program run by La Voz, Boyd's Latino law student association) shaped your path to and through law school?

I joined the Huellas program during my undergraduate studies. I was lucky enough to have been paired with Judge Bill Gonzalez at the family court. As a person of color, it's very encouraging to get to meet and interact with someone who shares your background and who has found success in a path that you want to pursue.

What are your plans following graduation in May and the bar exam in July?

I'm very excited to have accepted an offer to join Bailey Kennedy. They have been very supportive of my desire to clerk, so I am still pursuing a couple opportunities on that front.

So returning to the initial subject, which musical piece is your favorite to perform?

I love performing "Sonata for Viola and Piano" by Dmitri Shostakovich. He lived a very difficult life in Soviet Russia and wrote the piece on his deathbed. It's full of themes relating to death, fear, and regret. It's a somber but powerful piece of music that I always go back to.

Alumni Spotlight: Caroline Bateman '10

Caroline Bateman is the First Assistant Attorney General in Nevada's Office of the Attorney General.

Tell us about your legal career path and what you enjoy most about your current role?

After law school, I joined the Clark County District Attorney's Office. I served first as an appellate law clerk; and later, as a Deputy District Attorney. I gained incredible courtroom experience while prosecuting all varieties of criminal cases including murders, sexual assaults, and armed robberies. I am incredibly fortunate to have started my legal career at an office of attorneys whose dedication to public service and justice is unmatched.

In 2015, I left the County and joined the Nevada Office of the Attorney General. I currently serve as the First Assistant Attorney General. I supervise approximately 90 attorneys in representing the State's agencies, departments, and officials. The part of this role that I most enjoy (but simultaneously provides the most stress) is the variety of issues that confront me every day. From fighting the transport of nuclear materials into Nevada; to administratively prosecuting professional boxers and MMA fighters for anti-doping violations; to reviewing State contracts, every day provides new challenges that keep me on my toes.

What are nuggets of advice you would give a recent Boyd Law graduate or current student?

The best advice that I received, and now share (with credit going to the incredible Professor Pollman), is to never shut out a possible career path. In law school, every class I took and every externship I performed was geared toward becoming a prosecutor. I never imagined that I would become primarily a civil matter and regulatory attorney (With the clarity of 20/20 hindsight, taking that business organizations or water law class would have been incredibly helpful!). However, making the jump from the DA's office to the AG's office was the best career move that I could have made. I encourage everyone to keep your options open-- you never know where your strengths really lie.

For current Boyd students, do not get discouraged if you find yourself struggling in classes or with exams. While a class may frustrate you now, you may excel in that area once you get into practice. Outworking others goes much further than relying on sheer talent in becoming a successful attorney. Also, take the time to form meaningful relationships with your classmates. Their support will get you through law school, the bar exam, and your life as an attorney.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Expect Enforcement Continuity At FTC After Brill Leaves

Commissioner Julie Brill's departure from the Federal Trade Commission, which leaves the FTC with only three commissioners, will likely not affect the outcome of votes on antitrust or consumer protection enforcement actions in most major cases, but it may have an impact at the margins, in particular with regard to the relief demanded by the commission in consent decrees, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter LLP.

Without Compromise, ACA Contraceptive Row May End In Tie

Though a relatively small percentage of employers will be affected by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Zubik v. Burwell, the stakes are high for those it will reach. And following Tuesday's order for supplemental briefs focused on proposing a compromise, it's likely the case could result in a 4-4 tie if no solution is reached, says Debra Friedman at Cozen O'Connor PC.

How Employers Can Successfully Challenge Agency Guidance

In terms of employer requirements, many agency interpretations follow the applicable statute or regulation closely. However, several recent cases demonstrate that an agency's interpretation can be successfully challenged, especially when it has recently changed a previous interpretation or has rendered an interpretation of a new issue, says Daniel Davis, a special labor and employment law counsel at Proskauer Rose LLP.

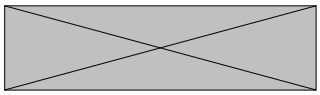
Join Banking Exchange and LifeLock on November 19 at 2:00 pm EST | 11:00 am PST for the webinar Protecting Vulnerable Populations from Identity Fraud: Today and Tomorrow.

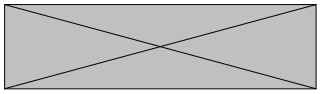
Identity fraud affected almost 13 million Americans last year, yet not all Americans are affected equally. In a recent research study sponsored by LifeLock, Javelin explored the impact of identity fraud on students, seniors and military personnel and how fraudsters are using different techniques to attack these vulnerable populations. Each of these consumer segments has a different set of behaviors that cause them to be targets of account fraud. Register for this complimentary webinar >

This webinar will examine:

- What behaviors and activities place students, military and seniors at higher risk of identity fraud
- The outlook for fraud targets over the next few years and how it will impact these consumer segments
- Strategies for how banks can help protect customers and employees



This webinar is brought to you by:



Date: Thursday, November 19, 2015

Time: 2:00 pm EST | 11:00 am PST

How Will High Court Rule On IPR? Clues In A Thomas Dissent

The U.S. Supreme Court is highly likely to find inter partes reviews constitutional in Oil States. The strongest indication lies in Justice Clarence Thomas' 2015 dissent in B&B Hardware — a case that has received no substantive discussion in the hundreds of pages of briefing filed thus far, says Kayvan Noroozi, principal at Noroozi PC and CEO of Koios Pharmaceuticals LLC. Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Subject: Federal litigation impacting OON Providers — Understanding balance Billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits

Dear colleague,

Out of Network (OON) providers have been facing a slew of lawsuits from ínsurance companies for failure to balance bill and for indiscriminate fee forgiveness.

Some Facts:

- HCA Health* v. Aetna, it was held that ínsurance companies must establish a procedure for requesting waiver of co-ínsurance or co-payments, without which they cannot hold a healthcare service provider liable for waiving co-payments.
- North Cypress* v. *Cigna, it was held that the ínsurance plans of the patients must be interpreted as they are likely to be understood by an average plan participant.

Fee Forgiveness has provided practitioners and providers in the healthcare system an ability to attract more patients to them; however, the same has brought legal challenges and other complications to the practice. The best way to understand the strategies of insurers is to carefully monitor federal litigation. The motions and memoranda within these cases outline the various positions of the health plans on risk areas such as balance billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits. As an OON provider, you can't possibly hope to obtain proper reimbursement and remain compliant in the current climate without understanding relevant federal laws and cases interpreting these laws.

Join us for this On Demand Webinar (available all day)—"Update on Federal Litigation Affecting out of Network Providers", on Friday, February 23, 2018, where expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., reviews these recent set of lawsuits with in-depth case studies to unearth what will not. Out-of-network providers have been battling it out with well-known insurers like Cigna and Aetna – there's a lot you can learn from examining the decisions of these lawsuits. This session provides detailed case studies on these lawsuits and examines the decisions on balance billing, fee forgiveness and excessive fees – information that you need to ensure that your practice is compliant in balance billing, careful in fee-forgiveness, and prudent in documentation. You'll get all the guidance you need to avoid legal liabílity and improve profitability.

Session Highlights:

- Type of disclosures that must be provided by the OON provider to their patients prior to rendering of services.
- Written policies that must be in effect so as to assist the practice succeed against healthcare audits.
- The purpose of patient assignment and benefit forms.
- The impact of anti-assignment provisions in healthcare plan documents.
- The danger of not collecting call ínsurance, deductibles or otherwise balance billing out of network patients.

Session Agenda:

- Network Participation

DAYS UNTIL THE STATE GOVERNMENT SHUTDOWN: 131

DAYS UNTIL THE NEVADA PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS (FOR NOW): 352

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 ELECTION: 629

Good morning, everyone. Sorry I'm a little late today. It's the beautiful Northern Nevada weather. It just induces me to want to sleep a little later. How's that for an excuse?

It's the end of the third week of the Legislature today, and I have never been up here for this much during the beginning. Yesterday was the first day I have been here that it seemed even remotely slow, although a late-day hearing on tax abatements went for hours and featured a packed, large hearing room. The pace is real, and we all better pace ourselves. Maybe it will be over on the 100th day. Yes, maybe.

What's below: General speaks, Harry's boomerang and a trivia question about a groundbreaking near Vegas.

COMING UP

Construction defects probably gets out of the Senate today. It's the end of Week 3. It seems like the end of Week 23. The Sun's Eli Segall looked at the issue.

A GENERAL DISCUSSION

General Adam Laxalt chatted on KNPR on Thursday about his brief but eventful time. When asked about details of how President Obama's executive action was different from past presidents, Laxalt clearly had no clue. "Rather than go into the details…." He began. When asked to by host Dave Becker, he could not provide anything but rhetoric and quotes from POTUS, which was very revealing and made it clear how political this was.

"He clearly is changing the law," Laxalt averred, referring to the president. Oh?

The best part came when Becker asked Laxalt if he had talked to the governor before filing. "Our staffs communicated on this, and that's really all I am going to say about it…Ultimately this really is an attorney general's decision.

Laxalt refused to get into the details, citing attorney-client confidentiality.

"Did you discuss the issue with him before joining the suit?" Becker asked.

"I'm not going to say any more about that," Laxalt replied.

Let me help: No. He did not. Which still amazes.

Becker then pivoted to voter ID: "I've not had any opportunity to review that law," Laxalt said. Then added, "I'm just sticking in my lane."

You know, like coming out against the governor's tax plan.

Then, Laxalt got out of his lane: “In general, I support voter ID. I don’t have any problem with voter ID.”

But, he added, that’s just his personal opinion. Good to know.

And then: “Nothing has come to my attention” on problems with voter fraud. “I am just going to stick in my lane,” he repeated, shortly after leaving it, saying voter ID is “not on my radar.”

By the way, a good way to discern if someone is just being a GOP partisan is when someone, as Laxalt did, says Obama is a “Democrat president.” FYI, General, the name of the party is The Democratic Party.

Finally, the General was asked a question about prevailing wage, which he dodged by saying AG is a “nonpartisan job,” he used the “sticking in my lane” line again and said he would “stay out of political fights.”

Like immigration. Or, um, taxes.

DEMOCRATIC BLOWBACK ON HARRY’S ADDICITON TO THE KOCHS

During the 2014 election, then-Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid frequently took to the floor to attack the Koch Brothers. It was seemingly pointless, but, his advocates whispered, it’s a way to motivate the base. And now, after the disaster in November, the recriminations begin.

Ana Ley on an interesting bill that failed Assembly candidate Lisa Krasner does not understand .

Oh, Henderson.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Most train derailment accidents are caused by either damaged railway track or a mechanical failure of a component of the wheel assembly. In the 19th century and early 20th century, there were numerous derailments in Nevada. Most were not eventful, causing delays to transportation along the line. Sometimes the derailment accidents were a little more serious. OnFebruary 20, 1911, late in the evening, the eastbound Southern Pacific passenger train No. 10 encountered a broken rail near Palisade, NV. 22 passengers were injured in the wreck which sent the day coach and two tourist sleeper cars down a 30 foot embankment. Some of the injuries were serious, but none were immediately fatal. In all seven of the eight passenger cars were derailed. The derailed cars did not quite reach the Humboldt River. One of the injured was Conductor J A Knowles of Sparks, NV. The baggage and mail cars remained on the track. Doctors and nurses were sent on a relief train from nearby Carlin, NV. The injured were taken to hospital in Elko, NV. Because of the challenging route near Palisade, the train was traveling at a slower than normal rate of speed, otherwise, the derailment might have been more damaging.

The Atomic Energy Museum officially opened at 755 East Flamingo in Las Vegas, NV (Paradise, NV), on the Desert Research Institute campus, onFebruary 20, 2005, operated by the non-profit Nevada Test Site Historical Foundation. The Nevada Test Site, now called the Nevada National Security Site, is the primary focus of the Atomic Energy Museum, from the first test in January 1951 to the present day. The Nevada Test Site is located about 65 miles northwest of the Las Vegas valley. In late 2011, US Senator for Nevada, Harry Reid, and US Representative for Nevada, Joe Heck, were instrumental in securing an elevated designation for the Atomic Energy Museum. Included in the Defense Authorization Act signed by President Obama on December 31, 2011, included a section establishing an affiliation for the museum with the Smithsonian Institute. In 2012, the museum was renamed the National Atomic Energy Museum. As of 2012, 36 museums across the country had received a “National” designation. The National Atomic Testing Museum is the only museum in Nevada that can be called “National.”

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

On this date in history a groundbreaking ceremony was held just west of Las Vegas and four members of the congressional delegation were in attendance. What was it, and who were the four?

Thursday’s winner: UNR’s Bob Dickens

The question: Another quote of the day from this day – who said it and where and fill in the blank: “I can personally attest that ____ is one of the toughest people I know."

The answer: President Obama, Harry Reid.

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Name the actor and the movies: He played a future U.S. senator; he plays a guy whose face is scarred by a run-in with the movie’s hero; he plays a crazed general; he plays a TV show Svengali.

Lora,

Greetings, my name is Jonathan Cooper and I am the DDA assigned this case. I wanted to send the below Email to Mayor Goodman but I do not have her E-mail address. Can you please forward the below email to her for me.

Thank you !

Mayor Goodman:

Last week, Mr. Meeks attorney reached out to me in an attempt to resolve this case short of going to trial. Some of the suggestions that his attorney made were very reasonable. However, I first wanted to discuss possible resolutions with you before I agreed to any. Out of the few negotiations we discussed the most favorable to our position is below.

Offer
Pled Guilty to Count 1 (Forgery- D Felony punishable by 1-4 years)
Standard bail after entry of plea ($3,000.00)
State will argue facts of the case but not recommend a punishment
Pay Full Restitution

As you know, the Defendant is charged with 2 Counts of forgery. In essence, he will be pleading guilty to the "lead charge". Further, even if he was convicted of both counts at trial it is likely that the sentencing judge would run the counts concurrent. So, in my opinion under this negotiation we lose little if any leverage at sentencing. Another benefit of this negotiation is that I would not need you to come to court and testify which I know can be a scheduling nightmare.

Please let me know your thoughts. I am also available to answer any questions you may have regarding the case or the possible negotiation.

Subject: OIG Work Plan 2018: What Lies Ahead?

Ted Burton

Dear colleague,

Do you know how to get prepared for compliance with OIG work plan issues and the associated audit issues?

The OIG work plan is the most important compliance blueprints for healthcare providers and organizations. It lays out the audits, evaluations and other projects for the Centers for Medícare & Medicaíd Services (CMS) and others that the HHS Office of Inspector General plans to conduct in the year ahead. If you understand the OIG's work plan, you will know where to focus your attention when it comes to fraud and investigative activities of the federal government, and you can níp problems in the bud and avoid expensive and time-consuming audits.

Join us for this 90-minute LIVE Audio Conference--"OIG Work Plan: Trends, Reports and Issues for 2018" with expert speaker Duane C. Abbey, Ph.D., on Tuesday, November 28, 2017 at 1 pm ET, for a review of the current and 2018 OIG work plan issues for hospitals, clinics and other health care providers with particular emphasis on codíng, billing and reimbursement. Duane will address upcoming work plan issues in the context of those from FY2013 through FY2017, taking into account that the work plan is now updated monthly. The session will discuss pertinent reports issued by OIG, particularly in relation to established issues that the OIG is interested in.

Duane will also address associated RAC issues relative to current and anticipated trends and focus on identifying key issues in the context of internal and external auditing to make certain that providers can properly address any OIG and RAC issues. The session concentrates mainly on issues that involve hospitals and facilities but will also address physícian concerns involving hospitals.

Session Highlights

- What are OIG work plans?
- What kind of reports are issued relative to these work plan issues
- How the OIG studies are connected to the RACs and other federal auditing entities
- Why hospitals and other healthcare providers need to be concerned
- OIG reports and recommendations
- Why these work plans get longer and more involved each year
- Whether CMS always follows the OIG recommendations
- Why there is such as emphasis on codíng, billing and the False Claims Act
- Emerging trends, over the years, in the issues that OIG work plans address
- Trends in issuance of the work plans over the past several years
- Where work plans and reports issued relative to the identified issues are accessed
- What kinds of resources the OIG has
- When the OIG work plan is issued each year
- Does the OIG issue rule changes through the Federal Register

Session Agenda

- Review the OIG publications
  - Issuance of work plans
  - Issuance of reports relative to the work plans
  - Specíal reports

    - Corporate integrity agreements (CIAs)
- Review the RAC process
    - Development and identification of issues
    - Gaining approval for issues

EPA Faces Final Shots Over Air Pollution Rule Compliance

Challengers of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's rule incorporating its Cross-State Air Pollution Rule into its regional haze regulations took their final swings in the D.C. Circuit Monday, with environmentalists blasting compliance workarounds for coal-fired power plants and states and industry groups criticizing the agency's elimination of previous haze plans.

DC Circ. Nixes Challenge To EPA's Sewage Rule Approach

The D.C. Circuit said Tuesday that it can't hear an industry coalition's challenge to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's decision to apply the Eighth Circuit's finding that the agency improperly crafted water pollution rules only to states in that circuit court's jurisdiction.

Texas Senate Panel Advances Bill To End Wrongful Birth Suits

A Texas Senate committee on Monday signed off on a bill that would bar so-called wrongful birth actions against doctors accused of failing to warn parents about potential birth defects and genetic disorders, sending the proposal to the full Senate.

REAL ESTATE

NJ City's Stance On Riverfront Project Faces Skepticism

A New Jersey state appeals court raised doubts Tuesday about claims that the planning board in Hoboken, New Jersey, could not hear a developer's application for two high-rise residential buildings along the Hudson River because the city was suing the builder over the proposal.

EMPLOYMENT

Unions Ask To Defend OSHA Rule In Case Trump DOL Won't

The AFL-CIO and the United Steelworkers asked a Texas federal judge Monday to allow them to defend an anti-retaliation provision in the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's injury and reporting rule from a challenge by business groups, saying they need to intervene in case the Trump administration abandons its defense of the rule.

Missouri Supreme Court Affirms St. Louis Minimum Wage Hike

The Missouri Supreme Court on Tuesday upheld a minimum wage law passed by the City of St. Louis that hikes the city's minimum wage to $11 per hour by 2018, holding that the ordinance is not preempted by the state's minimum wage law.

Former USC Football Player Defends FLSA Class Action

A former University of Southern California football player urged the Northern District of California on Monday not to toss his proposed class action seeking wages and overtime pay for Division I Football Bowl Subdivision players, saying the economic realities of the multibillion-dollar business show that the class deserves pay.

Pension Bill Falters, 'Grand Bargain' Moves Forward In Ill.

Illinois state senators moved several key pieces of legislation forward on Tuesday, approving four bills in a larger so-called "grand bargain" package aimed at ending Illinois' historic 20-month budget impasse, yet with an overhaul to the state's pension system falling short of the necessary votes.

COMPETITION

Ex-Prisoners' MP3 Player Antitrust Suit Tossed

A Michigan federal judge on Tuesday dismissed a proposed class action by former prisoners alleging Advanced Technologies Group LLC and SanDisk LLC broke antitrust laws in their sale of MP3 players to former inmates, saying they lacked standing because their alleged injuries resulted from government action.

The Electronic Privacy Information Center on Tuesday doubled down on its challenge to the Federal Aviation Administration's failure to address privacy risks in a final rule for commercial drone use, telling the D.C. Circuit that the exclusion contradicted congressional intent and the agency's own acknowledgment of importance of these issues.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

Azevedo Tapped For 2nd Run As WTO Boss

The General Council of the World Trade Organization on Tuesday appointed Roberto Azevedo to a second term as director-general of the organization, extending the Brazilian diplomat's tenure amid a wave of anti-globalization sentiment that stands at odds with the organization's mandate to eliminate barriers to international trade.

EU Court Rejects Bid To Nix Tariffs On Chinese Solar Panels

The General Court of the European Union Tuesday upheld anti-dumping duties imposed by the 28-nation bloc against Chinese solar panels, rejecting claims by 26 companies subject to the measures that the EU improperly measured the "normal value" of the products.

TAX

Miss. Use Tax Bill For Remote Retailers Dies In Senate

A Mississippi bill to force out-of-state retailers to remit use tax, in direct defiance of a controversial U.S. Supreme Court ruling, died in the state Senate on Tuesday, one day after Lt. Gov. Tate Reeves labeled the measure unconstitutional.

IMMIGRATION

ACLU Raises Alarm Over New Privacy Change For Immigrants

The ACLU fired off a letter to the White House on Tuesday decrying an executive order provision directing agencies to make sure their privacy policies bar people who aren't citizens or green card holders from certain protections, warning the administration of an "implementation nightmare."

9th Circ. Stays Ruling On Detained Immigrant Kids

The Ninth Circuit has blocked a California district court decision ordering the federal government to provide bond hearings for unaccompanied immigrant children detained by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, pending an appeal that has yet to be filed.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

FCC's Pai Backs Internet Without 'Utility-Style' Regs

Federal Communications Commission Chairman Ajit Pai on Tuesday rejected the "utility-style" regulation slapped onto broadband under the Obama administration and said that his FCC will "preserve a free and open internet" and push to make way for fifth-generation technology.

Industry Groups Push Congress On Broadband Infrastructure

Several broadband industry groups on Monday encouraged congressional leaders to support efforts to ensure that all Americans have access to advanced internet technology, arguing in a letter that the benefits of faster access should not be limited only to certain segments of the country.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

How The Courts Review Executive Orders

The cases challenging President Donald Trump's executive orders fit within the established legal framework that limits, but does not preclude, judicial review of such orders, says Steven Gordon of Holland & Knight LLP.

Cutting Labeling Regs May Harm Companies' Bottom Lines

President Donald Trump recently signed an executive order on reducing regulations, with the goal of creating a less burdensome, lower-cost regulatory environment for businesses. However, some federal regulations — for example, those related to food labeling — can actually smooth the operation of nationwide consumer products businesses, and aid the expansion of smaller companies into additional markets, says Jill Hutchison of Jenner & Block LLP.

Complying With Expanded Access Policy Drug Laws

Section 3032 of the 21st Century Cures Act details the act's expanded access policy, which requires manufacturers and distributors to publicly declare their policies regarding investigational drugs' availability for expanded access. Such policies may have negative repercussions, so companies must carefully weigh several considerations when deciding how to comply, say attorneys with Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati PC.

FDA Finally Addresses Interchangeable Biosimilars

In the six years since Congress passed the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has issued a number of guidances addressing the standards for establishing biosimilarity. But now we have the first FDA guidance addressing the higher standard for interchangeability, say attorneys with Mayer Brown LLP.

Does The NLRA Protect Racist Insults By Picketing Workers?

Cooper Tire & Rubber Company v. National Labor Relations Board, a case currently under consideration in the Eighth Circuit, will determine whether the NLRB correctly ruled that racist insults hurled at replacement workers by a striking employee remain protected conduct. The facts show an intriguing sacrifice of race relations by the NLRB at the altar of protecting striking workers, says Tim Garrett of Bass Berry & Sims PLC.

Toys R Us snags Dow Corning's GC, Amazon-owned Audible.com's GC moves to SoundCloud and Anglo American lands the former co-head of Shearman & Sterling's mining group. They top the in-house moves you should know about.

O'Melveny & Myers Caps 2016 With 5% Revenue Growth

O'Melveny & Myers LLP saw its gross revenue rise 5.3 percent to $725 million in 2016 and its partners experienced double digit percentage gains in profit for the second year in a row, the firm announced on Tuesday.

Dewey's DiCarmine Gets Star Witness's Plea Docs

Lawyers for former Dewey & LeBoeuf LLP executive Stephen DiCarmine got their hands on documents surrounding the plea deal of the government's star witness, the firm's former finance director, as the second Dewey fraud trial remained paused Tuesday.

ABA Adds Cyber Coverage To Atty Insurance Offerings

The American Bar Association announced on Tuesday it is adding cybersecurity to its list of insurance offerings for attorneys and law firms, providing coverage for data breach liability and protection against possible network threats.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

New Class Action Bill's Impact On Employment Cases

Last week, the U.S. House of Representatives passed the so-called “Fairness in Class Action Litigation Act” with the purpose of assuring "fair and prompt recoveries for class members” and diminishing "abuses in class litigation.” In reality, the bill would make it harder for employees to join together to demand lawful treatment and reimbursement of unpaid wages, say William Jhaveri-Weeks and Raymond Wendell of Goldstein Borgen Dardarian & Ho.

Subject: AG for a Day Southern Tour with AG Laxalt

Mayor Goodman,

The AG, accompanied by members of his staff representing different divisions in his office, will be traveling to the south beginning on September 19th as part of his "AG for a Day" tour. The tour is designed to take the Attorney General's Office directly to the people of Nevada's communities and discuss the services we offer. The office will collectively present on topics including open government, trends in consumer fraud, domestic violence, guardianships and elder abuse and free legal services for the military. After the presentation portion, there will be an opportunity for locals to ask questions and interact with members of the office.

Attached is a flyer that details each of the stops on the southern tour as well as the purpose and history of the tour. I have also included the press release issued for the southern tour. Stops will include a visit to Mesquite, Laughlin, Boulder City, North Las Vegas, Pahrump and Henderson.

On behalf of AG Laxalt, I would like to extend an invitation for you to attend the event. We would greatly appreciate your help in disseminating this information to help ensure that locals take advantage of this opportunity.

Please let me know if you have any questions, or if you are able to attend.

Attorney General Laxalt Launches "AG for a Day" Tour in Southern Nevada

Las Vegas, NV – Today, Nevada Attorney General Adam Paul Laxalt announced the schedule for the southern portion of his "AG for a Day" statewide Nevada tour beginning on September 19 in Mesquite. The tour brings the Office of the Attorney General to Nevadans all across the State. Although the office represents the interests of all Nevadans each and every day, the “AG for a Day” tour provides an additional opportunity for AG Laxalt and his staff to hear the concerns of residents in each county and to be directly responsive to them. The idea for bringing the office to different locations originated in November of 1968 when Nevada Governor Paul Laxalt, AG Laxalt’s grandfather, created his “Capital for a Day” tour. Governor Laxalt traveled the State with members of his cabinet to identify and address issues of concern. In keeping with grandfather’s tradition, AG Laxalt will be accompanied by members of his staff representing major divisions within the Office of the Nevada Attorney General on his “AG for a Day” tour.

“I strongly believe that the closer the government is to the people, the more effectively we can meet their needs,” said Laxalt. “That is why this ‘AG for a Day’ tour is dedicated to bringing the Office of the Attorney General directly to the people of Nevada.”

Collectively, the Office will present on topics affecting local residents such as open government, trends in consumer fraud, domestic violence, guardianships and elder abuse, taxation and local government finance, and military legal services. Following the presentations, AG Laxalt and his staff will listen to the concerns of residents and be there to answer any questions.

“Each county, city and town in Nevada has unique needs and is impacted differently by decisions made at the state level,” Laxalt continued. “This is why it is so important for state agencies to listen to their concerns and identify issues that matter to the people they serve. The ‘AG for a Day’ tour allows Nevadans to learn about the Office, and plays an important role in providing what Nevadans need, expect and deserve from their elected leaders.”

Beginning in Fallon, the tour began in northern Nevada. Southern tour stops will include Mesquite, Laughlin, Boulder City, North Las Vegas, Pahrump and Henderson, respectively.

Quote of the Day

"In Nevada, the criminal justice system has too often not been a system of corrections, so much as a system of incarceration without doing much meaningful to correct the drivers of criminal behavior. The approach has more often been to warehouse an offender. Out of sight, out of mind."

— Democratic Assemblyman Steve Yeager

From the Editors

Yeager's statement is on a big criminal justice reform bill that is up for consideration. It is by no means an easy sell, as our story explains. We'll stay on it.

Meanwhile, prosecutors this morning recommended 33 months in prison and $249,900 in fines or restitution for former Democratic state Senate Majority Leader Kelvin Atkinson, who pleaded guilty in Las Vegas federal court to wire fraud.

The plea agreement Atkinson reached indicates he siphoned nearly half a million dollars from his campaign account and used $75,000 of campaign funds to help open a downtown bar, The Urban Lounge, as we included in our story:

According to the agreement, between 2010 and 2017, Atkinson deposited $1,206,166 in his campaign account while reporting $1,113,066 on his disclosures. At the same time, he withdrew $1,218,212 from account while reporting $764,268 — a difference of $453,944.

The agreement states "at least $100,000 (was used) to pay personal credit cards for personal expenses, at least $75,000 to open and operate a Las Vegas night club, $20,000 to lease a 2018 Jaguar automobile, and approximately $8,600 to repay a personal loan."

We'll keep updating as we learn more.

Why Rigging an Election is Impossible

Republican officials, voting experts, and others continue to rebut Donald Trump's claim the 2016 election will be "rigged" due to large scale fraud. See the Brennan Center's resources explaining why voter fraud is virtually nonexistent and how to protect against problems of intimidation, discrimination, and disruption if private citizens are mobilized to "watch" the polls. Election officials and nonpartisan civic groups are also gearing up to make sure voting runs smoothly.
